TRACTION HEADS BARE METHOD OF INCREASE IN VALUATION CLAIMS

Actual Cost of Capital Additions Are Added to Court Total.

SYSTEM LAYS BASIS FOR FARE ARGUMENT

Attorney for Company Challenges Questions Hartman Asks.

AVERAGE CAR'S AGE CALLED 17½ YEARS

The Capital Traction Co. yesterday told the Public Utilities Commission that although it had insisted on the use of reproduction new costs in valuing its property between the years 1914 and 1925, when prices rose sharply, it has, during the last three years, when prices have remained about level or declined, increased its valuation claims by adding capital additions at actual cost.

This increase has amounted to $223,264.72 since the District Court of Appeals fixed the valuation of the company, on a reproduction new theory, at $25,756,880 as of January 1, 1925. The company claims a valuation of $26,080,144.72 as of December 31, 1928, and this is the basis of its claim for a 10-cent cash fare with four tokens for 30 cents for itself and its competitor.

The change in the valuation methods used by the company was emphasized by G. Thomas Dunlop, attorney for the company, in the course of the second day of the public hearing before the Utilities Commission on the higher-fare petition.

Hartman Queries Challenged.

Dunlop challenged questions asked of company witnesses by Commissioner Harleigh H. Hartman, vice chairman of the utilities commission, and Hartman said that the purpose of his questions was to give the commission some information on reproduction costs so that it could take these costs into consideration in line with court decisions. There was a brief colloquy which ended with Dunlop objecting to the questions as not pertinent and irrelevant. Chairman Patrick overruled the objection and Dunlop noted the usual exception.

John H. Hanna, president of the company, who was a joint witness throughout the day with J. E. Heberle, accounting chief of the company, also emphasized the same point in replying to another question put by Hartman that "the net result is that you do not know the reproduction value." Hanna said the company knew what the new additions to its properties had cost and that was all the information needed as to reproduction costs.

The hearing yesterday began with a battle of oratory and legal argument over the question of acceptance of the record of the former effort of the Capital Traction to get higher fares.

Rule Against Company.

As had been expected the commission ruled against the company contention that it was privileged to bring into use any part of the old record it saw fit whether there was objection or not. The argument over this was extended and warm.

Chairman Patrick called on Corporation Counsel William W Bride to state his recollection and interpretation of the agreement with which the former hearings were ended. The 1925 court valuation was a part of the old record and it was over the insertion of this in the record of the present case that the contest began at the hearings on Monday.

Bride said that the old agreement did not contemplate either side giving up any of its legal rights, but that the old record should be available for use, but subject to challenge.

George E. Hamilton, vigorous and fighting patriarch of the street car company, took direct issue with this version and said that the old agreement was a solemn contract which could not be lightly violated, and he quoted from a letter written the company by John W. Childress, former chairman of the commission in the course of which Childress said: "You may use the record in this case in any subsequent hearing for so much as it may be worth."

Fleharty Denies Abrogation.

Ralph B. Fleharty, people's counsel, broke his usual silence during the hearings to say that although he had not been present at the conference at which the agreement had been made, he had been given to understand afterwards that it had not been intended to abrogate the rights of either side.

Dunlop declared that it was a late day for any one to challenge the propriety of the agreement, which meant just what the company said it meant.

Claim to Precedence Upheld by Mrs. Gann

Recognition Demanded as Mark of Respect to U. S., She Says.

MRS. EDWARD E. GANN.

Philadelphia, July 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, in an interview appearing in the August issue of the Ladies Home Journal, talks frankly on the question of precedence which has been agitating the official and social sides of the National Capital for some time.

Mrs. Gann says the Vice President is entertained at official affairs as "a symbol of the United States," and any precedence he may expect, ask for or demand is not asked for as an individual, but in the name of every true American who wishes respect shown to a symbol of his Government.

Explaining that a very generous fraction of the Vice President's duties and responsibility are purely social, Mrs. Gann asks two questions: Who is to attend to all the social part? and Who attends to the social side of things in your home?

"Any woman knows," she says, "what portion of the social duty in a family falls upon the man, and how much more upon the woman of the household, his wife, or sisters, or daughters, whoever must play the part

CANNON CALLED ON TO EXPLAIN LOANS

Tinkham Asks Bishop Whose Money Was Spent in Fight on Smith.

EXPENSE REPORT SILENT

Representative George Holden Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, yesterday called upon Bishop James Cannon, jr., chairman of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the M. E. Church, South, to explain certain unidentified loans and also loans accredited to him, listed in the campaign expense returns of the Anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia.

The representative's request was prompted by Bishop Cannon's recent statement denying he had two loans, totaling $5,000, to the Anti-Smith cause during the last presidential campaign.

Citing the certified expense returns, filed with the clerk of the House of Representatives, Tinkham pointed out that in an account filed November 3, there appears an entry marked "Loans $1,950" without explanation of the source. On the disbursement side of this account, he said, Bishop Cannon's name appears only once for "traveling expense $284."

In the fourth return, filed January 2, he continued, receipts totaled $10,647.25 of which $7,709.45 was represented by loans from undisclosed source.

"Bishop Cannon's traveling expenses rfna along through November, and on November 19 appeared the entry 'payment on loan $1,426.50,'" the representative said. "On the same date was the entry 'Board of Temperance and Social Service for clerical help, $600,'" and on December 4 another entry of $1,122.25.

"On February 15 a supplemental report was filed covering the period from January 1 to February 11. The unidentified loans still continued. The entries were as follows: 'January 7, loan $80; January 14, loan $100; January 22, loan $171; January 29, loan $100; February 9, loan $672.51.' Two days later, under date of February 11, appeared the following entry: 'Received from James Can-

$400,000,000 DEBT POSTPONED BY U. S.

HOOVER APPROVES NOTE

The aftermath of a debt crisis, averted by the French government, came yesterday with announcement at the Treasury of a letter from Secretary Mellon informing France that the Secretary "with the approval of the President hereby agrees with the French Republic" to postponement of France's payment to this country of $400,000,000 for postwar supplies.

The unique settlement, effected in the promise of a Cabinet member with presidential approval in advance of approval by Congress, came two days before the debt was due, after a last-minute approval of the Mellon-Berenger postponement agreement by the French Parliament, followed by Premier Poincare's retirement because of ill health and the succession of Aristide Briand to the premiership for the twelfth time.

Mr. Mellon's letter, dated July 29, and addressed to French Ambassador Paul Claudel, had the following in the lower left-hand corner after the signature:

"Approved: Herbert Hoover, President."

An answer from Ambassador Claudel also dated Monday, said that the French government accepts "the conditions expressed in your communication."

The debt postponement lost in Congress when Senate approval of the resolution on the day of congressional adjournment reached the House too late for the Speaker to affix his signature after the House had expressed its intention by approving the measure before minor readjustments in conference.

"It is my expectation," Secretary Mellon wrote, "that the Mellon-Berenger agreement will receive consideration at an early date."

Secretary Mellon's letter follows:

"July 29, 1929.

"My Dear Mr. Ambassador:

"The agreement between the French republic and the United States, known as the Mellon-Berenger

ROTARY TURN SWELLS LEAD IN POST COUNT

Present Traffic Method Has 1,305 Votes; No. 3 Favored by 969.

COST OF BALLOTS MAY DECIDE RULE

A. A. A. Members Say Views on Turns Unsolicited by Organization.

HASTEN TO GIVE IDEAS UTTERANCE

LEFT TURN BALLOT

The total number of ballots cast up to yesterday in The Post poll to determine the preference of local motorists as to the most desirable method of making a left turn, yesterday stood at 2,441. The vote was divided as follows:

By WILLIAM ULLMAN.

Farther out in front than it has been at any time during The Post referendum, the present rotary left turn appears more and more to be the one that most Washingtonians desire.

That at least is the story told by the balloting up to yesterday noon, when Turn No. 1, the method now practiced at all controlled intersections, took a commanding lead with 1,305 votes cast in its favor.

Turn No. 2, designated as the compromise between the rotary and the uniform prattle, received only 16 additional votes, bringing its total to 167.

Turn No. 3, the Hoover code method, gained 155 advocates, thereby increasing its strength to 969 votes.

These are the unvarnished facts which The Post has no intention to modify in any respect, since it seeks not to force any particular method, but only has advocated uniformity from the start. It was made clear in launching its poll that The Post sought only to carry the case to the people and let them indicate their preference.

Pedestrians May Vote.

This, despite the acrusation leveled at The Post by an official of the American Automobile Association yesterday that this newspaper is endeavoring to "put over" the type of turn designated on the ballot as No. 1, in deferende to the wishes of the traffic office. This, of course, is emphatically not the case, for The Post from the start has favored the uniform type advocated by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety.

The Post, however, in calling for a vote by the people of Washington, has insisted that they be free to express their individual preferences, and that is the basis on which the referendum will continue to a finish.

Attention has been called to the desire of many pedestrians to express their opinions by ballot. Many of them have inquired whether they could vote. The answer is decidedly in the affirmative, since the purpose is to obtain the sentiment of all who are affected by the traffic regulations, and pedestrians, no less than motorists, fall into that class. The Post, therefore, again invites pedestrians to fill out the ballot and mail it in to be counted.

In their enthusiasm to vote, a number of voters have failed to mark the ballot so as to indicate the particular left turn favored. In all, there have been fifteen failures to do so. These ballots, which bar only the names and addresses of voters, are being re-

HOOVER CALLS PARITY AMPLE U. S. DEFENSE

Rebuke to Commander of Legion Is Intimated in Letter.

BRITISH ACCEPTANCE OF PRINCIPLE NOTED

Great Britain Has Agreed to American View, Is Reminder.

NATION'S PROTECTION TO BE INSISTED UPON

Misinformation Is Seen as Basis of McNutt Naval Strength Demand.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Naval parity means a "complete defense of the United States in any contingency," President Hoover declared yesterday in a letter to Paul V. McNutt, national commander of the American Legion. The President replied to a warning issued by the national commander several days ago that the Legion demanded an American Navy equal to that of Great Britain.

The Legion commander's statement, prompted by the President's announcement that work would be held up on three cruisers authorized by Congress, also carried an implied challenge to the President's authority to take such action. Hoover, speaking for the first time since his statement that raised such a controversy, rather intimated that the Legion commander had spoken too quickly.

His letter was interpreted not only as a rebuke for the Legion commander, but other critics of his policy. There is rather the suggestion that if what he has in mind were fully understood, and which it is rather difficult for him to make known, that the criticism would be found to be unwarranted.

Cooperation Need Implied.

The letter also implies that the Legion should cooperate with him instead of trying to embarrass him.

The big accomplishment of his negotiations with Premier MacDonald, which he apparently thinks has been lost sight of in the rush to take exception to the holding up of work on the three cruisers, is that Great Britain for the first time accepts this country's interpretation of parity.

"I am glad to have your assurance that the American Legion supports the policy of parity for our Navy with that of Great Britain," Mr. Hoover wrote the legion commander.

"This principle is enunciated by our naval authorities as a complete defense of the United States in any contingency and defense is all that we seek.

Parity Policy Forward Step.

"The first step of the renewed consideration of reduction of the excessive world naval armament has been acceptance of that principle as a preliminary to discussion between Great Britain and the United States. This is a forward step of the first importance.

"It seems to me that every person of common sense will agree that it is far better to at least try to establish such a relation by agreement before we resign ourselves to continued attempts to establish it by rival constructions programs on both sides of the Atlantic. We need not disguise the fact that (aside from the capital ship limitations under the Washington treaty) competitive building has been in progress on both sides since the Great War, and we have arrived only at disparity, not parity. It creates burdensome expenditure, a constant stream of suspicion, ill will and misunderstand-

JACKSON AND O'BRINE IN NORMAL CONDITION

Latter Gains 2 Pounds in Passing More Than Two Weeks Aloft.

CAME DOWN BECAUSE OF FRIEND'S FUNERAL

Death of George Lambert and Not Order Was Cause, They Assert.

St. Louis, Mo., July 30 (A.P.).—The monoplane St. Louis Robin, piloted by Dale ("Red") Jackson and Forest O'Brine, glided to a safe landing at Lambert-St. Louis Field at 7:38:30 p. m. (central standard time) tonight, ending a record-breaking endurance flight of 420 hours 21 minutes and 30 seconds.

The plane made a perfect landing in the middle of the field with about 15,000 spectators watching it.

The St. Louis Robin was towed to a space beside the hangar. The field was muddy from a rainstorm that began late today. During the long flight in the air the dust was inches thick.

Ship Lands in Glare.

The plane landed in the glare of flood lights around the field. Flight officials and members of the ground crew assisted the fliers from the plane and with the assistance of guards made a lane through the crowd to a hangar.

A few moments later O'Brine and Jackson were examined by physicians and entered an automobile which took them to a downtown hotel, where they were to rest tonight after speaking over the radio in a nation-wide hookup.

Both men were pronounced in excellent physical condition. O'Brine had gained 2 pounds since he and Jackson went up July 13, scaling 140 pounds tonight, as against 138 pounds when the flight began. Jackson's weight was the same as it was when he went aloft, 154 pounds.

The heart action of both men was pronounced normal, and physicians said their hearing was normal. They conversed easily with reporters and friends in the hangar.

Landed Because of Funeral.

The fliers said they were influenced to change their plans to remain aloft 500 hours and decided to land tonight because of the tragic death yesterday of their friend, George Lea Lambert, who was killed in an airplane crash near Lambert-St. Louis Field. Both fliers said they desired to attend the funeral tomorrow afternoon.

Jackson told newspaper men he thought they could have flown the St. Louis Robin 300 hours longer. O'Brine declared they could take the same plane as it now stands and break their own record.

Both men agreed that their biggest thrill of the entire flight was this afternoon, when they flew low over the field and saw a crowd of 8,000 to 10,000 watchers standing in the rain waiting to see them land.

Both said the first 100 hours of flying were the hardest and after that it was not bad at all.

Both in Good Shape.

When asked if he could walk well, O'Brine said he felt "just a little weak." Jackson said he "felt fine." Both men were able to help elbow their way through the crowd and

COUZENS REVEALS TARIFF DECISIONS

AUTO DUTIES REDUCED

The veil of secrecy surrounding the actions of Republican members of the Senate finance committee with respect to the Hawley-Smoot Tariff bill was ripped apart yesterday by Senator Couzens (Republican), of Michigan. As a result it was revealed that the committee today reached the following decisions:

The existing duty of 25 per cent ad valorem on automobiles and motor trucks is to be retained but the countervailing provision in the present law and in the House bill was stricken out. This means, substantially a reduction from an average of about 32 per cent ad valorem to 25 per cent.

Shingles are restored to the free list, the 25 per cent ad valorem rate specified by the House bill having been rejected.

Logs of fir, spruce, cedar, or western hemlock, upon which the House bill and the present law provide a duty of $1 per thousand feet, are placed on the free list and the provision for retaliatory duties on these commodities are eliminated from the bill.

Maple and birch boards, planks, clapboards, ceiling and ship timber are placed on the free list, the Senate committee members refusing to accept the House duty of 15 per cent ad valorem. This duty was retained on hardwood flooring because of the 25 per cent duty now imposed by Canada upon similar American products.

Senator Couzens served notice on his Republican colleagues on the finance committee that hereafter he would not be bound by the injunction of secrecy laid upon the majority members when they began their closed sessions last week. He reserves the right to communicate to his constituents any action taken in the secret sessions and has already followed this course with respect to several of the items heretofore mentioned.

Liquidation of Bonds Of Philippines Urged

Governor General Dwight F. Davis, of the Philippine Islands, has recommended that the $6,000,000 bond issue floated ten years ago to improve the Port of Manila be liquidated with the cash surplus in the Insular Treasury for 1928, the War Department announced yesterday.

The surplus funds for the year were $6,589,635.73. The liquidation of this bond issue will relieve the islands of a heavy interest rate. The bonds were payable in 30 years, but redeemable in ten years. The ability of the Philippine government to redeem the bonds within ten years is said to be evidence of the excellent financial condition of the government.

VIRGINIA YOUTH, 18, DROWNS IN POTOMAC

RESCUE EFFORTS FUTILE

Unable to swim, 18-year-old Lionzy Brown, of aPrk Lane, Va., last night was drowned in the waters of the Potomac River near Anchor Inn when the canoe in which he and a companion were paddling up the river capsized.

Vernon R. Payne, 17 years old, of Park Lane, Brown's companion, strove frantically to save his friend, but the latter, fully clothed, sank before Payne could reach his side.

J. B. Lyon, 23 years old, of 1221 Hamilton street northwest, who witnessed the accident, which occurred about 25 yards from the float at Anchor Inn, dived repeatedly in the 12 feet of water and after ten minutes recovered Brown's body.

Capt. "Will" Reynolds, veteran river man, and Policeman Charles Birkigt, of the Harbor Precinct, who patrols the upper Potomac River, arrived at Anchor Inn with a pulmoter and other first aid equipment a few minutes after the boy's body was recovered. Reynolds and Birkigt, aided by several Red Cross members who were up the river at the time, endeavored to resuscitate Brown while waiting the arrival of No 1 Rescue Squad of the Fire Department.

Members of the rescue squad, with Drs. E. S. Lyddane and C. E. Kennedy, of Georgetown Hospital, worked from 8:30 o'clock until 10 o'clock. Dr. Lyddane then pronounced him dead. The body was removed to the District Morgue in the Harbor Precinct police launch.

Payne told police the canoe capsized when he moved from his position in the bow of the frail craft to get a box of matches. Brown, who was paddling in the stern, made a grab for the side of the canoe, but missed the rail. He was thrown head first into the water. When he arose, he was about 5 feet away from the swamped boat and sank before Payne could reach his side.

Brown is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noble L. Brown, four brothers and a sister. He was employed in a cement plant with his father in Rosslyn, Va.

Prince Mdivani to Wed Opera Star, Is Report

Paris, July 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—It is reported here that Prince Mdivani, whose divorce from Pola Negri, film star, is now pending before the Paris courts, will eventually marry the American opera star, Mary McCormick. One condition which the prospective bride is understood to have imposed is that Prince Mdivani must first become an American citizen.

COMMANDER RICHARD E. BYRD.

Records Show Commander Never Has Asked Test for U. S. License.

Commander Richard E. Byrd, generally considered one of America's foremost fliers, is not a licensed pilot.

Under the regulations of the Department of Commerce the first man to fly over the North Pole can not pilot a licensed airplane in an interstate flight. The commander of the intrepid crew, which fought its way through the Atlantic fog to land safely on the French coast at Ver-sur-Mer, is not a qualified aviator in the eyes of the Department of Commerce. The officer who now commands an aerial expedition at the bottom of the earth will be subject to discipline if

Germam Faces Jail Term For "Death Ray" Swindle

Man Who Duped Kaiser's Staff With Promise to Destroy Whole Armies Tried in Berlin for Postwar Activities; Fate Hinges on Test of Device.

Berlin, July 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Albert Brehahn, the man who claimed to have invented a death ray capable of destroying entire armies and who offered to demonstrate the workability of his device "by killing all the Jews of Berlin in three minutes," is facing a prison sentence of ten years for swindling. It is charged he deceived a great many wealthy and famous people with his get-rich-quick schemes, including Gen. Ludendorff and, some say, the former Kaiser himself.

The Berlin court which is trying the case has subpenaed several experts from the war department to be present when Brehahn is to explain the system on which his famous death ray was to operate. If it is shown that his death ray is no more dangerous than ordinary sun rays, Brehahn will be tried on a charge of obtaining funds under false pretenses. He awaits the outcome of the experts' test in a cell.

Brehahn was hailed as the "savior of Germany" in 1917 when he let it be known through the newspapers that he was well on the way to the discovery of rays that would bring immediate death to any person exposed to their action.

He claimed that his machine, when placed in the front line and set go-

Jackson was at the controls when the plane landed. It swooped twice across the field as the crowd cheered wildly and then swept down across the field to a landing after zooming over a hangar.

The crowd got beyond control as soon as the plane was brought to earth. Police lines were swept aside as the throng charged toward the airplane. Several persons were injured, none reported seriously, in the wild dash. Jackson and O'Brine shook hands as they went through the crowd.

"Dress Up" to Land.

Both embraced their wives, who had remained at the field almost constantly since the flight began. The fliers were "dressed up" for their reception, Jackson exhibiting a neatly combed head of hair and both were cleaned up as well as they could be, considering their cramped quarters.

The airport ground forces, aided by police, succeeded in protecting the plane from serious damage by souvenir hunters. It was hauled by a tractor into a hangar virtually intact.

The fliers said in their interview that Jackson had handled the plane during all refueling contacts, with O'Brine handling the hose. O'Brine handled the plane while Jackson made repairs on the engine.

The fliers posed for photographers beside their plane and in the hangar before they left for their hotel suite.

Sponsor Is Pleased.

Maj. William B. Robertson, president of the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Co., which sponsored the flight, said he was "tickled to death" with the outcome. "The boys look like they were ready to start again," he said.

Both men emphasized in their interviews that it was the death of Lambert, son of Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, official observer for the flight for the National Aeronautic Association, rather than a request from Maj. Robertson to come down, that caused them to land.

They said they had decided to land tonight before Maj. Robertson asked them to come down because they wanted to attend Lambert's funeral. They had been associated with young Lambert at Lambert-St. Louis Field. Lambert, for whose father the field was named, was a flying instructor.

Reward Offered to End Flight.

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—The Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Co., which offered the St. Louis endurance fliers $100 for every hour they stayed up beyond the previous record, decided today to pay them more money if they would come down.

Frank H. Russell, vice president of the Curtiss company, announced that he had informed the fliers that the prize money would be gladly paid on the basis of 500 hours of completed flight if they would come down now. When this announcement was made the time stood at approximately 414 hours.

Russell said today he had suggested discontinuance of the flight because the primary object of testing the endurance of plane and motor had been achieved.

"Whether or not this remains a world record for long," he said, "is now of less importance than not giving any moral incentive to the fliers to continue beyond a point they consider wise and sane."

Lindberghs Near Landing Crash-Up

Continue On to New York After Tire Bursts in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, July 30 (A.P.).—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were near a crash-up in their airplane here late today when a tire blew out as they were landing at Port Columbus, and the plane was damaged slightly, but after quick repairs were made, the Lindberghs resumed their flight from St. Louis to New York.

The bursting of the tire caused the airplane to rock dangerously. A wing grazed the ground and the tail skid was bent, but Col. Lindbergh righted the craft and brought it to a stop without further damage.

The colonel and his bride were returning from the Pacific Coast after an inspection of the lines of the new Transcontinental Rail-Plane Service of the Transcontinental Air Transport Co.

"Corpse" Regains Life As Mourners Look On

Beckley, W. Va., July 30.—While relatives were gathered around the coffin of Mrs. Annie Farley, 84, at Flat Top on the Princeton road, the shroud covering the aged woman's body was seen to move.

The mourners investigated. Restoratives were applied and, ten hours after her supposed death, Mrs. Farley "returned to life."

Physicians say the woman may live for weeks, perhaps months. She "died" of an incurable malady.

NEW SMALL MONEY EFFECT IS ANALYZED

JUMP IS $8,500,000

Richmond, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Introduction of the new small-sized currency was the chief factor in increasing Federal Reserve note circulation in the Fifth district more than $8,500,000,000, according to the monthly review of business and agricultural conditions released here tonight by William W. Hoxton, district chairman and Federal Reserve agent.

"Between June 15 and July 15," the review states, "the circulation of Federal Reserve notes rose from $66,679,000 to $75,250,000, and member bank reserve deposits declined from $70,693,000 to $65,696,000, having reached the low point of $61,198,000 on July 9, the lowest for several years." The new currency was placed in circulation July 10.

"Between the middle of June and the middle of July," it is noted in the district summary, "there was a moderate credit expansion in the Fifth Federal Reserve district, member banks increasing their outstanding loans and also their rediscounts at the reserve bank. Reporting member banks in leading cities increased their loans on stocks and bonds by $13,737,000 during the month, but reduced their other loans $1,122,000. At the middle of July the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond was rediscounting less for city member banks than a year ago, but country banks were borrowing slightly more this year.

Debits Seasonally Larger.

"Debits to individual accounts in 24 Fifth district cities during the four weeks ended July 10 this year were seasonally larger than debits during the preceding four weeks, and were also larger than in the same period a year earlier, ended July 11 1928.

"Deposits in both mutual savings and member banks rose during June, but at the end of the month deposits in member banks were lower than on June 30 a year ago.

"Business failures in the Fifth district were more numerous and liabilities were greater in June, 1929, than in other recent Junes, but the record of the first half of this year was better in both number of insolvencies and liabilities involved than the record of the first half of 1928.

"Employment is about up to seasonal level, and is better than a year ago. Coal production in June was perhaps a little above the average for this time of year, and total production this calendar year exceeded that of the first six months of 1928. The textile situation did not improve materially during June and early July, but continued better than in June and July last year.

Cotton Prices Recover.

"Cotton prices declined about $2.50 a bale last month, but recovered during the third week in July. On the whole prospects for agriculture appear to be fairly good in the Fifth district this year, although wet and cool weather retarded growth and prevented proper cultivation of many fields.

"Retail trade in June, in so far as reflected in department store sales, was better than in June, 1928, and aggregate sales during the first half of this year exceeded sales in the first half of 1928, but wholesale trade in June was less than in June last year in all lines for which figures are available except shoes."

In a summary of Reserve Bank operations in the district, the review states:

"During the month ended July 15, 1929, the demand for Reserve Bank credit increased, and rediscounts for member banks held by the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond rose from $54,753,000 on June 15 to $58,931,000 on July 15. Total earning assets of the Reserve Bank declined during the month, however, from $63,451,000 to $62,191,000, due to a reduction in the holdings of bankers' acceptances purchased in the open market.

Effect of Small Currency.

"The introduction of the new small size currency on July 10 raised the circulation of Federal Reserve notes materially and also lowered the member banks' reserve accounts to some extent, both of these changes probably being of temporary nature. Between June 15 and July 15 the circulation of Federal Reserve notes rose from $66,679,000 to $75,250,000, and member bank reserve deposits declined from $70,693,000 to $65,696,000, having reached the lowest point for several years.

"The several changes in the statement mentioned above, with others of less importance, raised the cash reserves of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond from $62,721,000 on June 15 to $89,874,000 on July 15, and brought the ratio of cash reserves to note and deposit liabilities combined up from 59.83 per cent last month to 62.92 at the middle of July.

"In comparison with figures shown on the Reserve Bank statement on July 15, 1928, those for the corresponding date this year show an increase in rediscounts for member banks from $56,678,000 to $58,931,000, but the total earning assets of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond declined during the year from $67,301,000 to $62,191,000, the reduction being caused by decreased investments in open market paper this year. The circulation of Federal Reserve notes rose from $53,626,000 on July 15, 1928, to $75,250,000. Member bank reserve deposits rose slightly during the year, from $64,871,000 on July 15, 1928, to $65,696,000 on July 15, 1929. The cash reserves of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond stood at $60,055,000 at the middle of July a year ago, but totaled $89,874,000 on July 15 this year, and the ratio of cash reserves to note and deposit liabilities combined increased from 50.49 per cent to 62.92 per cent during the year."

Funeral Is Conducted For Mrs. Mary Schenk

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., July 30.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Luck Schenk, 80, widow of R. B. Schenk, were conducted from Walnut Grove Baptist Church, of which she was a member, yesterday afternoon by Rev. PAY BOARD ADVISES GENERAL INCREASE

Advances Over Schedules of 1908 Range From 58 to 105 Per Cent.

CIVIL WAGES COMPARED

The Interdepartmental Pay Board which convened in April to harmonize the pay schedules of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey and Public Health Service has recommended that Congress increase the pay for the entire personnel of these branches of the Government service.

The board grouped the personnel into four classifications for its study—officers, warrant officers, nurses and enlisted men. The average increases in pay for these groups range from 58 per cent for the officers to 105 per cent for the nurses over the schedules enacted in 1908 which were made the basis of the report.

The actual increases asked for officers and enlisted men over their present pay is 44 and 25 per cent respectively. This is because they are being paid under schedules that were legislated in 1922 whereas the nurses and the warrant officers are still receiving pay under the 1908 schedules.

Should Congress adopt the recommendations of the Pay Board it would mean that all allowances would be eliminated and rental deducted where officers occupy governmental quarters; that a base pay would be established for each grade; that pay would be based upon responsibility, and that in so far as practicable no junior would receive more pay than a senior.

The board further recommended that "until such time as the widely varying systems of promotion in use in the several services and the actual advancement of personnel thereunder shall be more nearly uniform, increases in pay in the grades of second lieutenant to major inclusively and corresponding grades in the other services be based on total length of commissioned service rather than on service in grade.

Private Life Pay Compared.

"This temporary departure from principle is necessary, it was explained, in order that officers whose promotion is delayed may avoid stagnation in pay as well as in promotion while remaining in one grade, and that such officers may not be required to begin at the base pay for the next grade upon promotion thereto after a prolonged delay.

"Increments on the base pay in the grade of colonel and lieutenant colonel and similar grades in the other branches have been based upon length of service in those grades, with, however, a compensating provision for officers' delay in promotion in reaching those grades. Without this provision, officers whose promotion to the grades of lieutenant colonel and colonel was materially delayed, it was pointed out, would frequently not be able to reach the higher rates of pay and the disparity in pay received by an officer in a service where promotion is regular and an officer in a service where promotion is delayed would become unduly great."

The board has prepared the new schedules "after a careful consideration of the principles of pay legislation in connection with existing conditions in the several services, of the present status of governmental and commercial salaries, of the schedules of pay for the military services enacted in 1908 and of the changes in economic standards and in the value of the dollar."

The board believes that the schedules proposed for the officers are generally proportionate to that of corresponding positions in civil life.

Base Pay Recommended.

The base pay recommended for the various commissioned grades in the Army and corresponding ranks in the other branches are: Major generals, $14,000; brigadier generals, $12,000; colonels, $10,200, with an additional $300 after three years' service in the grade; lieutenant colonels, $8,700, with an additional $300 for each three years in that grade, not to exceed $9,600; majors, $6,000, with an additional $300 for each three years of commissioned service to a maximum of $8,400; captain, $5,100, with an increase of $300 for each three years of commissioned service; first lieutenant, $4,000 and $400 additional for each three years of commissioned service; and second lieutenants, $3,000, with a $400 increase for each three years of commissioned service.

Officers temporarily serving in grades corresponding to general and lieutenant general would receive additional pay of $3,000 and $1,500, respectively, per annum under the proposed schedules, while the commandant of the Coast Guard, the director of the Coast and Geodetic Survey and the surgeon general of the health service would receive the pay of a major general.

When commissioned officers of all grades are assigned to Government quarters and furnished fuel and light, the board has recommended that the following sums be deducted from the yearly salaries of the items: All general officer grades, $1,800; colonels and lieutenant colonels, $1,500; majors, $1,320; captains, $1,080; first lieutenants, $840; second lieutenants, $600; commissioned warrant officers, $600; warrant officers, $480.

In the case of warrant and commissioned warrant officers, the board has recommended the discontinuance of subsistence allowances established by law. Warrant officers of the Army (except those of the Army Mine Planter Service), Navy Marine Corps and Coast Guard would receive a base pay of $2,550 yearly from the date of warrant, with an increase of $150 per annum for each three years of service in any grade in any of the services, not exceeding 30 years.

Warrant Officers' Schedule.

Warrant officers of the Army Mine Planter Service would receive from $2,500 to $3,000, with increases each three years of service of $150. Commissioned warrant officers of the Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard would receive $3,900 a year when commissioned with increases of $300 a year for each three years of commissioned service not to exceed 21 years. The proposed schedule would effect a mean increase of pay of 87 per cent for warrant officers and 113 per cent for the commissioned warrant officers over the 1908 pay schedule.

The report of the pay board recommended that the "existing discrepancies between tre pay of the enlisted men of the several services be removed" and that "a single pay schedule applicable to all services be instituted with salaries ranging from $21 a month for the seventh grade to $150 a month for the first grade for the first enlistment." There would be a 10 per cent increase in the base pay for the second enlistment and a 5 per cent increase for each enlistment thereafter not to exceed a total of 25 per cent of the base pay.

The board further recommended that enlisted personnel of the Navy and Coast Guard receive $5 per month for clothing. Under the present system they are given no allowance for clothing after the initial outfit. The board would also remove the restriction on the percentage of the authorized number of enlisted men of the Army and Marine Corps in each pay grade, leaving the distribution to the discretion of the heads of the respective departments.

The nurses serving in the Army, Navy and Public Health Service would be taken off the subsistence allowances now provided and placed on regular pay schedules running from $1,500 for nurses to $4,000 for superintendents. These sums would be increased each three years by $120.

Reasons for Big Increase.

"Although the mean increase throughout the various grades in the Nurse Corps provided by this schedule over that of 1910 is 105 per cent, slightly greater than the increase in the cost of living in that period, yet the great improvement in the standards of employment for women and the existing difficulty of maintaining the Nurse Corps at full strength because of existing rates of pay warrant the present recommendation," the report stated.

"Normally," the report continued, "throughout the three Nurse Corps the members are quartered in hospitals or nurses' quarters or other public lodgments. In certain cases, however, such as nurses attached to dispensaries, they must provide their own quarters and accordingly an allowance of $60 per month is recommended for these members of the Nurse Corps who are not provided with Government quarters."

Tinkham also points out numerous entries in the various accounts crediting loans to the bishop, but suggested some of these entries are in a different typewriting and bear the appearance of having been inserted after the original typing of the report.

In concluding his lengthy public statement, the representative declared that, "In light of the public record a substantial portion indicates that Bishop Cannon was the financial mainstay of the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia, up to the time that the $17,000 'donation' was received from E. C. Jameson, of New York, last February, and in light of Bishop Cannon's own recent indignant denials I believe that the public will be interest to know (1) whether the unidentified loans in the returns were made by Bishop Cannon and, if not, from whence the money came; (2) whether the loans credited to Bishop Cannon were his own personal funds and, if not, whose funds they were."

ZEPPELIN TO START FOR U.S. TOMORROW

21 Passengers Will Make Flight to Lakehurst; Nine Americans.

NEW SAFETY DEVICES

Friedrichshafen, July 30 (A.P.).—Final preparations were rushed today for the start at dawn Thursday of the Graf Zeppelin's next cruise to America. Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the big ship, said he was thoroughly satisfied with the final motor tests, and most of the 21 passengers who will make the voyage were ready to be assigned to their cabins aboard.

The passenger list includes three women, two of whom are Americans, and in all nine Americans are booked for the trip. One of the women, Mrs. Henry J. Pierce, of New York, was aboard the Zeppelin on the unsuccessful flight in May which ended in southern France.

Increased precautions for safety have been taken by the constructors for the forthcoming venture. One new contrivance, it is stated, will enable the airship to float on the water if she has to come down in midocean. This invention consists of an airtight rubber tubbing of considerable size attached to the bottom of the passenger gondola. Another innovation is a number of protective pneumatic buffers, attached to the lower surfaces of the five gondolas containing the motors.

World Flight to Follow.

The voyage of the Graf Zeppelin to America will in a way be a trial flight prior to the circumnavigation of the world by the German craft, scheduled to start from Lakehurst a few days after the ship's arrival there.

The itinerary of this round-the-world trip called for the departure from Lakehurst, according to an announcement, on August 7, with the completion of the world circuit at the same airport on August 29.

The flight will be made eastward, Capt. Von Schiller said today. The Pacific route will follow the "great circle" route to the north. "We will not be able to go to Hawaii," he said.

Names of Passengers.

The passenger list follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Pierce, New York; Mr. and Mrs. George Crouse, Syracuse, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Gregoir Gourevitch, Paris; Frank Earnest Nicholson, writer, New York; Nelson Morris, New York; Richard J. Burke, San Francisco; Herbert Seidel, Saginaw, Mich.; Sir Hubert Wilkins, the noted explorer; Prof. Ernst Milarch, Bonn University; Werner Stauffacher, Basle, Swiss industrialist; Carl Schuez, Kiel merchant; Dr. Leialer Kiep, Hamburg-American Line; Count Alfred Soden, of the Zeppelin Works; Dr. Walter Spiess, German Transportation Ministry; Mr. Channing, Berne, Switzerland; Count Albrecht Montegelas, German newspaper man; Joachim Rickard, Boston, Mass., now en route from Madrid; Heins Von Eschwerge Lichberg, German newspaper man.

"The planning, the adjusting, the arranging, the seeing to it that So-and-So is not hurt, that another social function is arranged for at a future date—all this is a woman's natural work, and in this work she always has to be the right hand, dexterous in a good, warm, social handclasp.

"Unfortunately, brother has no wife, but at the same time it is very necessary that he be accompanied to these functions by some woman of his immediate household who is in the position to return many courtesies.

Symbol of Government.

"At these official affairs he is being entertained as a symbol of the Government of the United States, its power and its prestige, as a symbol of that Government he will most naturally see to it that both he and his official hostess, no matter how humble they personally may be, are accorded every respect that the symbol of our Government should receive from all right-minded people.

"Any precedence which he may expect, ask for, or demand is not asked for as an individual, but in the name of every true American citizen who wishes due respect shown as a symbol of his Government.

"It is not to bunting, as bunting, but to the flag as the flag that hats always are taken off. To any patriot this will seem mere common sense. He believes that to do less would be in just so much to fail short in his sworn duty to defend and uphold the Constitution of the United States."

STRIKERS GRANTED CHANGE OF VENUE

Gastonia Murder Charge Will Be Tried in Charlotte.

GOVERNOR TO SET DATE

Gastonia, N. C., July 30 (A.P.).—Sixteen members and officials of the National Textile Workers Union and affiliated organizations accused of the murder of O. F. Aderholt late today were granted a change of venue to Mecklenburg County.

The case, hearing on which started at a special term of the Gaston Superior Court yesterday, will be resumed in Charlotte at a date to be set by Gov. O. Max Gardner.

The ruling of Judge M. V. Barnhill, of Rocky Mount, named by Gov. Gardner to preside at the special term here, came at the end of a day of affidavits and hearing of a number of witnesses. The defense alleged intimidation of witnesses and attorneys, while the prosecution sought to prevent the case being taken out of the county. Judge Barnhill ordered Amy Schechter, workers' international relief worker; Sophie Melvin, organizer for the Young Pioneers of America, and Vera Buch, National Textile Workers Union organizer, released on $5,000 bail each. Solicitor Carpenter had announced that the first-degree murder charge against them would be amended to second-degree murder.

He ordered Fred Erwin Beal, Southern organizer for the union; Joseph Harrison, union organizer; George Carter, K. O. Byers, W. M. McGinnis, J. C. Hefner, Robert Allen, Russell Knight, N. F. Gibson, K. Y. Hendricks, Delmar Hampton, Clarence Miller and Louis McLaughlin confined in the Gaston County Jail until the first day of the session of Mecklenburg Superior Court, called for resumption of the hearings.

ALEXANDRIA WINS ANNEXATION FIGHT

Arlington County Abandons Plan to Appeal From Judges' Decision.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

On January 1, 1930, the area included within the corporate limits of Alexandria will be increased by approximately four square miles, having an assessed valuation of approximately $5,000,000, and the consequent increase in population will be 5,500, as a result of the decision yesterday of the board of supervisors of Arlington County to drop their appeal of the decision rendered by a special tribunal of three judges awarding to the City of Alexandria the territory asked for in annexation proceedings. While the action of the supervisors was not unexpected, the fact that they had filed notice of appeal led to a feeling of uncertainty, and their final decision was received here yesterday with a great deal of satisfaction.

The effect of the annexation will be far-reaching. The Town of Potomac is included in the annexed territory, which will mean that the town council there will go out of existence at midnight, December 31, and Alexandria will take over all municipal improvements, the members of the police and fire departments will come under the jurisdiction of Alexandria officials, and the property owners of the town will benefit by a lower tax rate. The law provides that the tax rate may not be increased for five years, but the city council of Alexandria already has resolved to apply the existing Alexandria tax rate to Potomac, which will result in a decrease.

Freight Yards Included.

The Potomac freight yards, which have been probably the largest single source of revenue of Arlington County, will be included in the annexed territory, and will pay taxes of approximately $35,000 yearly into the treasury of Alexandria. This city, upon assuming control of the new territory, will pay into the Arlington County treasury a half million dollars, for the school, roads, fire engine houses and fire apparatus, bridge, culverts and other improvements of a permanent nature.

The Alexandria courts will have jurisdiction in cases formerly handled in Potomac, and some of those heard at Arlington Courthouse. Deeds of transfer for property in this section will be recorded in the office of the clerk of the corporation court here, and assessments on real property will be made by Alexandria's commissioner of revenue.

The annexation suit was handled for the city of Alexandria by Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan and the firm of Carlin, Carlin & Hall, of Washington and Alexandria. Arlington County employed an array of counsel, which included John S. Barbour, Capt. Crandall Mackey, Charles T. Jesse, Frank L. Ball, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth and Attorney Walter U. Varney, of Potomac.

Mayor William Albert Smoot, upon hearing of the decision of the Arlington supervisors, issued the following statement yesterday:

"The announcement that the annexation case will finally be closed on January 1 is certainly welcome news to those citizens of both Alexandria and Arlington who are so closely allied by friendships, business and in many other pleasant ways.

Both Sides Fought Hard.

"This case was long drawn out and it was hard fought on both sides, and Arlington's attorneys, backed up by their board of supervisors and other county officials, certainly fought every inch of the way.

"But now that the case will come to an end on January 1, I sincerely hope that both communities will rapidly adjust themselves to the changed conditions and will join hands in every possible way in developing the civic, industrial and social welfare of the entire section."

Alexandria's new city manager, Wallace L. Lawrence, who will assume the duties of his position tomorrow, will have added responsibilities due to the annexation of the new territory, and probably will begin at once laying his plans for the administration of the new territory. If reports which have reached Alexandria concerning Lawrence are accurate, however, he will not be dismayed by the prospect of added duties.

The new territory will, in June of 1930, have a voice in the selection of three members of the city council, the four-year terms of Councilmen Edmund F. Ticer, Robert S. Jones and J. E. W. Timberman expiring September 1, 1930, and the election being held in June. The terms of Mayor William Albert Smoot and Councilman Thomas J. Fannon will expire in 1932. It is regarded as probable that the new territory will enter one or more candidates in the councilmanic race next year.

Room Sought for Expansion.

The suit of Alexandria for the annexation of additional territory was entered for the purpose of providing for natural expansion of the city to the north and west, the only possible directions in which it could expand, and this action was precipitated to a certain extent by agitation in Arlington County for incorporation, which would have "bottled up" Alexandria. A resolution providing for the filing of suit was introduced in the city council by Councilman Timberman. The suit was filed in October, 1927, and the hearings begun in December of that year.

A huge mass of documentary evidence was presented by Alexandria, the most of it being prepared by City Manager Paul Morton, Mayor Smoot and Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan. A section of Fairfax County, to the west of the city, also was included.

The decision of the court awarding the city all the territory asked for in Arlington County was handed down May 3, and the decree of the court entered June 12, last. A short time previously a compromise had been effected with Fairfax County whereby a portion of the territory asked was granted.

The law governing the annexation of new territory provides that all the taxes collected in that territory for five years must be spent within such territory. The new section of the city will, of course, receive the same police and fire protection as the old, and such permanent improvements as may be needed will be included in the annual budget of Alexandria. The schools, which include the George Mason High School and the graded school in Potomac, will become a part of the city's public school system, the buildings and equipment being paid for by Alexandria.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

THE suggestion that Cuba will sell us rum if she can not sell us sugar, made very subtly in a recent statement on behalf of our sister republic, is giving considerable pause to the drys. So far, incidentally, it is one of the few statements put out by either side on the sugar lobby front which has not resulted in an immediate counter barrage from the other side.

The recent talk in Cuba of abrogating—in the event that the sugar tariff fixed by the House is not reduced by the Senate—the treaty which gives the United States the right to search vessels flying the Cuban flag regardless of the twelve mile, hour's sail, or any other restrictions, becomes very interesting in connection with this delicately veiled suggestion.

The idea is put forth most adroitly There is not a word to which the most zealous dry can point and say: "That is a threat." Apparently it is just an appeal for fair play for Cuba, pointing out that so vigilant have been the Cuban officials in preventing rum smuggling that exports of liquor from Cuba to the United States have actually been cut down in the last year.

Incidentally the official figures of this curtailment will cause considerable surprise to those who were on the Florida coast last winter. The supply seemed plentiful, and the price of Bacardi, all things considered, rather reasonable.

* * * *

IT MAY be that if the Cubans put their minds to it, and go into the rum smuggling business in a big way, they can pull themselves out of their present economic difficulties, about which so much has been heard since the domestic beet and cane interests came down to Washington and induced the House to raise the duty against Cuban sugar from $1.76 to $2.40 a hundred pounds.

The drys do not like to make the retort that Cuban rum is coming into the United States by devious means, being reshipped from other islands, for instance, because that is playing into the hands of the wets, whose favorite argument is that prohibition can not possibly be enforced. Actually they are more afraid of the moral effect of Cuba abrogating the treaty than of the possibility that more Bacardi will reach thirsty throats in this country. Such an action by Cuba would beyond doubt inspire Henry Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, to make copious statements. It might even divert Fiorello LaGuardia from his fight to get the Republican nomination for mayor of New York for long enough to make a few comments.

It would certainly look like a step backward, from the dry standpoint, and would certainly be unfortunate, from that same viewpoint, while the Hoover-Wickersham crime commission is studying the whys and wherefores of American lawlessness.

* * * *

SO THAT the Cuban move is shrewdly calculated to win support for Cuba's fight to hold the duty down from the drys, and as the drys outnumber the wets very heavily in the Senate, it would seem excellent policy, especially as many of the wet senators are already committed against raising the sugar duty.

But the sugar war is just commencing. There is no prospect of it ending even when the present tariff bill—assuming that President Hoover signs the bill finally passed, which is by no means sure—is enacted. Even if the sliding scale should in actuality give as much protection to the domestic producers as the House bill the difficulties of the domestic producers will not be solved. And even if the rate in the present law should be left unchanged, Cuba's economic troubles will not be ended.

Mr. Smoot's sliding scale, it is said, would tend to stabilize the price of refined cane sugar, wholesale, in New York, at six cents. The beet people in the most prosperous field in this country, Colorado, say they can not really exist unless they get six a pound at the mills, which, considering freight and the differential against beet sugar because of the preference of some buyers for cane, would mean that the price of refined cane wholesale in New York would have to be about 6½ cents.

On the other hand Cuba is in financial straits now, under the present duty. Her real hope, though diplomacy prevents her talking about it, is to curtail the flow of Philippine sugar into the United States. That happens also to be the eventual desire of the domestic beet producers.

Maybe she can scare the drys into supporting that, despite Secretary Stimson's opposition! The only thing certain is that the sugar battle has just gotten under way.

MARYLAND SEEKING THRESHER MACHINE

First of Its Kind Believed on Some Farm Back in Eastern Shore.

INVENTION OF MINISTER

Ocean City, Md., July 30.—Somewhere on a farm between this resort and Berlin, six miles west, lie the remains of the first wheat threshing machine, invented and patened in 1827 by the Rev. Alexander Campbell, former pastor of Buckingham Presbyterian Church of Berlin, according to the Rev. Dr. Littleton P. Bowen, 96-year-old historian of Worcester County.

Under the direction of the aged minister a search will be made in the next few months for the remains of the original invention in this county.

Dr. Bowen was baptized by the Rev. Mr. Campbell and attended the Presbyterian Church at Buckingham, now Berlin, where Mr. Campbell preached for eleven years.

Termed "Picturesque Days."

Those were the picturesque days of the hand scythe and sickle swinging through the harvest, according to Dr. Bowen. Hard work it was, but with jugs of cider or something stronger at the end of the furrows.

At the Presbyterian manse near Berlin Mr. Campbell dreamed of the wonderful shuttle-cutter and its machine, which in a few years, were to revolutionize farming. The mechanical work on Mr. Campbell's invention was done by Robert Baker, brother-in-law of Dr. Bowen, he states, under the personal direction of the inventive minister. Upon the completion of the original harvesting and threshing machine by Mr. Campbell it was given a tryout in wheat fields near Ocean City and Berlin before great throngs from all over the lower Eastern Shore. It worked.

A patent was obtained on the machine by the Berlin minister soon after. However, lack of sufficient capital prevented it from being placed on the market. Several years later Cyrus McCormick invented his wheat harvester, and in time the original invention of the Worcester County minister was forgotten.

Refers to $50,000 Suit.

Heirs of Mr. Campbell sued McCormick for $50,000 years later, alleging that the patent rights at Washington of Mr. Campbell had been stolen. The matter finally was settled out of court, and records show that heirs of the Worcester County minister received considerations as their part from another party who was interested in some mechanism about the Campbell machine.

In his early manhood Dr. Bowen saw the remains of the original Campbell machine in a shed on a farm near Berlin. He says he remembers the probable location where the machine was stored, and it is upon this slender clue that a search for the relic will be made.

Cumberland, Md., July 30.—Close to 40 girls are registered at Central Y. M. C. A. Camp, on the South Branch of the Potomac, near Springfield, W. Va., succeeding the boys, who broke camp after three weeks' outing. The girls are in charge of Mrs. Fleming W. Burrows, nurse; Mrs. Gerard J. Everstine, sister of Congressman Frederick N. Zihlman, as chaperone, assisted by Misses Louise and Ruth Hanson, Laura Hitchins, Ruth Jett and Betty Brice and Miss Agnes Howatt, directing athletics. Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Kentucky and Delaware are represented among the campers. There will be an extensive athletic program.

Pole-Sitting Attempt Barred in Cumberland

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 30.—The city council yesterday blasted the aspirations of Albert Stengle, a young man of this city, to outdo Avon Foreman, Baltimore's flagpole sitter, when he was refused a permit to erect a pole in Riverside Park upon which he told the authorities he would sit long enough to break the world's pole-sitting record.

Mayor Thomas W. Koon said: "If it was work there might be no objection, but sitting down—that's different."

Councilman Frank Billmeyer suggested that the applicant go up on one of the many hills surrounding Cumberland, where he would have plenty of room and air.

Horse Hits Hurdle; Boy Rider Is Hurt

Dick Brooke, of Warrenton, Is Rushed to Hospital at Washington.

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., July 30.—Dick, fourteen-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Newton M. Brooke, was seriously hurt at noon today when a horse he was riding over jumps fell and rolled upon him.

He was treated by Dr. C. A. Sinclair, of Warrenton, and found to be suffering from a fractured skull, broken nose and other injuries, the extent of which could not be determined. He was rushed to the Emergency Hospital in Washington for an X-ray.

He is a member of the Warrenton Junior Hunt and is regarded as a skilled rider. For a number of years he has showed in the Warrenton pony show with success.

Mrs. Lina M. Bane Dies Following Operation

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., July 30.—Mrs. Lina M. Bane, 64 years old, wife of Miller B. Bane, a farmer of Summit Point, near here, died late yesterday evening at the Charles Town Hospital following a surgical operation. Prior to her marriage she was a Miss Brotherton, daughter of the late Thomas Brotherton, of Clarke County, Va.

Surviving besides her husband, is one sister, Mrs Walter E. Brown, of Summit Point Funeral services will be held at the home in Summit Point Thursday morning at 11 o'clock, with interment in Edge Hill Cemetery here.

Charles Town Man Claimed by Death

Special to The Washington Post.

Charles Town, W. Va., July 30.—Silas M. Hoover, 65 years old, for some years a resident of Washington, who has been engaged in business here for the last few years, died today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Rumsey C. Smithson.

For some time he was connected with the clerical force of the Southern Railway in Washington and was at one time connected with the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. at Brunswick, Md., and Portsmouth, Ohio. When the Southern Railway Co. moved its headquarters to Atlanta, Mr. Hoover resigned and located in Charles Town.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Thursday morning from at St. James' Catholic Church, with interment in Petersville, Md.

FREDERICK ORDERS NEW STREETS LAID

AIDS 13 THOROUGHFARES

Frederick, Md., July 30.—Looking forward to the passage and ratification of a bond issue for $20,000 at the coming municipal election August 5, Mayor Albert Orrison and the councilmen at a special meeting adopted a new ordinance providing for the construction of thirteen new streets. The program is one of the most extensive from the viewpoint of the community development in the history of the town, which has a population of 5,000.

The streets to be improved are: First avenue, from A street to B street; A street, from second avenue to Sixth avenue; Delaware avenue, from West Potomac to D street; Third avenue, from East Potomac to A street; Fifth avenue, from East Potomac to A street, and Florida avenue, from West Potomac to Brunswick street. Under the ordinance the abutting property owners are to bear one-third of the cost.

On July 1 the town paid off a bond issue of $20,000. The last bond issue put out was about four years ago and was for $30,000.

The town has just completed a culvert at Third avenue and A street 193 feet long, with a wing wall of 63 feet. Work on the fill is now being completed. This improvement will cost about $2,700. Recently the block of First avenue, from A to B street, was paved with concrete at a cost of $1,650. Both these improvements are to be met from current funds of the municipality.

Mayor Orrison continues in office until September 1, 1930. Three new councilmen will be chosen to take the places of William F. Good, First Ward; W. R. Williams, Second Ward, and G. B. Dinges, Third Ward. The holdover councilmen are: David Riser, First Ward; J. L. Malone, Second Ward, and Earl Kelley, Third Ward.

Candidates for councilmen are: First Ward, Ernest L. Main, Forest G. Moller and Carroll H. B. Strailman; Second Ward, William C. Nuce, Lloyd S. Truax and William R. Williams; Third Ward, John W. Kaetzel and Chester Phillips. On account of the proposed bond issue and contests for councilmen a heavy vote is expected.

Street Service Hours Changed

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 30.—The squabble over the Salvation Army holding Saturday night meetings at the corner of Baltimore and Mechanic streets, precipitated by the North Mechanic Street Merchants Association, which last week entered objection before the city council, claiming the meetings interfered with business by causing congestion on the streets, was passed along for a month by the council yesterday when it was decided to permit the meetings to be held at that point for a month, changing the hour from 8 to 9 o'clock, the latter being the store closing hour on Saturday nights, although some remain open longer.

This action followed the recommendation of Councilman Herbert Lee Blye, who is police commissioner, by a 3 to 2 vote. Mayor Thomas W. Koon and Commissioner Clifton W. White opposed it. Mayor Koon said the City Hall Plaza at the postoffice was the proper place for meetings.

No meeting was held at the corner Saturday night pending the action of the council, but one was held Sunday night. The Mechanic street merchants claim the Saturday night congestion kept customers from reaching their stores.

Lineman in Danville Burned by Odd Accident

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 30.—J. B. Pruett, 26, city lineman, is recovering at Memorial Hospital from burns about the face and neck caused by the arc of a high voltage wire while he was strapped on the top of an electric light pole. He was not shocked. He was about to make a connection near a 2,300 voltage wire when blue flame leapt from the wire to his face.

He succeeded in climbing down the pole and was hurried to the hospital. Proof that he did not touch the high tension wire is seen in the fact that he was not shocked.

Autoist Stung by Bee; Two Injured in Crash

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 30.—When a bee stung Lawrence Hunt, of Roanoke, while he was driving his automobile to Lynchburg this morning, he allowed his car to get out of his control and it dashed into a telephone pole. He and his sister, Mrs. G. L. Cook, were hurt. They were picked up by M. F. Trader, a Lynchburg lawyer, and brought here, where they were given attention. Both were cut and bruised and Mrs. Cook had a scalp wound which required several stitches to close. The accident occurred 10 miles west of Lynchburg.

POTOMAC FIREMEN READY FOR PARTY

BUREAU OF THE POST.
ARLINGTON COUNTY
Tel. Clar 500. Clarendon, Va.

Plans have been completed by the Potomac Fire Department for its fifth annual lawn party and carnival which opens for three nights beginning tonight. It will be held on the vacant lot at the corner of Mount Vernon and Peyton avenues.

The feature of the three-day affair is the contest for the most popular young lady attending. The winner will be awarded, in addition to the engraved silver loving cup, many useful articles which have been donated by the local merchants. The committee hopes to have at least one contestant from St. Elmo, Del Ray, Abington, Hume Springs, Braddock, Mount Ida, Cottage Park, Virginia Highlands, Rosecrest and Alexandria.

The proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the members of the department who will attend the annual State firemen's convention at Lexington early in August.

The board of supervisors at its meeting yesterday gave the department permission to take one piece of the county's apparatus which will be well decorated and bearing the name "Arlington County."

Real estate men of Arlington and Fairfax counties and Alexandria City were being warned yesterday to be on the look out for a well-dressed young man giving his name as J. G. Martin or B. M. Austin, of Charlotte, N. C., who, during the last two days, has been in Arlington County and Alexandria City seeking a home.

It was learned last night that the man, giving his name as J. G. Martin, visited one of the leading real estate dealers and after being shown property in different parts of the county offered a check for $500 as first payment. After offering the check for $500 he said he wished to send for his wife and succeeded in getting two small checks cashed, one for $25 and the other for $10, both being on the First National Bank of Charlotte, N. C. It later was found that the man is not known at this bank or in Charlotte, both checks being worthless.

The same game, it is learned, has been worked by this man in Alexandria, where he gave the name of B. M. Austin. There he offered a check for $1,000 and succeeded in getting a check of $20 cashed. No report has been made to the police, it was learned.

The County Health Department announces the following preschool dental clinics: Tomorrow, at the Cherrydale Health Center; Tuesday, August 6, at the Clarendon Health Center, which is now being conducted at the Woodrow Wilson Schoolhouse at Fort Myer Heights, and Wednesday, August 7, at the Potomac Health Center.

These clinics will be held from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. There will be no charge for any preschool child.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:15 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club. President Dr. R. N. Sutton will preside.

The condition of County Policeman Hugh Jones, who has been in Emergency Hospital, Washington, since the afternoon of May 29, is reported much improved.

Jones was injured on the Washington-Richmond highway while riding his motorcycle when, in an effort to avoid traffic, an automobile in front of him suddenly stopped, throwing Jones to the ground and breaking his right ankle.

According to an announcement last night by A. C. Putnam, president of the Clarendon Fire Department, no further consideration will be given to any proposal on the part of the board of supervisors.

"The action taken by the board at its meeting yesterday that the Clarendon Holding Corporation contribute $5,000 and the county the other $5,000 and the building become the property of the county will not be considered," President Putnam said.

"The fire department will hold a meeting tonight, at which time bids for the erection of a firehouse will be opened," he said. "The department has purchased a site and the building will be built in the unit system, and as soon as the department is in a position a large, modern building will be completed."

Charged with transporting ardent spirits, Mack Jones, William Marshall and Elbum Collins were each held for the action of the grand jury by Acting Police Court Judge Bryan Gordon. Bond in each case was set at $500.

Mrs. Eva Watkins Dies In Richmond Hospital

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 30.—Mrs. Eva Watkins, 50, widow of Wesley B. Watkins, died yesterday afternoon in Memorial Hospital, Richmond, after a brief illness. Mrs. Watkins was a native and lifelong resident of this city. She is survived by three children, T. Sterling Watkins, W. Benjamin Watkins and Miss Norma E. Watkins; also one brother, W. M. Smithson, and one sister, Mrs. W. O. Stewart, all of this city.

Robert Nelson Spain, 23, only son of Nelson N. and Laura Aldridge Spain, died this morning at the residence of his parents in Kenilworth. Mr. Spain's death followed an illness of two years. Prior to his illness he was associated with his father in business here. Besides his parents, one sister, Miss Elise Spain, also of Kenilworth, survives.

Augusta County Man Is Killed by Paralysis

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., July 30.—Wholey H. Marshall, 48, native of Eastern Virginia but a resident of Augusta County for 25 years, died at his home near Zetta yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. He was paralyzed several days ago.

He is survived by his widow, six daughters, and five sons all of this county. The funeral will be held Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Union Presbyterian Church. The Revs. B. H. Miller and B. O. Shannon will be in charge. Burial will be in the Union Cemetery.

NEW OFFERS AWAIT PROPERTY OWNERS

TO BUILD COURTHOUSE

The Montgomery County Courthouse building committee met yesterday at the Rockville courthouse to consider prices which will be offered to owners of the property on the block west of the present courthouse. Prices which are considered fair by the committee were named and will be presented to the property owners for consideration at a meeting of a special committee Thursday.

The committee did not make public the prices which are to be offered but will keep them secret until they are offered to the owners. Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board of county commissioners; President B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court; and Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners, were named a special committee to present the prices and to confer with the property owners.

The committee also will have Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, counsel to the county commissioners, present at the meeting Thursday. The prices have been evolved and will be offered on advice of Capt. Cissel and his partner, Charles W. Woodward, who have prepared petitions for condemnation proceedings against properties where the owners refuse to accept the price offered by the county commissioners.

The condemnation suits were to be filed early this week when counsel informed the committee that it would be necessary first to offer prices which could be considered fair for the property. The commissioners had contented themselves with asking the prices which the various owners asked for their property.

A special meeting of the courthouse committee was called for yesterday by Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the board of county commissioners, to consider prices for the property.

Judge Robert B. Peter, of the circuit court, who is a member of the committee, took no part in the proceedings, as he declared that inasmuch as he might later be called upon to pass upon condemnation proceedings he did not believe it right for him to assist in fixing prices for the property.

Maj. E. Brooke Lee, speaker of the Maryland House of Delegates, and county Democratic leader, returned from a vacation trip to Maine yesterday morning in time to meet with the committee.

The board of county commissioners yesterday directed that payment be made out of funds received from the sale of bonds of all outstanding county obligations for the building of roads. Certificates of indebtedness had been issued for the payments to the State Roads Commission which have been due heretofore to the amount of $205,000 and the county still owes the roads commission the sum of $80,000.

These sums will be paid out of the receipts of the bond issue recently sold by the commissioners.

Gaston Spangler, arrested by Montgomery County police in June on liquor charges, yesterday was fined $300 by Judge Samuel S. Riggs in Rockville Police Court. Spangler was charged with possession of liquor with decision of the police court and was released on bond.

Spangler was arrested when a party of Montgomery County police headed by Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley raided a site in the woods near the Congressional Country Club and found several mash barrels and signs of where a large still had been removed. They traced footprints found leading from the still site to Spangler's home and to a cache of alleged liquor near the house, the police testified. Spangler wore trousers which showed plainly the marks of mash, Chief Moxley said.

Accompanying the chief on the raid were Sergt. Leroy Rodgers, of the Bethesda substation, and Policemen Bodmer and Merson, of the Rockville headquarters.

Mayor J. Rogers Spates, of Rockville, yesterday issued an appeal to the citizens of the town to refrain from unnecessary use of the town water supply during the present hot spell. The mayor indicated that unless such practice as lawn sprinkling was stopped for the present drastic measures will be enacted.

The hot weather has caused such a general increase in water consumption that the town water supply has been taxed to its capacity, and it is feared that undue use of the water may cause an emergency situation which will require the possible rationing of the water.

The mayor and council are considering renovation of the town water supply and have engaged a firm of engineers to make recommendations. This firm has urged that the town be connected with the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission system and it is expected that definite action will be taken in the near future.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad is making preparations for a temporary support for its trains while the new viaduct which will be constructed on the Bethesda-Silver Spring highway is being built. Work of sinking piles for the tracks will require about two weeks and by that time it is expected to have contracts for the viaduct ready for award.

C. & O. Shop Employes' Outing Is Postponed

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 30.—The annual picnic of the Clifton Forge Chesapeake & Ohio shop employes, scheduled to take place at Fry's Spring near this city, next Saturday, has been postponed to August 10.

The postponement was due to the fact that the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway was unable to furnish a special train to bring the employes to Charlottesville this week-end. Practically all arrangements for the events have been made by the committee, of which W. T. Stone is chairman. It is estimated that between 1,400 and 1,800 employes of the company will make the trip. A varied program has been prepared for the visitors.

Baltimore Girl, 10, Dies On Visit to Front Royal

Special to The Washington Post.

Front Royal, Va., July 30.—Mary Jeffery, 10 years old, of Baltimore, who died at the home of relatives here, was buried here Monday evening. With her mother and sisters she came last week for a visit and was ill when she reached Front Royal. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Jeffery, of Baltimore, and two sisters.

Colored Woman in Suit Says Candidacy Barred

"Jim Crow" Methods Charged in New York G. O. P. Assembly District, With Efforts to Segregate Races; Deputy Attorney General and Others Named.

New York, July 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Jim Crow, familiar figure in Southern politics, today was introduced into a dispute that has arisen in the Twenty-first Assembly District of New York City.

Contending that an attempt is being made to "Jim Crow" the district by segregating whites from blacks and that a conspiracy is under way to prevent her from running for assemblywoman of the district, Mrs. Hortense Warner, negro, has taken her case to the supreme court.

Her suit is directed against Deputy Attorney General Robert S. Conkling, Republican leader of the district; Samuel Koeniz, leader of the Republican party for the County of New York; Margaret Sealeye, active in Republican politics in the district, and two negro women of the district.

Invoking the rights of the negro race under the fourteenth and fifteen, Mrs. Warner seeks to enjoin the teenth amendments to the Constitudefendants from splitting the district into a white and negro section and from ousting her as associate executive member of the district committee. She contends that there is every possibility that the county Republican committee will approve recent resolutions of the Twenty-first District committee that will accomplish these results.

Mr. Conklin strenuously denied an allegation in Mrs. Warner's complaint that he was believed to have said he would resign from the party committee if "the negro woman" should be designated to run for office.

The district lies between the Harlem and the Hudson Rivers between 136th and 146 streets. The entire district is 75 per cent negro Mrs. Warner says.

OFFICIAL EXPLAINS ELECTRICITY STAND

INJUNCTON PLEA PENDS

Mayor John H. Beall, of Mount Rainier, yesterday declared that the town authorities have not requested the Potomac Electric Power Co. to discontinue service of electricity to the store of F. Fred Johnson and James Degges. The store owners have filed a petition for an injunction restraining the town officials and electric light company from refusing them service, claiming that this would be ruinous to their business, as they depend upon electricity for the icing of their perishable goods.

The suit is a further step in the battle between the store owners and the town officials over the granting of a town permit, which has been refused by the building inspector of the town. Charges of violating a town ordinance by constructing an addition to a building without securing a town building permit are pending in county police court against William E. Keys, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates, and contractor in charge of constructing an addition to the lunchroom at the corner of Thirty-fourth street and Rhode Island avenue, over which the controversy has raged for several weeks.

The petition was filed by Attorney Charles B. Calvert and asks that the mayor and council be required to show cause why they should not be directed to grant an electrical permit for the store and a business license for the store. It also asks that the electric company be caused to show why it should not be restrained from discontinuing electrical service.

Mayor Beall said yesterday that the town officials did not feel that they should issue an electrical permit until the building had been approved by the building inspector. This will require about two or three weeks, as the case is pending in police court.

Judge Joseph C. Mattingly has issued the rule to show cause, returnable August 8, at Prince Georges County Circuit Court at Upper Marlboro.

The catalogue for the annual fair of the Southern Maryland Fair Association was issued yesterday by William G. Brooke, secretary of the association. The fair is to be held on the association fair grounds at Upper Marlboro September 10 to 14 and will include horse racing as well as the usual fair features.

The fair is open to exhibitors from Prince Georges, Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles and St. Mary's Counties and those who wish to enter exhibits must file their application with Mr. Brooke, whose office is in Upper Marlboro.

Those in charge of the fair are as follows: Directors—M. Hampton Magruder, Dr. Charles V. Hayden, Walter J. Mitchell, John B. Pyles, John T. Hall, Hal B. Clagett, George S. Dove, W. S. Chichester, William G. Brooke and Frank M. Hall.

Front Royal Boy Killed Stealing Ride on Truck

Special to The Washington Post

Front Royal, Va., July 30.—Harold Williamson, little 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Williamson, of Bentonville, this county, was instantly killed late Monday evening near his home, when he ran into the road and attempted to catch on to the lumber on a passing truck. It is said that he was standing by the roadside as the truck approached, and as it was passing him he ran out and grabbed hold of a piece of lumber, which is supposed to have swung full force onto the macadam road, killing him instantly.

He is survived by his parents and two brothers. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p. m., conducted by the Rev. E. C. Stickle, of Front Royal, at the Baptist Church at Bentonville, and interment will be made in the cemetery nearby.

EDITOR IS CLEARED OF FRAUD CHARGES

ARRESTED WEEK AGO

Annapolis, Md., July 30.—Charles M. Christian, editor of the Southern Maryland Times, published at Glen Burnie, today was absolved of false pretense charges following a hearing before Police Justice John W. Anderson, of Annapolis, who dismissed the action brought against him by Steven J. Everd, police magistrate of the Fifth district. Alleged fraudulent transactions in a deal for property at Green Haven amounting to $1,800 were the basis of Everd's charges.

Justice Anderson ruled that the testimony adduced was insufficient to support the criminal charge. This supported a contention made by Attorney Ridgly P. Melvin, counsel for Christian, at the outset of the proceedings.

Christian was arrested a week ago upon a warrant charging him with obtaining $1,550 from Everd as part payment for the Green Haven property, which, it was alleged, he did not own. He was held in $1,000 bail. It developed at today's hearing that the Maryland Title & Guaranty Co., of Baltimore, held a mortgage on the property. This, coupled with correspondence between State's Attorney A. Theodore Brady, counsel for Everd, and the title company and Christian, complicated matters. Brady read a number of letters written to Christian, to most of which the latter failed to reply. They tended to indicate "stalling" on his part. Everd said he then became suspicious and determined to take criminal action.

Charles H. Buck, president of the title company, stated that while the company holds the deed to the property, Christian is the actual owner and that as the present time the company would issue a deed for the property Christian sold Everd for development purposes. In answer to questions from Brady, Buck said that so long as the mortgage requirements were fulfilled the company would issue titles. Brady said he believed the title company intimated to him that it had no connection with Christian.

The alleged intimation was denied. Christian, testifying, said he had sold numerous lots at Green Haven since 1915 and that Evard had for a time acted as a personal representative for him. He said that Evard offered him $1,880 for the property involved, and that later Evard demanded a deduction of 15 per cent as agent's fee and 10 per cent less for cash. Christian said he refused such an agreement.

Attorney Brady said he had a certified check for $250 in his possession and that he had notified Christian about it, but that Christian had made no effort either to return the money previously collected or furnish a deed to the property. Christian added that he was making the deal, not soliciting it, and that it was Everd's business to see that the deal was closed.

Everd contended that he had sought such a conclusion but was evaded.

Coal Properties' Sale Is Confirmed

$2,060,000 in Assets of Coal Company to eB Disposed Of.

Charleston, W. Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Sale of properties of the West Virginia Coal & Coke Co. to bondholders for $2,060,000 was confirmed by an order entered in Federal court here today by Judge George W. McClintic. The figure represntd $1,500,000 for mortgagd properties of the company and $560,000 for free assets, such as coal contracts.

Receivers for the coal company were discharged and the court named C. E. Armstrong as new receiver to administer certain matters in connection with the sale and certain property not yet sold.

The report of the receivers was confirmed and they were directed to deliver the properties to the purchasrs by midnight Wednesday.

Danville Boy Hurt by Auto.

Danville, Va., July 30 (Special).—Isaac Thompson, an 8-year-old negro, is in a local hospital unconscious since being hit by a car on the outskirts of the city. He has a skull injury which has not been diagnosed. County officers investigated the accident, and, believing that the motorist was not to blame, permitted him to leave.

ARLINGTON DROPS ANNEXATION FIGHT

Appeal on Decision Giving Alexandria Territory Not Noted.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

The annexation case begun against Arlington County by the city of Alexandria more than two years ago came to a sudden end yesterday when the county board of supervisors, at its meeting held at the courthouse, announced its intention of not noting an appeal in the case.

The board was unanimous in its opinion that with the case settled during this year the county could gain nothing, the only hope of the appeal having been to hold the taxes of next year.

With the action of the board, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier was instructed to notify State Highway Commissioner Col. H. G. Shirly of the decision to drop the appeal and ask that any funds allocated for construction of any highways within the annexed area be diverted to State highways within Arlington County.

Should the State fail to continue the widening of the Washington-Richmond Highway, which is in the program for this year, to the present city limits it will be up to Alexandria to improve the highway from the present limits to Four Mile Run which will be on and after midnight, December 31, of this year when it takes over its new territory won by annexation.

The decision of the court gives to Alexandria one-half of Jefferson district, including the Potomac yards; the George Mason High School and the town of Potomac, which all together is considered one of the richest sections of the county from a tax revenue standpoint.

Among the county officials who must either move or lose the opportunity of again becoming candidates for office are County Clerk William H. Duncan, Edward Duncan, chairman of the board of supervisors; Archie Richards, deputy sheriff, and Bryan Gordon, associate police court justice.

Bids were received from the following construction companies: McCain Co., Warren F. Brenizer, John H. Olcott, the Cranford Paving Co. and Corson & Gruman.

Checking the several bids, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier announced that the John H. Olcott Co. was the lowest bidder, their bid being $64,125. The bids ranged as high as $71,302.50.

Chairman Edward Duncan announced that the contract will be awarded by the board at its meeting to be held August 15.

The delay is to allow the county to complete the laying of water mains and for the public utilities to complete all their underground work.

Upon the recommendation of County Engineer Kinnier, the board rescinded its previous action requiring a penalty of 5 per cent to be added for failure to make prompt payment on the front footage being paid in installments and ordered that all money paid as such penalties be returned.

Judge Howard W. Smith ruled in the Circuit Court last week that the county board of supervisors, according to their printed contracts which have been signed by water takers, are without authority to levy such a penalty.

Upon motion of Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, a committee of four is to be appointed to select a site for a building to be used by the Clarendon Fire Department, the building, if approved, to be in the name of the county. The building is to be paid for as follows: $5,000 by the county, to come out of the Arlington District fire fund, and $5,000 by the Clarendon Citizens Holding Corporation.

The committee is composed of supervisors B. M. Hedrich, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, one member from the Clarendon Fire Department and one from the Clarendon Holding Corporation.

Declaring that many of the advertising signs located on the Lee Highway are unsightly, Supervisors B. M. Hedrick, from Arlington District, and Edward Duncan, from Jefferson District, instructed County Engineer C. L. Kinnier to notify all concerns, including real estate companies, to either remove the signs or obtain a permit.

The application for a permit to erect a 12-by-24-foot sign on the top of the Trust Co. of Northern Virginia by an oil company was refused.

Concluding the discussion on signboards, Supervisors Duncan and Hedrick announced that until further notice to permits will be granted.

tings. Moreover, by constant expansion of naval strength we cannot fail to stimulate fear and ill-will throughout the rest of the world toward both of us, and thus defeat the very purposes which you have so well expressed as being the object of the Legion, when you say, 'The Legion stands uniformly for movements which will make permanent peace more certain and assure better understanding between nations.'"

Misinformation Feared.

"I fear you have been misinformed as to the actual problems that lie before us if we are to succeed in such a negotiation, for they are far more intricate and far more difficult than can be solved by the simple formula which you suggest. But I feel confident that the American Legion will be sympathetic with principles of parity by negotiation and of reduction and limitation of armament instead of competitive building, with its continuous expansion and all its train of world dangers.

"I am further confident that the American Legion will join with me in endeavoring to establish and cooperate with others in an atmosphere of good will and sincerity within which to find such a solution.

"We and other nations have entered into a solemn covenant that we shall not resort to war as an instrument of national policy, that we shall seek to settle disputes by pacific means and if we are honest in this undertaking it follows that every effort should be made to establish confidence in our intentions and to hold our preparedness programs solely within the area of efficient defense. I am confident that these policies are consonant with the many declarations of the American Legion and the sentiment of the American people."

Cruisers Cause of Row.

The whole controversy that Mr. Hoover's statement about the three cruisers stirred up has centered about the fifteen-cruiser building program. The big navy folk, insisting that that word "parity" was too indefinite or vague for them, immediately began the cry "What about the cruisers? Parity or no parity, we want the cruisers."

Whether they will be able to get any assurance out of the President's letter to Mr. McNutt remains to be seen. There has been a noticeable subsidence of their alarm for the past several days, however, and this is apparently because of the increasing belief that in the final analysis at least ten of the fifteen cruisers will be built.

Unable to Argue Question.

The President has been in the awkward position of not being able to argue this point because it would lessen the effect of his gesture made in response to MacDonald's action in slowing down some of his naval work. The White House statement, subsequent to the President's gesture, that the President not only considered he was authorized to hold up the cruiser work until the end of this fiscal year but also to the end of the fiscal year 1931, caused considerable apprehension in big Navy circles, but the President has not said that he intended to wait until the end of 1931 to begin work. He has simply said, or rather the White House has said, that he had authority to wait that long.

It is becoming daily more apparent that it will not be until late fall that the Navy issue will definitely shape up as to be understandable to those outside of the President's immediate councils. By that time more light may be shed on just how the application of this new parity is to effect this country in terms of ships.

British Cut Called Unlikely.

Students of the subject find it hard to believe that Great Britain will enter upon any drastic reduction in its present cruiser strength, which it is insisted it would have to do unless this country is to embark upon an ambitious building program while Great Britain stands still—this, if parity, as they understand it, is to be achieved.

There have been some suggestions, however, that the parity to be worked out will not deal with any one category alone, but will rather be an agreement whereby Great Britain has so many battleships, so many cruisers and so many other craft for its defense, and this country will have the various craft that is agreed upon as adequate to its defense.

Regardless of how it all comes out, it is rather significant that Navy circles here do not seem to think the cruiser program is in danger—that should be reassuring to the big Navy people, if that is all they are worrying about.

Bedford County Man's Funeral Rites Are Held

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., July 30.—Funeral services for Robert A. Long, 54, well-known citizen of this county, were conducted from Morgan's Baptist Church this morning by the Rev Horace Wilkinson, pastor. Mr. Long died in the Virginia Baptist Hospital, Lynchburg, late Sunday afternoon, following an illness of about a year, heart trouble being given as the cause of his death. He was a native of North Carolina and a member of the Methodist Church.

Surviving are his second wife, Miss Elizabeth Morgan before marriage, who is in a hospital in Richmond; a son by the first marriage, R. W. Long, of North Carolina; a son by the second marriage, Byrd Long, of Apple Orchard Camp, this county; and two brothers, J. M. and J. D. Long, of North Carolina.

Petrified Snakes Found In Cumberland Digging

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 30.—The uncovering of unusual rock formation, representing the petrification of a snakelike reptile, late yesterday while excavating in a shale bank for a garage in the rear of the property of A. F. Lear, 745 West Fayette street, caused such interest that Mayor Thomas W. Koon wired the Smithsonian Institution of the discovery and was advised that a fossil expert would be sent here.

It would appear that a den of petrified snakes has been uncovered. One formation which, when restored as far as possible, resembles a fossilized python about 12 feet long.

RATE CASE DEBACLE ANGERS VIRGINIANS

BOARD HEAD ASTOUNDED

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., July 30.—An investigation as to why Mason Manghum "withdrew from representing the Virginia Shippers Association and engaged to represent only the Trunk Line and New England Shippers Committee," in the Eastern Class Rate case after funds collected from Old Dominion shippers to retain him had been spent, has been asked of the State Corporation Commission by the traffic committee of the Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce.

In a letter to Manghum asking an explanation of his position, Louis S. Epes, chairman of State Corporation Commission, declared himself "astounded" by the revelation "made by you (Manghum) in your argument in the Eastern Class Rate case before the Interstate Commerce Commission on July 16, 1929, that on May 13, 1925, you had withdrawn your representation of the Virginia interests in that case."

Replying to the letter and request of the Lynchburg chamber, Epes said, "that the first intimation this commission had that Manghum had withdrawn his representation of the Virginia interests was on July 16 last.

"We shall be glad to have you give us further information you may have in the matter, and will confer with you further with reference to it after we have received Mr. Manghum's reply."

Tells of Funds Collected.

The letter to the State Corporation Commission asking for the investigation was signed by W. H. Bowles, vice chairman of the traffic committee of the Lynchburg Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Bowles, in his letter said, "It has come to the attention of the writer that there seems to have been a very gross misunderstanding as regards the handling," of the Eastern Class Rate case. Lynchburg shippers "contributed a considerable amount to the Virginia Traffic League and the Virginia Shippers Association for employing counsel and other necessary legal expenses," the letter added.

"Mr. Mason Gangham appeared as counsel for the Virginia Shippers Association when the case was first opened, some time early in 1925. We have since learned, however, that on May 13, 1925, after funds collected for the purpose mentioned had been spent, he notified Interstate Commerce Commissioner Eastman that he withdrew from representing Virginia Shippers Association and engaged to represent only the trunk line and New England shippers' committee. This action left the Virginia shippers without counsel during all subsequent hearings.

Notification Delay Charged.

"From the best information we can gather, however, the Virginia Shippers Association was not informed of this fact until July 16, 1929, when he made the argument in the case at Washington on behalf of the trunk line and New England shippers' committee.

"It seems to me that as commerce counsel for the corporation commission and as general counsel for the two organizations of Virginia shippers, it was his first duty to act for them. If we are correctly informed he acted for neither or even notified us that our State shippers' organization was without counsel.

"In view of the fact outlined above we feel it is pertinent to inquire what disposition was made of funds raised by Virginia shippers for their protection. We feel that this matter is of enough importance to warrant an investigation into the status of the whole matter in all its bearings. We respectfully request you take the necessary action to this end."

Life Term Given Youth Who Killed Salesman

Roanoke, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Life imprisonment was meted out by a Hustings Court jury this afternoon to James S. Abrams, Knoxville (Tenn.) youth charged with slaying Edward H. Abbot, New York salesman, on July 16 as they rode into this city in Abbot's automobile.

The verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree with the recommendation for life in the penitentiary was returned after the jury had been out about one hour.

Mrs. Robert R. Ramey Buried at Front Royal

Front Royal, Va., July 30.—Mrs. Robert L. Ramey, 44, who died in Memorial Hospital, Winchester, was buried in Front Royal Tuesday afternoon. Services were held at the Methodist Church. Mrs. Ramey was well known in this county, where she spent her life.

She is survived by her husband and five children. Burial was in Prospect Hill Cemetery.

U. S. Tobacco Heir Denies He Was Drunk at Time of Accident.

MAY REACH JURY TODAY

London, July 30 (A.P.).—Richard Joshua Reynolds, rich young American, of Winston Salem, N. C., testified today in his second trial on a manslaughter charge growing out of an automobile accident last May that he was not drunk at the time of the accident, as alleged to the crown. The case is expected to reach the jury tomorrow.

Sir Bernard Spilsbury, honorary pathologist of the home office, telegraphed on behalf of Reynolds today that it was quite possible Reynolds had been blinded by the headlights of an approaching automobile when his own car struck the motorcycle of Arthur Graham.

Sir Bernard said he thought Graham had stopped his motorcycle and was standing behind it in such a way as to obscure the rear lights. If, as Reynolds has maintained, the glare of the other automobile headlights blinded him so that he mounted the curb along the roadside, at the same time he struck the motorcycle, Sir Bernard thought it quite probable he would not have realized the nature of the shock.

George Middleton, bartender of the Old Bell Hotel at Hurley, where Reynolds had been passing the day before the accident with companions from Oxford, testified that Reynolds was not under the influence of drink. Middleton and "Pimm's No. 1 Cup," of which Reynolds admitted drinking four cups, was taken diluted in half a pint of lemonade.

Lindbergh First Modern To View Lost Maya City

Details of Important Discovery Told by Friends on Tropical Flight; Colonel Interested in Use of Airplane for Archeological Study.

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—Details of the lost Maya City discovered by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the manner in which he found it were revealed today by officials of Pan American Airways, which operates mail and passenger air lines between North and South America and with which Col. Lindbergh is connected.

It was in February of this year that Col Lindbergh piloted the first Pan American plane over the route from Miami to Panama. On the way south he was running on schedule, but on the way back there was no hurry and Col Lindbergh decided to go on a sightseeing jaunt.

Turning inland at Belize, British Honduras, he flew over interior regions of the Mexican province of Quintana Roo through which white men had never penetrated. In this dense jungle country the Maya Indians lived and built their cities long before Christ, but since that time only scattered colonies of Indians have inhabited the district, believed by some to be descendants of the ancient Mayas.

Col. Lindbergh headed northwest toward Merida, Yucatan, and while he was yet many miles away his attention was caught by what seemed to be two emerald eyes staring up at him out of the tangle of the jungle bush. His curiosity aroused, he swooped low to investigate.

The country he was passing over is shown in white on the maps. Uncharted land archeologists know must be filled with rich treasures of past glories, but so inaccessible that though employes of the Carnegie Institute have long been pushing toward it through the jungle they have never reached it.

As Col. Lindbergh dropped low he beheld the ruins of a city some 8 miles in diameter, crumpled away, devoured by the centuries, eroded but not yet entirely erased by time. The jungle bush had matted the city over, but out of this tangled verdure there still rose numerous small pyramids and one stately pile of stone some 250 feet high holding aloft the ruins of an ancient Maya temple.

At the foot of this temple were two green pools of water that from high above had looked like eyes gazing out of the bush. Apparently formed by breaks in the earth above the course of an underground river they had been caught by the Mayas and held in basins of white stucco. This work was done 2,000 or 3,000 years ago, no one can tell when, and yet there they stood for the inspection of the man in the skies, representative of a civilization so far removed from that of the ancient Mayas.

Col. Lindbergh, accompanied on his "runaway" flight only by a Pan-American official and Harry Buskey, one of the company's radio operators, circled low over the lost city. There was no sign of human life and the colonel and his companions realized with no lack of awe that they were perhaps the first persons to gaze upon it since before the beginning of the Christian era.

The Lindbergh plane was four hours late at Havana that day, but although the colonel's unusual tardiness had caused grave concern and had been reported over most of the world, no explanation was made at the time. Recently, however, it was learned that Col. Lindbergh was spending some time taking aerial pictures of Indian ruins in Arizona and New Mexico, and from this it developed that his interest in the use of the airplane for archeological purposes dated back to his discovery of a lost Maya village.

Then officials of the Pan-American Co. considered that the whole story might as well be told and they released the details of the flying colonel's first exploratory flight over rich archeological terrain, and in so doing explained why he was missing for four hours last February. Col Lindbergh had no camera with him on that flight through Quintana Roo and so he took no pictures at that time, but it was said today that he has expressed a desire to return there in the future and on this occasion it is believed he will take full equipment for bringing out pictures of his discovery.

Mail Pilot Killed In Florida Crash

Plane Dives in Trial Spin After Repairs Had Been Made.

Tampa, Fla., July 30 (A.P.).—Vievien K. Jones, who came here from Birmingham, Ala., about a week ago as a relief mail pilot for Pitcairn Aviation, Inc., was killed shortly after noon today when his plane dived into an orange grove in West Tampa, a suburb, from a height of about 1,500 feet. The cause of the accident has not been determined. Officials of the company are investigating.

According to local aviation authorities Jones had brought the mail plane in from Jacksonville shortly afternoon and, after working on his engine, went up for a trial spin. After gaining altitude, he came to within 1,500 feet of the earth observers say, but when he attempted to climb again the machine refused to respond and went out of control. Jones was unconscious when picked up and died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital.

Chemist Dies of Burns, Result of Experiment

Baltimore, July 30 (A.P.).—Harold Shaffer, 35, a chemist, died last night from injuries received earlier in the day in a chemical explosion in an open-air experimental plant at the Edgewood Arsenal.

Shaffer, according to reports, was performing a chemical experiment with gases in a one-story topless structure in which ten others were at work when the explosion occurred. He was badly burned, and those nearest him were slinged by the flames. The injured were taken to the Arsenal Hospital. Shaffer, formerly of Sharon, Pa., came to the arsenal during the World War as a civilian chemist. He is survived by his widow.

Mauretania Completes Her Fastest Run of Year

Plymouth, England, July 30 (A.P.). The Cunard liner Mauretania arrived here this morning after a crossing from New York in five days one hour and one minute, her fastest crossing this year. The average speed was 25.58 miles per hour.

Her officers said she made no attempt to beat the recently established record of the Bremen.

Nevada University Is Given $500,000

Clarence Mackay Presents Sum in Memory of Father.

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—In memory of his father, the late John W. Mackay, who as a miner washed out of the soil of Nevada the beginnings of the Mackay fortune, Clarence H. Mackay today presented to the University of Nevada approximately $500,000.

A series of gifts has been made to the university since 1908 by Mr. Mackay and his mother in memory of his father. The money will be used to build and equip a building to be known as the Mackay Science School, supplementing the Mackay School of Mines. Walter E. Clark, president of the University, said today, adding that when it was finished Nevada would have the world's greatest school for training engineers in mining, geology and metallurgy.

Before founding the Postal Telegraph Co., the elder Mackay worked as a miner in Nevada and subsequently developed the gold and silver mines of the famous Comstock Lode.

A. A. A. MAN UNABLE TO PASS OUTO TEST

$25 FINE IS SUSPENDED

Having been arrested for driving without a permit and making a trick left turn at Seventeenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Monday, Richard Dudley Rollinson, business manager of the American Motorist, official publication of the American Automobile Association, decidd to while away the time until he was required to face the judge in Traffic Court yesterday morning by getting himself a permit.

At the Traffic Bureau he was turned over to Policeman Clarence A. Musselman for examination. Musselman asked him eight questions. Rollinson answered eight questions, but only two of his answers were correct enough to meet the approval of the officer, and there was some doubt about them. Musselman informed the applicant that he had failed to pass the oral examination, and that he could not even attempt the road test until he was able to give a higher percentage of correct answers to questions anent the regulations.

Rollinson explained meticulously that he was an executive of the A. A. A. Musselman thought that was all the more reason why he should have some idea how to answer the simple questions asked in the examination. Rollinson still has not obtained his permit.

Failed to Tell Why He Failed.

In Traffic Court, after waiting more than three hours for his case to be tried, Rollinson, represented by Charles Collins, attorney for the A. A. A., said he was a salesman of advertising for the association's publication. At the time of his arrest, he gave his occupation as "manager."

He told the court that he had purchased the automobile three weeks ago, and that the salesman had told him he "had all that was necessary" to operate it; he said he did not know that a permit was required here, and that he had thought his California permit was sufficient, despite the fact that he has no California permit to exhibit now, having lost it. He stated that he had not driven his car in the District more than two or three days, as his work necessitates his being on the road most of the time.

Rollinson also told the court that he had made application at the Traffic Bureau for a permit before going to court yesterday morning and that when he came to court he already had spent three hours at the office of the traffic director's office trying to obtain a permit. He added that he had been forced to leave without obtaining the permit, but neglected to explain that the reason he had been forced to leave the Traffic Bureau without a permit was because of his failure to pass the examination.

$25 Fine Is Suspended.

So far as could be learned, no one at the Traffic Bureau had advised the court of Rollinson's failure to pass the test before he appeared for trial.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt, after hearing the evidence, found Rollinson guilty of the charge of operating an automobile without a permit and gave him a suspended sentence of $25 or fifteen days in jail. In passing sentence, Judge Schuldt said that Rollinson had been very careless in not ascertaining if a permit was necessary, and cautioned him not to drive an automobile again until he had obtained his permit.

C. P. Clark, general manager of the American Automobile Association, yesterday sent to The Post copies of correspondence he had with E. W. Brown, assistant superintendent of police, commanding the traffic bureau, directing attention to a statement in The Post's report of the Rollinson arrest to the effect that officials of the A. A. A. made "frantic appeals" in behalf of Rollinson.

The correspondence shows that Inspector Brown telephoned Mr. Clark and asked him if he would be responsible for Mr. Rollinson's appearance in court yesterday, and that Mr. Clark accepted the charge. According to the correspondence, no other official of the A. A. A. was involved.

turned to their senders so that their preferences may be expressed exactly as they desire. It is suggested that all who desire to vote mark the ballot clearly that no one may be omitted from the final count.

A growing volume of ballots continue to be received for No. 1 turn, on which voters plainly state that they are members of the American Automobile Association. Many of these further declare that they never have been approached by that organization to learn their wishes, despite the statements by the A. A. A. purporting to express the sentiment of its membership. These declarations are entirely unsolicited, since the ballot provides for no such expression, but it is believed that they indicate some resentment toward officials of this motoring organization in attempting to speak for its members without having first obtained expression of their sentiments.

Ballots continue to be received from persons in all walks of life. Civic leaders, men in official life, members of the medical profession, lawyers and business men are availing themselves of the first opportunity given the city as a whole to tell its traffic administration just what type of left turn Washingtonians prefer.

As the voting passed the 2,400 mark yesterday there was a clear indication that the topic is one on which there is a considerable division of opinion, with the preponderance, however, in favor of retention of the present method.

Letters Amplify Views.

Late voters, like their predecessors, are not content simply to mark the ballot printed for their use. They accompany their votes by letters amplifying their views, all of which shows that Washington motorists—and pedestrians—do a great deal of thinking about local traffic matters. Some take the occasion to express their gratitude to this newspaper for the opportunity it has given them to put down their opinions in writing. A number of these do so in letters, while others do it more briefly, marking on their ballots, as one voter did:

"Thanks to The Post for a square deal."

With the receipt of every ballot the showdown on the issue, which has been debated since early last December when The Post first appealed for uniformity, draws nearer.

Washingtonians interested vitally in the question are determined to register their opinion by means of The Post ballot. It is that opinion, whatever the final count shows it to be, upon which Traffic Director Harland will base his recommendation with regard to Washington's left turn. Right now it appears that no recommendation will be necessary.

But the end is not yet.

A.A.A. Official Brands Post Ballot 'Prejudiced'

Attacking the Washington press in general and The Washington Post in particular, Howard Sterling, director of safety of the American Automobile Association, yesterday in a luncheon address before the Civitan Club defended the Hoover left turn, which the A. A. A. is urging the District Traffic Bureau to adopt in place of the present rotary turn.

Starling intimated that the daily articles written for The Post by William Ullman in connection with the balloting to determine what sort of left turn Capital motorists prefer are biased in favor of the present system of taking left turns. This, he said, is seen in the fact that the rotary turn is put at the top of the ballot.

The Washington press, said Starling, had criticized the integrity of the Hoover Conference on Street and Highway Safety. As a defense of it, he read the names of those participating in the conference.

Prisoner to Get Out When Memory Returns

Unless the memory of Eugene Smith, colored, returns he is doomed to serve six months in jail.

Smith faced Judge R. E. Mattingly in Police Court yesterday on a charge of larceny in connection with the theft of a pair of glasses. Levy Anderson, also colored, told the court that Smith came to see him Sunday to borrow 50 cents and that his $18 glasses were missing when the visitor departed. Smith was arrested Monday, but police were unable to find the glasses.

"Where did you put them?" Judge Mattingly asked. Smith denied that he had put them any place. Whereupon Judge Mattingly said: "Six months in jail. When your memory returns notify a marshal and we'll see if we can't lighten the sentence."

69 Per Cent for Hoover Turn, A. A. A. Poll Says

Motorists who have voted in the first week of the American Automobile Association's balloting on left turns in Washington are 69.3 per cent in favor of the standard or Hoover turn yesterday according to announcement made by Charles P. Clark, general manager of the A. A. A.

In announcing results of the first week of balloting on the kind of left turn favored by motorists, Clark calls attention to the fact that all votes were submitted voluntarily by persons affected by the traffic regulations, whatever they are.

With the total vote around the 1,400 mark, Clark in his report adds that 5.8 per cent were unaware that Washington now has two methods of left turning, one for controlled and one for uncontrolled crossings. The poll shows that 92.5 per cent of the motorists have expressed themselves in favor of one rule at all crossings.

Masked Attacker Frightens Woman

Young Wife Is Grabbed as She Puts Auto Away at 2:30 A. M.

Mrs. Ella Burrows, 20 years old, of 4535 Forty-fourth street northwest, was attacked by an unidentified masked man at 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning in the rear of the home of her father-in-law, Howard Burrows, 4511 Forty-fourth street.

The screams of the young woman frightened off her assailant and Mrs. Burrows then fainted, police reported. The young woman, who had been visiting friends, was placing her automobile in a garage behind the home of her father-in-law at the time of the attack.

As she alighted from the car, she told police, the man grabbed her. Her screams brought Mr. and Mrs. Burrows to the scene. The victim was unable to give police a detailed description of the man.

SCHOOL WILL TEACH TAKERS OF CENSUS

Commerce Department Will Train Workers for Next Year's Task.

MAY WIDEN STATISTICS

(Associated Press.)

A correspondence school to train Government workers for taking the 1930 decennial census of population is planned by the Department of Commerce.

This was announced yesterday by William M. Steuart, director of the Census Bureau, at a meeting of Commerce Department officials with an advisory committee of prominent business men and educators appointed by Secretary Lamont to aid in formulating plans for the census.

The correspondence school, Steuart said, would thoroughly familiarize the supervisors and enumerators with instructions, rules and regulations for taking the census.

Proposals were made that the census should include information about the incomes of persons working for wages or salary and to show the extent of migration from farm to cities and from cities to farms during 1929. No decision was reached, however, pending further discussion.

SOVIET TEARS DOWN REVERED OLD SHRINE

HAD STOOD SINCE 1669

Moscow, July 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—While Moscow slept last night the Soviet government tore down the most revered place of worship in all Russia, the Shrine of the Iberian Virgin, erected 260 years ago at the northern gateway of the Red Square.

The work of demolition began under cover of darkness at 3 a. m., unheralded by any announcement. Five hours later early risers saw workmen finishing their task of wrecking the blue, gold-starred dome before which the Czars of Russia, on visiting this city, always dismounted and prayed before entering the Kremlin and under which millions of humble Russians have knelt.

Peter Smidovitch, Vice President of the Soviet Republic, said today that the chapel of the miracle-performing virgin had been removed as the government intends to rebuild the gates of the Red Square. Smidovitch heads the antireligious department of the government.

Marchers to Miss Statue.

As a result of the shrine's removal, marchers in the Communist antiwar parade to be held next Thursday will enter the Red Square for the first time since the Russian revolution without passing by the most famous symbol of the church's power in this country.

Iverskaya Chasovnia, as the shrine of the Iberian Virgin is called here, was built in 1669. It was considered the most holy chapel in the country because its ikon, brought from Mount Athos, Greece, in 1648, was believed to possess the miraculous power of curing illness and other troubles.

Czars Were Visitors.

The czars of all the Russias visited the little shrine and the poor people of Moscow came to it by the thousands to pray for their sick.

The Iberian Virgin wore a net of real pearls around the head and a jeweled crown. There was a slight scratch on the right cheek of the image. It represented a wound inflicted on the igon by an infidel, from which tradition says that blood exuded. On one shoulder was a large jewel. Another was fastened on the brow. Gold brocade hangings, sprinkled with angels' heads on porcelain adorned the whole picture.

Thirteen silver lamps, lit with always-burning wax candles, illuminated the chapel, which was large enough to accommodate only twenty worshippers at a time.

Charleston Woman Disappears in Virginia

Police yesterday instituted a search for Mrs. Marie Elizabeth Pearre, 41 years old, of Charleston, S. C., who left her husband and daughter in an automobile near Alexandria on Monday evening and has not been seen since.

According to police, the woman, her husband, John Pearre, and their daughter had been touring through the North and were motoring home. Mrs. Pearre, the husband told police, insisted on stopping in Alexandria overnight, but the husband favored motoring a farther distance. When the husband continued to drive, police were told, Mrs. Pearre asked him to stop the car and she alighted and disappeared. The report stated that Mrs. Pearre had $600 with her.

BRITISH TERMS.

A new explanation is now offered for President Hoover's action in suspending cruiser construction in defiance of the law laid down in the Navy bill. It gives an added Anglo-American flavor to the now famous White House statement and bestows upon Premier Ramsay MacDonald a large share of the credit, or blame, as the case may be, for the first efforts to bring about disintegration of the American fifteen cruiser program.

MacDonald, it is now said, insisted upon an American sacrifice as the price of publicly inaugurating the naval limitation movement in the House of Commons. He had explained some weeks ago that any announcement by him on the naval question would subject the labor government to immediate attack by the Conservatives unless there could be a simultaneous American announcement of advantage to the British. Any move on the part of America to break down or weaken the cruiser program was obviously the object which the British premier sought to obtain.

But difficulties developed because of the law laid down in the American Navy bill. That explains the period of delay during which naval negotiations faded from the first pages of the newspapers. It was known that something had gone wrong, that there had been a hitch somewhere.

Apparently the British premier, in close cooperation with admiralty experts, refused to budge. America could meet the British terms and go ahead or America could see the cause of naval limitation remain languishing and stationary, according to the explanation now offered.

Further diplomatic conferences broke the temporary deadlock. President Hoover made a statement along the line desired by the British, in return for which Ramsay MacDonald announced his purpose of holding up construction of the two cruisers which previous governments have been holding up and, in addition, made his statement about recognition of parity. The British and American statements synchronized and were timed to fit in with the ceremonies of the Kellogg peace pact. Secretary Stimson then followed with his statement stressing the importance of the parity announcement and the way was presumed to have been paved for gathering in the fruits of the first move toward naval agreement.

The flare up over violating the terms of the Navy bill may have been anticipated, but it is now certain that the extent of this flare up, the prospect of a battle in Congress over the legality of the President's action and the introduction of a retroactive joint resolution to legalize what the President has done, were not forseen.

Meanwhile reports from London concerning the latest developments, made public yesterday, contained several statements which attracted immediate attention.

Parity is not going to apply to cruisers of which the British have 62 to America's 28. There would be difficulties, "perhaps insurmountable," it is stated, "if too much stress were laid on comparison of cruiser fleets." It is added that the British probably will not scrap cruisers and that the ultimate treaty will therefore not deal with reduction but with limitation. It was Ambassador Gibson who insisted upon the use of the word reduction instead of limitation at the last Geneva meeting of the preparatory commission and President Hoover himself stressed the importance of the word reduction instead of limitation.

However, parity will exist in principle or as a legal maxim or a state of mind even though it is not applied to cruiser strength. The British are willing to apply it to submarines or battleships. Battleship construction is barred by the Washington treaty and the British admiralty for years has been waging a campaign to reduce submarines to the minimum, or even to abolish them altogether. It is suggested in yesterday's dispatch that it may be possible "to concentrate attention on those phases of naval rivalry in which dramatic cuts can be made." Naval officers here are at a loss to understand this unless it means that the British will agree to do without obsolete vessels in return for cruiser superiority.

Both Ramsay MacDonald and President Hoover "appear anxious to delay intervention of their respective naval experts with technical plans for at least some weeks," according to the London dispatches. The American naval experts had much to do with preventing agreement at the ill-fated Geneva naval conference of 1927. In fact, the American naval experts were directly responsible for the refusal of Calvin Coolidge to accept the British terms.

MIGRATION OF INDUSTRY.

Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a statement urging a provision in the tariff bill providing that holders of American patents and trade-marks must manufacture their products in this country. The statement is significant as it may indicate the opening of a fight by American labor against the growing tendency to establish branch factories in foreign countries. Mr. Woll complains that some holders of patents, who have a monopoly on the American market, manufacture their products abroad with low-wage labor and import the protected articles duty free, or with low tariffs, to sell on the basis of American costs. The consumer is thus exploited, he says, and American labor is denied the opportunity of employment.

What is termed the migration of industry to other countries is one of the most interesting economic trends of the current era. In a comprehensive article in the Magazine of Wall Street, Theodore M. Knappen estimates that there are 2,000 branch or independent American factories abroad. About $3,500,000,000 of American money is invested in foreign enterprises. From the labor point of view, says Mr. Knappen, the "pauper labor" of Europe might as well be allowed to migrate to the United States as to permit American factories to migrate to Europe and employ it there to make goods that displace the products of domestic plants and labor.

This danger is perhaps more theoretical than real. If a plant is actually removed from this continent to Europe to produce goods that will be shipped back into the United States, American labor has a real grievance. On the other hand, if an American concern establishes a branch plant in a foreign land with a view to supplying only the foreign market while maintaining production here, the case is entirely different. It is natural for the United States to endeavor to increase its exports, but it can not be assumed that this country is destined to become the manufacturing center for all the rest of the world.

There are many factors which make exporting extremely difficult or impossible. Among these are tariffs, transportation costs, labor costs, patent laws and price of raw materials. Many European countries have imposed tariffs which practically exclude American goods. Nearly every industrial country of Europe has patent laws which favor production within their own borders. Under such circumstances a branch factory is the only method by which American concerns can get into some foreign markets. It is a question, then, of expanding or not expanding. If the branch factory increases the earnings of the company, it is reasonable to suppose that the benefits will be distributed between American investors and labor.

Nor is it to be supposed that American industry has a clear field because of its mass-production methods. Other countries are beginning large-scale production and if it is not financed by American capital, money from some other source will be used. It is a fallacy to suppose that foreign countries will continue indefinitely to import from this country commodities which their own workmen can turn out. On the other hand, many foreign concerns are looking with envy upon the American market, and some have decided to take advantage of it by establishing branch factories of their own within the States. The advantages of low-priced labor abroad are somewhat offset by the extensive market here.

To the extent that American factories are being moved abroad to manufacture commodities for this country with cheap foreign labor, there is ample cause for complaint. But the practice of establishing branch factories to provide for foreign consumption in areas where exports can not be profitably sent appears to be economically sound, and may prove of benefit to both investors and wage-earners of this country.

WATER DEPARTMENT DEFICIT.

An extensive investigation into the possible needs of Washington for water during the next five years is being undertaken at the request of the District Commissioners. A deficit of $34,000 in the Water Department indicates that the present revenue is not adequate to pay for the numerous extensions that are being made. Apparently residents of the District face an increase in water rents.

The situation raises the question as to what the relationship between the Federal Government and the Water Department should be. Uncle Sam is one of the largest water users, consuming an average of 8,578,000 gallons per day. In addition, large amounts are furnished to the District with the result that 41 per cent of all water used produces no revenue. Thus the total cost of maintenance and operation of the Water Department falls upon 59 per cent of the water users. The two sources of revenue available to the department are water rents and assessments for the extension of mains. Under the law the department must be self-sustaining.

The Government at one time carried the entire burden of furnishing water to the Capital. Later it was felt that the people should share the cost and the expense was added to the general accounts which the Federal and District Governments shared on a 50-50 basis. Later the ratio was changed to 40-60. Now, however, the Government has not only cut off its contribution to the Water Department but takes without payment water that is paid for by residents of the District.

It is estimated that the Government has spent $12,166,000 on the Washington water system, including construction, operation and maintenance. The District has spent for the same purpose $9,909,000 and the Water Department $4,422,000. The Federal investment has been large, but that is no reason why the water users of Washington should contribute free water to the Government in perpetuity. The situation is not fair to present water users, who must pay for the generosity of Congress to the District in years gone by.

The ideal situation would be for the Government to pay for the water it uses just as other consumers do. The Federal investment should, of course, be recognized. This might be accomplished through a special water rate for the Government until such time as an equitable portion of the investment has been repaid. Such a plan would obviate the necessity of increased rates and at the same time provide a more satisfactory division of water costs among the users.

TARIFF HISTORY

By WARREN W. WHEATON,
In the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Tariff readjustments are a gigantic task. Its magnitude has been recognized since the first tariff bill was passed in 1789. Each of the many needed changes has been attended by foreign protests, by party strife, by political deaths and preferment. In the present situation, history repeats itself.

A budding Nation in 1789, the United States needed revenue. The Constitution adopted in that year provided revenues through the tariff. Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury in 1791, reported to Congress on the necessity of protecting American industry from foreign competition. He enunciated a policy that has continued through the years. It occasioned little serious discussion until 1794, and from then until 1816 24 acts affecting the tariff duties were passed by Congress.

In 1812 duties on imports were doubled to furnish revenue for the war with Great Britain, and these high rates continued for a year after the establishment of peace. Exports from England to the United States almost ceased as a result. American manufacturers were placed largely upon their own resources. They expanded. But after the termination of war, imports virtually flooded the country. The great influx threatened ruin. Secretary of the Treasury Dallas urged a new tariff with still higher rates. Congress ignored him, but protection ceased to be incidental and became the direct object of the tariff.

That brought about the first marked division over the protective and free-trade policies, and a few years later, in 1824, sectional alignments, never since absent in tariff-making, appeared. Sectional feeling became serious when tariff revision was made in 1832. That bill aroused much hostility in the South. South Carolina put a bill through its Legislature nullifying the national tariff act and threatened secession.

After the Civil War, tariff revisions became more and more complex. But it was not until 1882 that these complexities forced the creation of the Tariff Commission.

Its very first action was to recommend an average reduction of from 20 to 25 per cent on the rate on dutiable goods, then so high it averaged approximately 43 per cent. But Congress did not follow its recommendations. Instead, it revised the tariff and made the rates still higher. This brought the tariff controversy into open conflict, so that in 1884 and again in 1886 the House absolutely declined to join in efforts to revise the tariff.

The fight grew so vigorous that finally the tariff became a dominant issue in the presidential elections in 1888 after President Cleveland had asked a revision the year before.

In 1897 President McKinley urged the first extra session of Congress to revise the tariff. Since then revision of the act has always been undertaken in special session.

Today Congress will consider itself lucky if it sends the tariff bill to the President by December 1. The Congress started its revision months before President Hoover called it into being April 15. The problem grows harder with the years. The first special session for tariff-making under McKinley lasted only from March 15 to July 24 and resulted in the passage of the Dingley act. The nearest approach to the present situation was the passage of the Underwood-Simmons act under President Wilson during a session which lasted from April 7 to December 1, although there were other things considered besides the tariff.

The tariff bill differs from all other pieces of legislation. It is a measure of national policy. It is privileged legislation and has the right of way. It must originate in the House, where it is first handled by the ways and means committee, oldest of the congressional standing committees, created in 1789, before George Washington was inaugurated first President.

The House originates the legislation. The Senate invariably rewrites the House bill. Consequently, when the Senate disposes of the bill, probably some time in November, it will have to go to conference.

Five men from each house constitute the conference. These ten men will smooth out the differences. They may agree to accept the House rate, in which case the Senate yields its viewpoint; they may accept the Senate rate as the House yields, or they may work out a compromise, which is the more usual procedure.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

SHOWING A MAN FROM MARS ABOUT.

To the man from Mars I was showing our cars
And I said: "A wise people are we!
With steel we have spanned, every far away land
And we've conquered the air and the sea.
Our workmen are skilled, all our towns now are filled
With the marvelous things they have done.
We are wizards of art, we are brilliant, we're smart,
But please don't look into our fun.

We are certainly great in all matters of state,
We are proud of our churches and schools.
We have learned how to do many things which are new,
Just gaze at our engines and tools!
In commerce and trade note the progress we've made,
We have measured the breadth of the sun.
Come walk round with me our achievements to see,
But please don't look into our fun.

'Tis a fact none denies, we're a shrewd folk and wise,
We have harnessed the lightning to wire;
We're producers of things. Every new morning brings
Some reason ourselves to admire.
But we're still going wrong, chasing wine, women, song,
Mad drunkards their motor cars run.
So please don't look into our fun.

Oh, man out of Mars, we have charted the stars,
With wisdom we've loaded our shelves;
Out of darkness we've moved, and all things we've improved,
Though we haven't improved much ourselves.
At the mad pace which kills we are still seeking thrills,
By our follies our heartaches are spun,
We are still the blind fools, which some mad passion rules.
So please don't look into our fun.

If One Boy Whips the Teacher, Discipline in the School Is Ended.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHILE the great war was yet a European affair, and the United States was officially neutral, the people took sides as they do at a game.

They were outsiders looking on, content in their detachment and security.

They were resentful when one of the belligerents trespassed on American rights, but their resentment was slight if the trespass helped their favorite.

They were a divided people, some excusing England and condemning Germany for violation of international law, some excusing Germany and condemning England.

But when Germany made her fatal decision for unrestricted submarine warfare—telling American citizens how and when they could use the ocean and brazenly confessing her intention to sink the ships and drown the men who disobeyed her, a nation of factions at once became a united people determined to defend their rights and liberties.

The American people had endured much from both sides, and might have continued to endure, for the affronts were without malice, like stray shots from a battlefield.

But when Germany issued her brazen challenge, they had either to accept it or surrender their standing as a free people.

A similar situation has developed in the war between liquor and law.

The people have been partisans from the beginning. The friends of liquor have winked at violation of the law; the friends of prohibition have winked at violation of rights and liberties.

In passion or in amused indifference the people have watched the struggle, taking sides according to their nature, yet standing aloof for the most part, as people do who watch a game.

But now the people have received a challenge similar to Germany's.

It is one thing to sneak a bottle in a spirit of deviltry or take a drink on the sly, and quite another to walk down the street with a quart in one hand and a gun in the other, daring all the forces of law to interfere.

Whatever the right or wrong of prohibition, the Government can not retreat or surrender when challenged by organized criminals.

That international criminals are organized, equipped and armed to challenge the forces of law is known to the world. Government must accept the challenge and at any cost demonstrate its power to overcome organized crime or acknowledge that crime is the master.

This is not a discussion of prohibition.

The question is whether Government or crime shall dominate our national life.

Good citizens may debate the worth of a law, but there is only one side for them to take when outlaw bands take up arms to challenge the supremacy of government.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

EUGENE O'NEIL'S WEDDING.

(In the "Strange Interlude" Manner.)

Mr. O'Neil (on the way to the ceremony)—You look very beautiful, dear. (Aside): One always has to say that to a bride. As a matter of fact, I've seen her look lots better. It must be her hair.

Miss Monterey — You flatterer! (Aside): He wouldn't know whether I looked good or not. He's always preoccupied. I'll bet he is thinking up a plot for another play right now.

Mr. O'Neil—Are you very happy, darling? (Aside): That's an asinine question. Suppose she should say no?

Miss Monterey—Awfully, Gene. Are you? (Aside): He's never happy; I can tell by his face. My, but he's getting deep lines!

Mr. O'Neil—I'm the happiest man in the world, Carlotta. (Aside): And even if I'm not you can't disprove it. One has to go to extremes in a case like this. You'd be sore if I said I was the second happiest man in the world.

Miss Monterey—And I'm the happiest woman, Gene. (Aside): I have my misgivings about this fellow at times. He won't be any too easy to live with, I suppose. I'll have to be patient.

Miss Monterey (in an aside)—I hope I'm not making a big mistake. He's probably more in love with his work than with me. I suppose I'll have to go around the house on tiptoe so as not to disturb him. It'll be pretty awful at times. Maybe I should take a firm step at the outset and refuse to coddle him. The first Mrs. O'Neil humored him too much.

Minister—How do you do? (Aside): So he's O'Neil, the great playwright! He doesn't look like what I expected. I saw two of his plays. . . . "The Hairy Dynamo" or something and "The Old Soak," I think it was. Very pretty! On the road to Monterey, where the flying fishes . . . no, that's Mandalay.

Mr. O'Neil (aside)—Why doesn't the old geezer begin? Does he think it's a 9 o'clock curtain?

Minister—Do you, Carlotta, take this man to be your lawfully wedded husband, to love, honor and obey, to cherish in sickness and in health? (Aside): I've been at this business for years and never had a customer say no.

Miss Monterey—I do. (Aside): I didn't even hear what he said, but I know I'm supposed to say "I do."

Minister—And do you, Eugene, take this woman to be your lawfully wedded wife, to . . . (Aside): He's not paying any attention to me. Look at that faraway look in his glimmers! I'd like to rap him on the knuckles and make him pay attention. Just because he wrote "Bound East for Strange Interlude," "Rain Under the Elms" and "Parsifal" he needn't think he can ignore me.

Mr. O'Neil—I do. (Aside): Do what? Huh? What do I do? To what did I say I do to what?

Minister—I pronounce you man and wife. (Aside): I've a mind to ask him for a couple of passes to that new show of his. What's the name of it? Oh, yes, I remember now . . . "Journey's End."

REMARKABLE? IT WAS PERFECT!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Will It Be Parity and Disparity, or Pare and Par?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We have with us this evening "Parity," and its proper or convenient definition. Webster reads: "Parity, n. equality; likeness," which seems to leave no doubt, unless it has a different meaning when expressed diplomatically.

Let us then take its first meaning, "equality," and see if we can, by the greatest stretch of imagination, make 28 cruisers equal 62, or its final meaning, is there any "likeness" in a fleet containing 62 ships, to one containing but 28?

Let us now turn back, in the dictionary, to "disparity." That is defined: "Inequality of rank, station, degree, or excellence; disproportion." Considering the question in the last sense, it would seem that a 62-28 ratio is rather disproportionate, so that while it may be true that when the naval question is considered from the British viewpoint, it is "parity," when seen from the United States short end it is "disparity."

Webster, gives another word that might be considered in the premises. It is "Pare—v. t. to cut away little by little; reduce, or diminish." Should Great Britain volunteer to "pare" her navy, until it reached "par, n. state of equality," with the U. S. Navy, in the presence, and to the satisfaction of a U. S. naval board, then the U. S. could, in all sincerity, accept the term naval parity.

I would like to read a thesis on the impending naval crisis, written by members of the U. S. naval general staff, expressing their conscientious several opinions, could it be done without the self-same officers being "Magruderized."

A VETERAN OF THREE WARS.

A New Spirit Is Abroad in the South.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Of the ten greatest harbors of the United States, the Gulf of Mexico's northern shore claims five. New York is our greatest American port, with New Orleans and Galveston coming second and third. Porth Arthur, Mobile and Pensacola are the other present important ports, considering tonnage in and out. Alabama is now being developed rapidly with enlarged iron and steel plants, and most of the new cotton mills established in the South last year went to that State.

The entire Gulf Coast is undergoing a substantial industrial growth. The Gulf Coastal Highway to connect Jacksonville and Los Angeles is now an assured fact, and will give the very best facilities for highway transportation between the present important gulf cities and ports, and also touch at the Port Dixie Harbor, which is nearest to the coal and iron deposits of the South, and has the third largest body of deep water in a protected harbor on the United States' waterfront. Strong interests are to develop this port, which will afford the largest freight-carrying vessels anchorage and dock facilities equal to the great European shipping points.

The population of the South is much alive and is made up of the Southerners and people from the North, East and West. They all are one, so to speak, in doing what is possible to develop heretofore neglected resources that will help the entire country.

The South is producing really needed products from the top soil and from under the ground. We should cooperate as closely as good business will permit with our Southern friends.

R. HENRY.

Montclair, N. J.

American People Are Capable of Guarding Their Own Morals.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Senator Cutting of New Mexico has done the country a great service in publicly calling attention to the "danger and folly of giving customs officers the right to dictate what the American people may or may not read." He has said only what every American doubtless feels in his heart, but his opinion will doubtless have more weight than that of the ordinary citizen.

The censors of the Bureau of Customs recently made themselves ridiculous by pronouncing Voltaire's "Candide" obscene and then later reconsidering the decision after the public had laughed it to scorn. The offense has now been repeated with respect to the vivid war tale, "All Quiet on the Western Front," by Erich Maria Remarque. Since this book is not a classic it will doubtless have fewer defenders than "Candide" and will therefore be withdrawn from the American public.

Why in this country where we boast of our freedom of speech and personal liberty must intelligent people have their morals guarded over by uniterary custom officials? The practice is an outrage, especially in a democratic country. It is time that some official of the Government championed the rights of the American reader. I am sorry to realize that Senator Cutting will receive all too little commendation for his denunciation of the tyranny of censors.

ARTHUR H. MacRAY.

Make War on Bugs!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note that Col. Grant and the United States Public Health Service plan to make war on mosquitos. I suggest that they make war on bugs of all varieties and I can tell Col. Grant where to wage the first battle. I am not against making available recreational facilities after nightfall, and think it splendid that those who are employed during the day can engage upon their favorite sport in the cool of the night. But those lights over the tennis courts on Seventeenth street! They attract' every bug in Washington and, I'm sure, a few from Maryland and Virginia. If Col. Grant wants to make Washington bugless, all he would have to do is station a corps of bug sharpshooters around the illuminated tennis courts.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Sends Many Leaders To Institute

Convocation on Politics at Williamstown to Hear Dr. Wu.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE Minister of China, Dr. C. C. Wu, will leave Washington today for Williamstown, Mass., and will deliver an address tomorrow at the convocation of the Institute of Politics. The sessions of this forum for open discussion of international problems will continue through August, but Dr. Wu will remain only a few days and will return to town early next week.

There would seem to be rather smaller diplomatic representation at the institute this year than at any time since it was organized eight years ago. The Minister of Costa Rica, Senor Don Manuel Quesada, is to attend, but beside these two envoys, the only diplomats one finds on the lists so far available are Mr. Stanislaw Lepkowski, Charge d'Affaires of Poland, and Mr. Kaoru Toyada, of the Japanese Embassy.

However, distinguished men and women from all over the world will assemble to discuss limitation of armament, postwar constitutional changes in Europe, the present and future outlook of British industry, international debts and reparations and a dozen other subjects of moment at round-table conferences.

Rear Admiral Charles L. Hussey, U. S. N., retired, who married Rear Admiral Brownson's daughter and who has many Washington affiliations, will lead the round table conference on "Limitation of Armaments." And others from the Capital who are to attend the Institute of Politics, either as speakers or "listeners-in," are Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Samuel W. Miller, Rear Admiral William Ledyard Rodgers, Capt. Walter Gherardi, Mr. William Knowles Cooper and Ir. Frederick J. Libbey. Dr. Leo S Rowe, director general of the Pan-American Union, is one of the officials of the conference.

Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of William College and son of President Garfield, is the chairman of the institute. He and Mrs. Garfield were at Duxbury, Mass., for the early summer, but returned to Williamstown recently to make ready for the conference; and their pleasant home will, as always, be the scene of much discriminating hospitality while the conference is in progress. Williamstown, with mountains all about, is a charming spot in which to spend a few weeks in midsummer; and those who have attended previous sessions of the Institute of Politics have found its stimulating society pleasant as well as intellectually profitable.

Generosity of Many Makes Classes Possible.

The annual sessions of the Institute of Politics have been made possible through the generosity of Williams College in lending the necessary plant, and of Mr. Bernard M. Baruch, the General Education Board, the Carnegie Corporation, Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mr. Herbert H. Lehman in providing financial support.

In addition to the general study of world economic stabilization, conferences will be devoted to relations of the United States with Canada, Mexico and other Latin American countries.

M. Andre Siegfried, of Paris, whose frank analysis of the United States in "America Comes of Age" gained in international attention, who is a professor at the School of Social Science in Paris and an economic expert of the French Foreign Office, will lecture at the Institute on "The Political System in France."

Dr. William E. Rappard, of Geneva, member of the Mandates Commission and its former director, member of the Swiss delegation to the Assembly of the League of Nations and with M. Paul Mantoux, director of the Postgraduate Institute of International Studies, will lecture on "Europe's Economic and Industrial Progress."

Count Giovanni Elia, of Rome, inventor of the depth bomb, a Facist naval expert, will address the institute on "Modern Italy: Political and Economic Conditions."

"The Present Position and Future Prospects of British Industry," will be the subject of an address by Prof. T. E. Gregory, of London, an expert on banking and economic matters.

Mr. George Young, recently elected to the British Parliament as Labor member, will give two addresses on the significance of Labor victory and the policies his party will support during the MacDonald administration. Mr. Young will also lead a round table conference on "Post War Constitutional Changes in Europe."

Other round table conferences, the subjects and leaders as announced are "Canadian American Relations," Dean P. E. Corbett, McGill University; "The Interest of United States Citizens in Latin America," Prof. Herbert I. Priestly, University of California; "Planned Prosperity: The Effect of Public Fiscal Policies on Trade and Employment," Dr. William T. Foster and Mr. Waddill Catchings; "Banking, Currency and Exchange," Prof. T. E. Gregory; "Trade Relations as Affected by Politics, Science and Finance," Dr. Harrison E. Howe, Washington; "Inter-Ally Debts and Reparations," Prof. Jacob Viner, University of Chicago.

The purpose of this institute is to explore the facts underlying international events, to promote among adults the study of foreign affairs, to create international good will on the basis of an understanding of our respective problems and policies.

Minister of Persia Leaves For New York.

The Minister of Persia, Mirza Davoud Khan Meftah, left town last evening for New York, where he will spend a few days, and expects to go to Atlantic City for the week-end.

Mme. Samy Pasha, wife of the Minister of Egypt, and Senora de la Barra, wife of the First Secretary of the Bolivian Legation, were among those lunching at the Carlton Hotel yesterday. Others were Mrs. Arthur W. Dunn, Mrs. Phoebe Taylor, Mr. H. R. Burton and Mrs. M. Wilkins.

Senator D. O. Hastings has returned to the Wardman Park Hotel from his home in Wilmington, Del.

Countess de Chambrun, wife of the distinguished French general who commanded the campaign against the Riffs, arrived in New York yesterday on the Paris and will spend some time in this country. She is a sister of Representative Nicholas Longworth, Speaker of the House, and it is expected that she will visit Speaker and Mrs. Longworth at the cottage which they have taken at Jamestown, R. I.

Countess de Chambrun, who was Miss Clara Longworth, is a gifted writer with an equal facility in French or English.

Mr. and Mrs. William White Howells, of New York, are spending part of the summer at Garish Island Kittery Point, near Portsmouth, N. H. Before her marriage in June Mrs. Howells was Miss Muriel Seabury. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Marston Seabury and has been a frequent visitor in Washington as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Austin Kautz.

The marriage of Miss Virginia Fairfax Blackistone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Diminieu Blackistone, to Ensign John Alexander Milburn, U. S. N., which will be solemnized on Saturday evening in All Saints Episcopal Church, Chevy Chase, will be followed by a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Blackistone, to which only the bridal party and members of the two families are invited.

Ensign Milburn's sister, Mrs. Zenophon Price, who is to be one of Miss Blackistone's attendants, entertained at luncheon yesterday for the bride and her bridesmaids, the party being given at Wardman Park Hotel, where Mrs. Price is staying for a week. Miss Grace Colton, cousin of Miss Blackistone, and also one of the bridesmaids, gave a shower for her on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Watts Mercur will arrive tomorrow at Wardman Park from their home in Wallingford, Pa., to attend the wedding. Mrs. Mercur is Ensign Milburn's mother. Others who will be at the hotel until after the wedding are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hudgins, of Norfolk, Va., who will also arrive tomorrow. Mrs. Hudgins is the former Miss Mary Stitt, daughter of the former Surgeon General of the Navy, Rear Admiral Stitt, and Mrs. Stitt. Mrs. Price will return to Norfolk with Mr. and Mrs. Hudgins and will be their guest for ten days. She will return to the Wardman Park Hotel, where she will remain until she sails on August 21 to rejoin Maj. Price in Paris.

Capt. B. R. Luscomb, Medical Corps, U. S. A., and his family have taken an apartment at the Martinique. He has recently returned from Hawaii and at present is on a two months' leave at the conclusion of which he will be attached to the Army Medical Center here.

Service Club Scene of Gay Social Fetes

Pleasant Picnic Spot Is Arranged in Old Spring House.

Those who perforce are remaining in town become so enthusiastic in defending the charms of town life to outsiders, who make unkind references to the climate, and to their friends on vacation in the mountains or by the sea, that they almost convince themselves that Washington is the perfect summer resort.

Certainly the Capital's many country clubs contribute materially to this assumption. One of the newest and most popular is the Army, Navy and Marine Corps Country Club, situated in Virginia overlooking the Potomac and the city. And very gay it is on Saturday evenings when crowds of the younger service group mingle with the older people at the dinner dances. The club building—red brick, with a colonial entrance—is only a wing of the future club. From the wide verandas, which overlook Washington and Arlington, stretches the golf course, active during the week, but most popular on Saturdays and Sundays. A natural stream, running through the meadows that have been cultivated to become smooth greens and rolling fairways, opens out in several places and provides little lakes as hazards.

A road from the club house leads to a picnic grove with a spring of pure drinking water and an old stone spring house which has now been equipped with facilities for cooking. Here on very warm nights one can always find a cool breeze and usually plenty of company.

Last evening Maj. and Mrs. Edwin H. Marks entertained at an informal dinner at the club in honor of Maj. and Mrs. Daniel I. Sultan, who will leave town soon. Maj. Sultan is to sail on August 10 for Nicaragua to command the survey for the proposed Nicaragua Canal and Mrs. Sultan will join him there in the fall. Maj. and Mrs. Marks, who are among those to enjoy the privileges of the club, will leave Washington early in August for Bay Head, N. J., to pass a short vacation.

This evening Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Boyd R. Alexander will entertain at a dinner and earlier today Mrs. Lawrence J. Meyns, wife of Capt. Meyns, U. S. A., will give a luncheon at the club. Capt. and Mrs. Meyns are remaining in town until September when they will go to Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., for a visit.

Every Thursday the ladies of the club, who are golf enthusiasts, arrange a tournament and, after their eighteen holes, gather on the club porches for luncheon and discussion.

Mrs. Edward Douglass White, wife of the late Chief Justice, has had as her guest in her summer home at New London, Conn., her nephew, Mr. Preston Gibson, who made his home in Washington some years ago. Mr. Gibson has gone to Newport, where he will open his house on Bellevue avenue, which he has not occupied for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gassaway Davis 3d, who have been at Southampton, L. I., for the early summer, are guests of her parents, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at Beaulieu in Newport. Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Grace Vanderbilt. Mr. Davis is the son of Mrs. B. Armstead Davis, of Washington.

Mrs. Paul Bastedo, wife of Commander Bastedo, U. S. N., is in Washington at her home in Wyoming avenue, for an indefinite stay because of the illness of her son, Mr. Richard B. Griffin.

Mrs. Frank West has closed her house in Georgetown and has left for the Canadian Rockies, accompanied by her daughter, Miss Winifred West. They expect to return the latter part of August.

Mrs. Harriman Russell landed in New York yesterday on the S. S. Paris after spending several months in Europe. With her mother, Mrs. Borden Harriman, she expects to spend several weeks at one of the Northern seaside resorts, probably Jamestown. Mrs. Vincent Astor, of New York, was also a passenger on the Paris.

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt Goes to Atlantic City.

Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, some time Assistant Attorney General, has gone to Atlantic City and is at the Ambassador Hotel for a brief stay.

Sir Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, has sailed for home without visiting Washington—that is, as far as any one knows.

For he is so quiet about his plans, that mystery usually shrouds his visits. However, it is known, that he landed in Canada, slipped over the border, and visited in Bar Harbor and in New York before his return to England.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Smith will have as their guests for a week-end early in August, at their cottage in Cape May, Mr. and Mrs. John Whelan and Mr. Sidney Thomas.

Mr. Whelan and Mr. Thomas will accompany Mr. Smith in his plane, which he pilots himself. He has made many trips to Cape May by air this summer.

Mrs. Flora Mason Nicholson is spending several weeks at the country club at Fredericksburg, Va.

Mr. Edgar Hamilton Funk has returned to his home in Washington after a two-week visit with friends and relatives in Virginia.

Child Welfare Group Feted By President

Also Entertains Another Distinguished Party in Evening.

The President and Mrs. Hoover entertained at luncheon yesterday at the White House for the executive committee of the Child Welfare Conference, which has been meeting here. The luncheon followed a meeting of the committee, over which the President presided.

The Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilmur, is chairman of the committee, of which Mr. James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, is a member. The two Cabinet officers were among Mr. Hoover's luncheon guests. Others in the company were Mr. Edgar Rickard, of New York; Dr. H. E. Barnard, Indianapolis, executive secretary; Miss Grace Abbott, head of the Children's Bureau; Mr. Henry Breckenridge, of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, New York; Mrs. Grace S. Burlingham, St. Louis; Mr. Bailey B. Burritt, of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor of New York.

Also Judge Frederick P. Cabot, Boston; Dr. Frank Cody, superintendent of schools of Detroit; Dr. S. J. Crumbine, American Child Health Association, New York; Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, Dr. Lee K. Krankel, Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., New York; President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor; President Samuel Mc. Hammill, of the American Pediatric Society, Philadelphia; Dr. William F. King, Indiana State health commissioner; Miss Gertrude B. Lane, editor of the Woman's Home Companion, New York; Mrs. William Brown Meloney, of the New York Herald Tribune; Mrs. Elizabeth A. Perkins, Evanston, Ill.; Mrs. Raymond Robins, Brookville, Fla.; Mrs. F. Louis Slade, New York; Dr. William F. Snow, National Health Council, New York; Dr. Louis Stanley, of the Department of Agriculture; Miss Bina West, Port Huron, Mich., and Mr. French Strother, President Hoover's "research secretary."

The President and Mrs. Hoover had as their dinner guests last evening the Secretary of State, Mr. Stimson; Gen. and Mrs. Jadwin, Commissioner of Indian Affairs and Mrs. Rhoads, Mr. and

HOOVER'S CHILD AID BOARD MAPS WORK

Secretary Wilbur Selected to Head Executive Committee.

(Associated Press.)

The planning committee for President Hoover's child welfare conference went ahead yesterday with its work of effecting an organization and appointed an executive committee through which its activities for the time being are to be carried forward.

The executive committee consists of Secretary Wilbur, as chairman; Miss Grace Abbott, of the Children's Bureau of the Labor Department, secretary; Dr. H. E. Barnard, Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, and French Strother, one of Mr. Hoover's assistants.

Meetings were held at the Interior Department and members of the planning committee were guests of President Hoover at luncheon.

Secretary Wilbur reported that much progress had been made. Chairmen of some of the subcommittees which the committee as a whole plans to establish were tentatively selected, he said, and are being approached as to whether they will serve. Their names were not revealed.

Canada Fliers Rescued; Were Marooned 10 Days

Winnipeg, Man., July 30 (A.P.).—Marooned on a small lake in the northern wilds for ten days, Flying Officer W. D. Van Vliet and E. Barrie, of the Royal Canadian Air Force, were rescued yesterday, according to information received here today.

While carrying provisions to a surveyor's camp, headwinds depleted the gasoline supply of Van Vliet's plane and he was forced to land on Thunder Lake. After all available planes of the force had concentrated in a ten-day search, signal fires brought a rescue party.

Georgians Ask Separate Street Cars for Negroes

Atlanta, July 30 (A.P.).—Separate street cars and buses for negro passengers, or compartments in these vehicles for white passengers and negroes, would be provided in a bill reported favorably by a committee of Georgia House of Representatives.

Street railway companies argued that the measure would entail such expense that increased fares and discontinued service would result.

Free Demonstration

Stuart's Plapao-Pads are different from the truss, being mechano-chemico applicators made self-adhesive purposely to keep the herbal muscle-tonic called "PLAPAO" continuously applied to the affected parts, and to minimize danger of slipping and painful friction. The fabric is soft as velvet, and being adhesive, it clings to the body, without straps, buckles or springs. Easy to apply—comfortable — inexpensive. The epidermatic absorption of the "PLAPAO" and the utilization of "mechanico - chemico therapy," tend toward a natural process of recovery, after which no further use for a truss. During 23 years, thousands have successfully treated their ruptures at home, without delay from work. Awarded Gold Medal, Rome; Grand Prix, Paris; Honorable Mention, San Francisco, etc.

TRACTION METHOD BARED

but Fleharty, smiling sourly, declared "you know as well as I do, Mr. Dunlop, that you can't modify a stipulation after it has been made, so far as that goes."

William McK. Clayton, representative of the Federation of Citizens Associations, protested that although he had been an attorney of record for the federation at the former proceedings, neither he nor Fleharty had been notified of the conference at which the agreement was made.

"The fact that neither Mr. Fleharty, the people's counsel, nor myself, the representative of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, knew about or was present at the conference is a plain derogation of the people's rights," Clayton said.

"Chairman Childress wrote that letter without my advice and only after a full five days had elapsed after the petition of the company had been formally dismissed," Bride said.

Dual Testimony Allowed.

Chairman Patrick ruled against the company contention that the old record must be accepted. The commission, he said, would give judicial notice to the Court of Appeals decision. It would pass on portions of the record specifically as offered, he said.

Dunlop noted an exception and declared that "in view of the fact that the commission does not intend to give legal weight to the court decisions we are entitled to" he offered certified copies of the decision. This was accepted as well as a copy of the transcript of the record and the court opinion, although the acceptance of all of these was an exception to the commission's rules of procedure for the present hearings.

With that question settled for the time being the hearings settled down to questioning of witnesses on behalf of the commission by Commissioner Hartman. Although Heberle was technically on the stand it was agreed, at the suggestion of Dunlop, that Hanna, under oath, could answer any question which Heberle could not.

Dunlop asked that the company be given all of the questions in advance, so that it could prepare answers, but this was not done, the commission stating that the company could submit answers later to any questions which could not be answered at once because of lack of detailed information available.

Retirement System Explained.

Hanna said that the company had not taken property and equipment which had been retired off its books at the same figure at which these had been included in the valuation total of the company and admitted that retirements had been charged off at cost multiplied by certain figures indicating the increase in prices since 1914, using the 1914 figures as 100. Thus shop equipment was retired at 168, it was explained by Heberle.

Hartman developed that the Grace street power house of the company was included in the valuation total at $140,000, although its assessed value was $70,000 and the company had sought to have that figure reduced to $50,000.

Hanna said that while that was true, the assessed value of property had nothing to do with its value for rate-making purposes adding that other properties were assessed at a higher figure than that at which they had been included in the valuation. It was developed that the power house no longer was in use as such, but was used partly as a storehouse and a part of it had been rented to a paper company, although it remained in the valuation at the old figure.

Hartman then launched into a series of questions having to do with the age of tracks now in use by the company, that on Pennsylvania avenue from Eighth to Seventeenth street southeast, for instance, having been built in 1901. The building housing the company shops was built "about 1878 or 1879" Hanna admitted, and although the navy yard barn had been built in 1891 or 1892 it had been almost completely rebuilt in 1908 or 1909, while the Georgetown barn, built in 1895 had been "reconstructed two or three times since," and the Decatur street barn had been built in 1906 or 1907. The garage on Water street had been built in 1880, but there had been changes since then, Hanna said.

Hartman then turned attention to the age and condition of street cars, Heberle saying the average age of company cars was seventeen and a half years.

Dunlop again interrupted at this point declaring that if the purpose of Hartman's questioning was to affect the value for rate-making purposes by deducting depreciation he objected because the Court of Appeals decision in the company valuation case had said no depreciation should be charged off valuation. Hartman asked him to quote the decision. He did, citing the court's comment on the sinking fund of the company, and said this decision was binding on the commission.

Hanna Rides Own Line.

Hartman turned his attention to buses, and developed the fact that one bus purchased in 1923 for $7,577.82 had accrued depreciation amounting to $7,377 against it but still was in the valuation at full figure.

Admitting these and similar things, Hanna said that the questions and answers were misleading, declaring that his company was not using depreciation moneys for capital purposes, and when it did so it paid interest on the money borrowed from the depreciation fund. To which Hartman agreed, but pointed out that the rate was 3 per cent and the company received 7 per cent on its valuation.

Hanna declared that the practice followed by his company was in accord with approval of the commission, and pointed out that the commission never laid down rules for treatment of depreciation.

The traction company president disclosed himself as a patron of his own street cars during his examination, declaring that he knew the condition of considerable stretches of tracks "because I ride over them every day." After the hearing he said that the street cars were more convenient to ride downtown, although he had an automobile.

Undue Padding Denied.

Questioning in the afternoon session revolved around the manner in which various charges were made for various jobs, and again Dunlop swung into action with objections. Once Heberle said that the accounting methods of the company had been approved by the utilities commission, and Hartman asked him to cite a specific approval given by the commission.

Hanna then took up the answer and declared that while it probably was true that actual, definite approval had not been given formally by the commission in any particular case the books of his company always had been open to the commission whose tacit approval had been given to the accounts. Hanna seemed somewhat affected and declared that this was the very first time the books ever had been questioned but Hartman said he had not challenged them. Hanna said he didn't know what else was being done, and Hartman said possibly his next question would reveal that, and asked Heberle or Hanna to show the authority for various details under the accounting classification issued by the commission in the past.

Hanna admitted that several jobs had been handled through the capital and depreciation accounts rather than through the maintenance account, although the jobs were properly maintenance or renewal jobs and not extensions. But, the traction head insisted, this was a questioon of bookkeeping and did not mean that there had been any undue padding of the valuation.

Improper Assessing.

Hartman's questions were designed to show that on each small job there had been many charges improperly assessed, and that although some of these were small, they were "illustrative," and in the total through the years would loom large in their effect on the valuation. He cited one item of $17 in one case, and the addition to the capital account of $6 for bus license plates.

But Hanna said that the sum total would make very little difference, and what the difference would be, whether in the end the result would be an increase in valuation or a decrease, he nor any one else could not say, but the difference "would be small."

"These small mistakes," he said, "were not intended to boost valuation. If we had wanted to do that we would have picked larger items."

"We'll give you full credit for that, Mr. Hanna," Hartman laughed in reply.

The hearings will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning in the commission offices on the first floor of the District Building.

BIG COTTON STRIKE SITUATION LOOSENS

NEW BRANCH INVOLVED

Manchester, England, July 30 (A.P.).—The great stoppage in the Lancashire cotton industry, which has tied up 1,500 mills and thrown half a million operatives out of work, loosened somewhat tonight despite failure of three meetings of different organizations today to bring resumption of negotiations between employers and workers.

Although a committee of the Master Cotton Spinners Federation confirmed the action of the employers' wages committee in reducing wages 12½ per cent, the employers generally tonight expressed themselves as ready to meet the workers in new negotiations.

This attitude on the part of the employers, however, presupposed the workers would be ready to discuss some reduction in wages, though not necessarily to the full 12½ per cent demanded by the master cotton spinners.

A new branch of the industry was brought into the dispute today by announcement of the Cotton Waste Spinners & Manufacturers Association that it would seek similar reduction of wages for its employes Representatives of employers and workers in this branch will meet tomorrow.

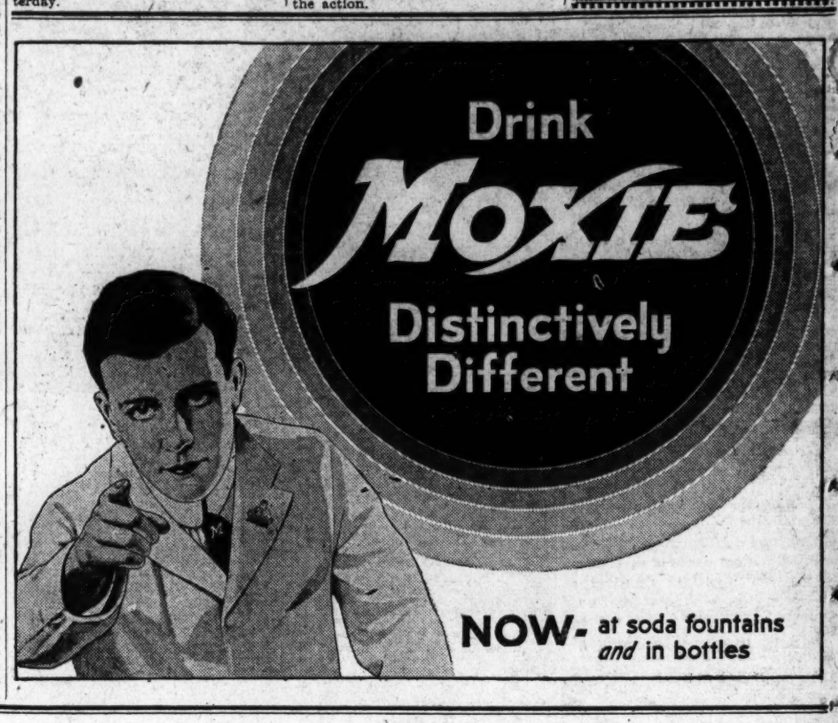
Give Yourself a Treat Today!



I want to tell you how I coaxed him to eat—
If you are tired — lack pep—if your skin is not clear — if your appetite is "gone" — you owe it to yourself and friends to try S.S.S.

"Once I was worried.

Mealtime was getting on my nerves. I prepared many appetizing dishes, but John simply would not eat—just 'minced' at his food. Perhaps sometimes a little grouchy. I began to fear he was 'slipping.' What was I to do? Love, home, happiness, business success—all depended upon an improvement in his condition. The blood tonic idea suggested itself to me. My Druggist recommended S.S.S. He told me that S.S.S. was a great blood tonic; that it had been successful for over 100 years; that it was made from fresh vegetable drugs and would not harm the most delicate system. Also that it would build up the blood and improve the processes by which the body is nourished. I brought home a large size bottle. John agreed to try it. Well, in just a few days I could see the difference. His improvement has been so rapid he is going to take several more bottles, and not only that, but he is now telling his friends to take S.S.S."

Rich, red blood builds sturdy health

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get your blood cells back up to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again, sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady.

S.S.S. is daily helping people regain their strength and charm. Thousands of users have testified to its benefits in unsolicited letters of gratitude. It helps Nature build red-blood-cells. It gives to Nature what it needs in making you feel like yourself again.

Loss of appetite only a symptom

It is a known fact that when one's system gets "run-down," they haven't the resistance to ward off diseases. Loss of appetite is only a symptom. General weakness pervades the entire body. There is no desire to work or play.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

Radio Will Tell Award By Edison

Exercises on Giving of Scholarships at Inventors' Laboratory Broadcast at 5 P. M.; Ballet Music at 9 P. M.

The awarding of a four-year scholarship in any technical school in the United States to one of the "typical American boys" selected by the governors of the various States for the Thomas A. Edison prize will be broadcast direct from the inventor's laboratory steps at 10:45 o'clock this morning by WRC.

At the request of Mr. Edison, the governor of each State and the Commissioners of the District of Columbia have selected a "typical American boy," who had achieved during the school year the highest marks in scientific studies in his State.

Today the 49 State and District winners will be assembled at the Edison laboratory in West Orange, N. J., for an elaborate entertainment and for the awarding of prizes. Mr. Edison will personally give each boy an oral examination, and the one who gives the best answers will win the scholarship prize. Other tokens will be presented to each State and District winner by Mr. Edison.

During the broadcast there will be a roll call and personal greeting from the inventor, and brief remarks by members of the advisory committee, which includes such famous men as Henry Ford, George Eastman and Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

The program will close with music by the United States Marine Band from the Marine Barracks, Washington.

The Mauve Decade will be celebrated in song during the Palmolive Hour when the ensemble sings its own special collection of "Gems of the Nineties" at 8:30 o'clock from WRC. Under the baton of Gustave Haenschen, the orchestra will immediately thereafter launch into the usual rapid-fire selections from present-day productions. The program will include "Hymn to the Sun" from Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Coq d'Or," to be sung by Olive Palmer as a soprano solo.

"Iolanthe" will be broadcast by the National Light Opera Company at 9:30 o'clock from WRC. With Dr. Theophil Wendt conducting, the radio cast will present the following soloists in the leading roles.

The Lord Chancellor, Frank Moulan, barytone; Earl of Mountararat, Theodore Webb, barytone; Earl Tolloller, Harold Branch, tenor; Private Willis, Frank Croxton, bass; Strephon, James Haupt, tenor; Queen of the Fairies, Paula Hemminghaus, contralto; Iolanthe, Alma Kitchell, mezzo-soprano; Celia, Aimee Punshon, soprano; Leila, Katherine Palmer, soprano; Fleta, Isabelle Addis, contralto, and Phyllis, Erva Giles, soprano.

Phil Dewey, barytone, will be soloist with the Happy Wonder Bakers in a program of light summer fantasies. Massenet's "Meditation" from "Thais," and Grieg's "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen" are included among the selections.

A portion of the program from Boston to celebrate the seventh anniversary of Station WNAC will be broadcast by WMAL at 10 o'clock. Marjorie Warren Leadbetter, soprano, will be the guest soloist.

The program to be presented by Bernhard Levitow and his orchestra during the Kolster Radio Hour at 9 o'clock includes the ballet music from "Rosamunde," Schubert; Prelude to "L'Enfant Prodigue," Debussy; Waltz from Opus 54, Dvorak; Finale from "String Quartet in G Minor," Opus 74, No. 3, Haydn, and Scherzo, from "Sonata Tragica," MacDowell.

George Rymer, tenor, heard each week with the United Symphony Orchestra, has chosen "Dear Heart of Mine," Schubert's "Serenade," and "Can It Be Love" for his solo numbers tonight.

Stanley Bell and Les Colvin will be in the studios of WMAL between 11 o'clock and midnight to broadcast a DX request program.

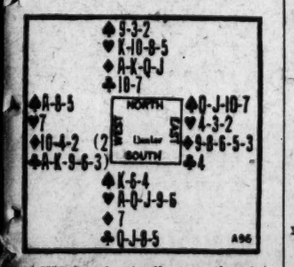
WORK'S BRIDGE

COULD YOU DO BETTER?



THIS hand actually was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one Heart, West two Clubs, North two Hearts, East and South passed, West then risked the doubtful bid of three Clubs. North raised the Hearts once more and that ended the auction.

At Contract Bridge South would bid one Heart (his side strength fully justifies it) and after West's two Clubs, North, with a count for suit-jumping of 21, would bid four Hearts.

When the hand was played, West led the Ace and King of Clubs, East discarding his lowest Diamond on the second Club. West then led a third Club, hoping for the improbable, viz., that East would be able to over-ruff Dummy. Dummy, however, ruffed with the Eight, thus shutting out East quite cheaply; and the trumps then were exhausted. South subsequently discarded his three Spades on dummy's high Diamonds, and consequently the Declarer made five-odd—one more than game.

Could you have put up a better defense?

THE ANSWER

East, when playing to the second trick should have realized that with his worthless trumps he would be unable to over-ruff dummy on a third round of Clubs, and that Declarer doubtless could discard one or more losing Spades on dummy's Diamonds. Consequently East should have made the much ridiculed play of trumping his partner's Ace (of Clubs) so as to get the lead up to North's weak Spades before Declarer had a chance to make any Spade discards. If East could be lucky enough to find West with the Ace and two Spades over South's King and two, leading high Spades from the East hand would yield three Spade tricks, making a total of five and a saved game. And so it would have happened.

Baby Mine

By EARL MINDERMAN

JULY 31.

HELENA PETROVNA BLAVATSKY, founder of the Theosophical Society, which now has about 14,000 branches, was born this day, 1831, in Russia. She founded the society in New York in 1873.

Objects of the society are to form the nucleus of a universal brotherhood of humanity, to study and make known the ancient religions, to investigate the laws of nature and to develop the divine powers latent in man. Headquarters of the parent organization are in India. Miss Annie Desaant was elected president in 1915. Madame Blavatsky died in 1891. She traveled to all parts of the world and even succeeded in entering forbidden Tibet. She wrote much on the ancient doctrines of India.

Other noted women born this day include Alice Hunt Bartlett, American author, 1870, and Sydney Fairbrother, English actress, 1923.

Directors Aid Jobless Musicians

Radio Orchestral Leaders to Form Units of Performers Out of Work Through Use of Movietones in Theaters.

Six nationally known radio orchestral directors have volunteered their services to alleviate among musicians unemployment distress caused by the substitution of movietone and vitaphone equipment in film-theaters.

Starting next Wednesday, they will begin to create radio orchestras from among the musicians of many years' experience who have been rendered workless by the development of sound-pictures and the use of sound-equipment in theaters instead of full orchestras as formerly.

The directors who have volunteered their services are Josef Pasternack, David Mendosa, Eugene Ormandy, Howard Barlow, Freddie Rich, and William Wirges, all of them under exclusive contract to the Judson Radio Program Corporation.

The employment situation among musicians is said to be grave. In New York many musicians who, until the advent of the sound-pictures were employed in motion picture theater orchestras, have lost their jobs. Some have obtained other musical employment, but by no means all of them.

Maurice Van Praag, personnel director of the Judson organization as well as of the Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra, stated that the plan by which the directors named will create new radio units out of the material formerly employed in theaters, will go a far way to alleviate the unemployment situation among musicians.

"This plan should quickly gain employment for more than 200 men," Mr. Van Praag said. "It will not wholly solve the unemployment situation, but it will greatly help. If other musical institutions encourage their orchestral directors to help similarly, the problem will be more than half solved. We purpose to create six new musical units immediately. These units will consist of a string orchestra, a symphonic orchestra, a symphonic-jazz unit, a strictly jazz unit, a salon orchestra and a combination string-woodwinds ensemble.

"There is always a market in radio broadcasting for any unit of musical excellence. The orchestral directors who have so graciously promised to give their time and talent and attention to rehearsing these trained musicians, who through no fault of their own are out of work, will make a gain for radio out of the loss caused by the motion picture's technical development.

"This but bears out the whole history of musical progress. Whatever has at any time seemed like a disaster has eventually turned out to mean a new forward step."

Mr. Van Praag stated that the plan had the full cooperation of Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians. The first rehearsal will be held this morning.

A midsummer survey of the radio industry, according to President H. B. Richmond, of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, indicates another "excellent" radio year. Summer sales, according to President Richmond, are in unusual volume, although the present season lacks the stimulus of the presidential election campaign enjoyed last year.

"The actual number of receiving sets sold this year may not equal last year's record total," said Mr. Richmond, "but, all in all, this season shapes up as an excellent one. Business in accessories, such as tubes, is greatly increased and during the 1929-30 season probably will smash all previous records. Whether the total volume of radio sales will change materially over last year is questionable, as the average price of receiving sets will be lower, with a decrease in unit cost, despite an increase in performance and value given to the public per dollar."

Mr. Richmond is an engineer, the first to head the national organization of radio manufacturers. He was elected president of the RMA last June at its annual convention, after serving on the association's board of directors since 1926. He is young, forceful and energetic and of the "dynamic" type of executive, and as head of the manufacturing industry for the coming year will have a potent influence on the development of radio.

A graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Richmond has been with the General Radio Co. of Cambridge, Mass., since 1919, beginning as an engineer. At present he is treasurer and administrative officer of the company.

Mr. Richmond is a member of the Institute of Radio Engineers, and also of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers. At the Massachusetts Institute of Technology he was president of the Electrical Engineering Society, which is the student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, and vice president of the Radio Society. Prior to his election as president of the RMA, Mr. Richmond was the director of the engineering division of the association, which was formed in March, 1927. This division took over former radio standardization work and consolidated in one group all of the technical committees of the association. During the World War, Mr. Richmond was in command of the Supply Company of the Forty-fifth Artillery which saw service in France.

Dan O'Neill INTERPRETS the MODE

IN writing about the creations of Paris for the Lovely Lady, one has an embarrassment of riches. We never can tell you about the tenth part of what we see—and the problem is to know what tenth to elect! Recently we have seen so many "little nothings," as the French call them, that we must mention a few of them.

A pair of ear pendants, for instance, which resembled nothing so much as a sprig of wild flowers, inset with tiny sapphires and brilliants.

Or a lovely handbag made of ribbon, placed in diagonal stripes of black, gray, white and blue, created by Molyneaux to harmonize with an afternoon ensemble—for one of the secrets of the Parisienne's charm is that she always sees to it that her hat, handbag, flower, shoes and hose harmonize with the dress.

• • • •

And a lovely comb—for hairdooms are coming back again, along with longer hair—made of a substance like crystal, inset with colored gems. And a large decorative hairpin in the same genre. (Who ever thought we'd see hairpins again!)

Or a large parasol of sombre hue with a large, merry yellow sun of modernistic design incrusted therein. Parasols, incidentally, tend to run to very quiet shades this year—beiges, grays, chestnut, bronze and the like.

Or a matching set of pajamas, dressing gown and pillow, all slipping conveniently into the same matching case, for Miladi Traveler.

• • • •

Wouldst like to know how to make (or have made) a brassiere-vest? The two-in-one garment, you see. And a garter-girdle that holds up long stockings perfectly, yet is just an inch wide?

And then step-ins to go with these two—a perfect lingerie ensemble for a summer lovely lady! Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet that tells you how to make them all.

So white—and so lovely for the slightly more formal summer affair! 'Tis of white georgette, the bands heavily embroidered and pearled with white, and a tracery of gold beads. And then there is one of the new and very smart matching georgette wraps, which are half shawl and half coat, and which will be smart not only for the summer but to wear under heavier evening wraps this fall as well. 'Tis a Dah-Ray design, yes—and any dressmaker or specialty shop can copy it for you.

Extra! No, sir, has nothing whatsoever to do with the week's leaflet—it's a separate letter from me to you, so you have to write to me personally, and enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope in which to tell you of a whole lot of ways and means to fix up a home. We polychromed this, enameled that, lacquered the other, varnished—but will have more room to tell you about it in a letter!

Au Revoir!

What Today Means to You

JULY 31

"LEO."

IF July 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 5 a. m. to 7 a. m., from noon to 1:30 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m.

This day should end with a feeling of satisfaction, in regard to business affairs, as the influence in force will be both strong and propitious. The aid and sympathy of influential friends may be anticipated. It is not a favorable time for problems of the heart, and there are disappointments indicated for lovers.

The child born this July 31 will be strong, active and self-reliant. It will be very ambitious and will have the requisite characteristics to make its childhood dreams come true. It will be a most conscientious student.

You will never be a "top-notcher" in anything; you will never have one supreme attainment, but you will have several good average ones. You are able to meet the needs of the folks around you, and to carry out your job in an efficient and a capable manner.

You are humble enough to know your limitations, but you do not undervalue your own efforts. The achievements of the stars in any work or profession do not dismay or discourage you. You are neither too soft nor too lazy to fight for the place and privilege which belongs to you in life, and you will make the most of yourself. Your capability in everyday things is very pronounced.

Your sense of humor is a treasure far above rubies; it makes the vexatious associations of life easier for you, and it makes you a desirable companion. An adventurous spirit, coupled with an imagination, enable you to see the unusual in the usual, and to find hidden interests.

Your persevering qualities are savored with common sense. They do not make you stick for the sake of stubbornness when it would be the part of wisdom to admit defeat. On the other hand, you are not easily discouraged, and you never give up because of hardships or hard work. You earn your successes and happiness.

Daring, Dangerous Birds.

OF all birds, the eagle is the most daring and the most dangerous.

It is swift of wing, and has a beak and claws which can do great damage. Eagles have been known to attack children in at least a few cases; but it is doubtful that any child has ever been "carried off."

In fear the hawk drops its prey.

There are many kinds of eagles. Among these are the golden eagle and the bald eagle.

The golden eagle, which is found in many parts of Europe and America, kills smaller birds and rabbits for food. Many cases are on record where it has killed lambs and fawns.

The eagle must be careful that a fawn is alone before it swoops down to kill. Sometimes the mother deer has been known to rush to the rescue of her young. By butting the bird with her head, or kicking with her heels, she has saved the fawn from death.

The bald eagle is a native of North America. It has been given the name because the young members of the tribe have no feathers on the top of their heads until they are 7 years old. Later they grow small white feathers there. Life is long among these birds. They may reach the age of 100 years without being extremely old, as eagles go. Some eagles, it is declared, have lived for 200 years or more.

Bald eagles have a habit of letting other birds do work for them. They wait on a high limb of a giant tree and near the sea coast. From that perch, they watch fish hawks at the game of making a living. The eagles's eyes are so keen that it can see what is happening a great distance away. When it sees a fish hawk swoop down and catch a fish, it leaves its resting place and darts forth. The fish hawk sees it coming and tries to escape. The swift eagle flies close, and the hawk begins to fear for its life. It drops the fish, and sets about escaping in earnest.

The eagle forgets about the fish hawk, and shoots down toward the falling fish. Usually the fish is caught before it touches the water.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

HONORS TO DR. SIMS.

THE people of South Carolina have recently erected a monument to Dr. Marion Sims, a great surgeon born in their State. Dr. Sims gained his reputation as a surgeon while a general practitioner in Alabama. He later broadened his reputation by establishing the Woman's Hospital in New York City. Living in Europe for several years he achieved world-wide fame. The people of South Carolina would also honor themselves were they to erect a monument to another native son, Dr. J. C. Nott. Dr. Nott's great service was to preventive medicine. Like Dr. Sims, Dr. Nott moved from South Carolina to Alabama. It was while a resident of Mobile that he advocated the theory that mosquitoes spread yellow fever, antedating Dr. Carlos Finley, of Havana, by many years.

Like Dr. Sims, Dr. Nott rendered New York City a great service, having investigated an epidemic of yellow fever which occurred in that city in 1870. It was while practicing in Mobile in 1848 that Dr. Nott wrote an article in the New Orleans Medical and Surgical Journal advocating the mosquito theory. I think I have read other articles by him in other publications in which he advocated this theory.

In Dr. Nott's report on the New York City epidemic he said yellow fever is never contagious. He leaned strongly to the germ theory of disease, according to the bulletin of the New York City Health Department. Comparing yellow fever with marsh fevers, mostly malarias and malignant postule, Dr. Nott said it was taken by gnats and communicated by the bite. "There are many ways in which the disease might be carried and communicated by insects." It is true that Dr. Nott's opinion was largely speculative. He did not supply the clear-cut proof that Reed, Carroll and Lazean provided when they demonstrated the truth of Carlos Finley's speculations. His claims are somewhat similar to those of Joseph Jones for credit as the discoverer of the malaria parasite.

Joseph Jones, of New Orleans, saw this parasite, described it and drew what he saw, but he was in error in many of his points. His demonstration lacked the clear-cut scientific exactness of that of Laveran, the Frenchman, who, years later, wrote on the same subject. However, for that matter, how could we expect clear-cut proof considering the tools with which Nott worked in 1848, or even the state of the sciences and art when Joseph Jones wrote about malaria?

Nott deserves to have his name live.

Today's True Detective Story

The Blood-Splashed Ring.

By VANCE WYNN

IN the course of time thousands of persons have disappeared as completely as though they had dropped through the earth, but few of these mysteries have been quite as weird as that of Marie Anna Holzmann, of Augsburg, Bavaria.

She had lodged for years with a shoemaker in that town, but he did not report the case for a month after she had left the house. He explained the delay by saying that she was in the habit of leaving for a few days at a time, and he did not want to cause unnecessary excitement.

The police felt that it was incumbent upon them to do something, so they placed the shoemaker under arrest. He was held as a 'material witness."

Many weeks went by without the discovery of anything to account for this strange disappearance. Then the shoemaker was released. He went to his home and, prowling about the loft of the house, made a ghastly discovery. It was the trunk of a human body stuck in a bag and fastened to the rafters.

The police were called in for a second time, and on this occasion they succeeded in locating different parts of the body in various parts of the house. The remains were assembled and a peculiarity of the teeth made it clear that the body was that of Marie Anna Holzmann.

After that the authorities began to use their brains. They made it their business to find out who else had lived in the house at the time the girl lived there. They learned that two men had been there for at least part of the time. One was Charles Stiener, who was supposed to be half-witted, and the other was John Rauschmeir, a shrewd and unprincipled sort of chap who had no visible means of livelihood.

The Bavarians did what the police of New York or Chicago would have done under the circumstance. They located the two men and they shadowed them for many weary days. So far as Steiner was concerned, it was love's labor lost, and they pinned their hope upon Rauschmeir doing something that might incriminate himself. Their expectations were realized. One day the man went into a pawnshop and offered to pledge a woman's coat.

It was a coat that had belonged to Marie Anna Holzmann!

The man was arrested and accused of the murder, but he laughed at the charge. He admitted that he was a criminal and cheerfully confessed that he had stolen the coat from the girl's room, but ridiculed the idea of having had anything to do with her murder.

But stimulated with the progress they were making, the police made a third search of the lodgings. This time they found a cheap ring—a man's ring that was splashed with blood. Inquiries were made in the neighborhood, and a man was found who said that he had seen this ring on Rauschmeir's finger. That was rather convincing, but the police hesitated to show it to the man for fear that he might deny ownership and thus spoil their case. How could they contrive to make him admit that the ring belonged to him without letting him know that such an admission would be fatal to him.

They recalled the play scene in "Hamlet" when the moody Dane declared that the play was the thing to catch the conscience of the king. Why could not a little play on their part convict this man they believed to be a murderer? It was worth the attempt.

So the police gathered together a quantity of jewelry and placed it on a table, together with the ring, which had been washed of its bloodstains. They brought Rauschmeir from his cell and pointed to the loot upon the table.

"What's the use of your denying that you committed murder," said the police chief, "when you have here the stuff you stole from the girl's room?"

"I didn't steal it," retorted the man, and, seeing the ring, he picked it up, saying: "As a proof of it, there is my own ring."

He slipped it on his finger, and that little incident was the bit of evidence upon which a case was built which ended in his conviction and execution.

MINERS' FIRST AID CREWS TO COMPETE

Maryland Coal Companies Will Send Entrants to Frostburg Meet.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frostburg, Md., July 30.—With the announcement of the personnel of the eleven teams to represent the Consolidation Coal Co. and the complete prize list, the stage is set for the State of Maryland first aid meet to be held on the Beall High School grounds here next Saturday. Practically every coal company in the Maryland field will take part, the affair to be sponsored by the Maryland Bureau of Mines, Dr. J. J. Rutledge, of Baltimore, chief. The Consolidation Coal Co., the largest operator in the field, was the last to complete its lists.

The first prize will be a silver loving cup donated by Gov. Ritchie, under whose administration the State Bureau of Mines was created. The names of the members of the winning team will be engraved on the cup. Other prizes that go to the winning team are six national safety council medals, six fountain pens, donated by former Mayor George Stern, of Frostburg; $30 in cash, donated by Mayor R. J. Ross, of Westernport, head of the R. J. Ross Coal Corporation.

The second prize is a silver loving cup donated by County Commissioner A. Charles Stewart, six fountain pens donated by George Stern and $25 in cash.

Third prize, six fountain pens donated by George Stern, six watches with fobs. Each contestant in all teams will receive a handsome badge and the oldest working miner on the grounds will receive $10, donated by the C. S. Jefferies Lumber Co. The members of the Consolidation Coal Co. teams entered are:

Woman Seeks $15,000 For Injuries in Fall

Alleging that she suffered permanent injuries as the result of a fall in a street car, M. Edith Lutton, of 820 Upshur street northwest, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against the Washington Railway & Electric Co., seeking $15,000 damages.

The plaintiff alleges that she was a passenger on one of the defendant's street cars on May 28 when in attempting to alight her skirt caught in a splinter or other defective equipment and she was thrown forcibly to the floor. She tells the court that she had an armful of bundles at the time, and that although the conductor stood near her he made no effort to assist her or to prevent her from falling. She is represented by Attorney Robert Hardison.

agreement, providing for the funding of the payment of the indebtedness of the French republic to the United States, has been ratified in France in accordance with the terms thereof but has not as yet received the approval of the Congress of the United States.

"The said agreement having been ratified by the government of the French republic, the Secretary of the Treasury, with the approval of the President, hereby agrees with the French republic to the postponement of the date of the maturity of the principal of its indebtedness in respect of its purchase of surplus war supplies, maturing August 1, 1929, until the Mellon-Berenger agreement has been approved or disapproved by the Congress of the United States, but in no event shall such date be postponed beyond May 1, 1930. The Congress will reconvene shortly, and it is my expectation that the Mellon-Berenger agreement will receive consideration at an early date.

"It is understood that the French republic agrees to continue to pay interest on the said obligations, maturing August 1, 1929, in accordance with the terms thereof, until payment, provided, however, that if the Mellon-Berenger agreement is approved by the Congress of the United States prior to May 1, 1930, such amounts paid in interest prior to that date will be credited to the first annuities specified in the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

"It is further understood that in the event of the approval of the Mellon-Berenger agreement by the Congress of the United States the French Republic, within a reasonable time thereafter, will pay to the United States such additional amount as may be necessary to bring to a current basis the payments due up to that time under the terms of the Mellon-Berenger agreement.

"I shall appreciate it if you will transmit this communication to your government with the suggestion that your government authorize you to signify in writing its acceptance of this agreement and that this exchange of letters constitutes a definite and binding agreement between the two governments.

BYRD NOT LICENSED TO FLY CIVIL PLANE

he even so much as rides beside the pilot of a licensed airplane with dual controls.

The Aeronautics Branch, Department of Commerce, has no records to show that Commander Byrd ever failed to pass the required examination for licensed pilots or that he has even applied for such a test. He does hold a certificate issued by the Federation Aeronautique Internationale through the National Aeronautic Association. The number of this certificate is 6681 and it was granted April 11, 1927. Officials of the N. A. A. pointed out yesterday that it was necessary for him to be licensed by the aeronautic organization for his flight to France to have been official should it have set any record.

Being a qualified Navy pilot, Commander Byrd may pilot Army and Navy aircraft wherever he pleases. But should he so much as take a licensed civil airplane off the ground and the fact be reported to the Department of Commerce, he would be subject to discipline.

Department heads in the aeronautics branch yesterday called attention to the fact that Commander Byrd in the past has never made a flight in a civil airplane without taking a licensed pilot with him. Floyd Bennett, who sacrificed his life in an effort to help the Bremen fliers, piloted him over the North Pole. On his transatlantic flight, Bert Acosta and Bernt Balchen alternated at the controls.

Byrd's position on his recent spectacular flights has been that of navigator—or "nvigator," as he seems to prefer to call it. However, if he ever decides to "take the stick" himself some day when he is flying in a civilian airplane, it will likely create a lot of trouble for the famous flier if the Department of Commerce ever hears about it.

$58,240 SCHOOL SITE PURCHASE APPROVED

WORK WILL START SOON

Purchase of 92,509 square feet of land in Wesley Heights, adjoining the American University site between Newark and Macomb streets northwest, at a total price of $58,240, was authorized yesterday by the Board of District Commissioners to provide a location for erection of a 16-room school building to replace four portable schools now on a plot of 25,021 square feet adjoining the newly authorized site.

The assessed valuation of the land is $46,596, and it was the opinion of the board that the price asked by the owners, W. C. and A. N. Miller, amounting to 125 per cent of this assessed figure, was a reasonable and just price for the District to pay.

Lots Nos. 13 to 37 are involved in the transaction, which is to be consummated immediately in order to permit an early start on work of erecting the new school building. On Lots Nos. 1 to 3 in the same plot a community house now stands, and in addition to the school building to be constructed, it is proposed also to devote a portion of the new site to increasing the District's playground facilities.

A deal was closed yesterday by Maj. Layson E. Atkins, assistant district engineer commissioner, with the Thrift Building Co. for purchase of a 42-acre tract in Anacostia Park, adjoining Kingman Lake, as a site for erecting two colored schools and a colored health center. A price of $100,000, or slightly more than $4,000 an acre, was paid.

This transaction is in line with plans for establishment of an extensive colored recreation center in Anacostia Park. A new junior high school, an elementary school of the platoon type, and a health center, along the lines of that now in operation for white children at Thirteenth and Allison streets northwest, are called for in present plans.

Maj. Atkins stated further than negotiations are under way for purchase of a triangular strip of land with a frontage of about 300 feet, as an addition to the grounds of McKinley High School, this land being located on the south side of the stadium, on the east side of First street northeast. Another entrance to the school grounds would be afforded by purchase of this strip, on which three residences are now standing.

Mrs. Foster Ends 38 Years of Duty

War Department Chief Is Given Traveling Case by Associates.

Mrs. Emma G. Foster, chief of the clipping bureau of the Military Intelligence Division of the War Department General Staff, retired from active duty after 38 years of service in the government.

Col. Stanley H. Ford, assistant chief of staff for Military Intelligence, presented Mrs. Foster with a traveling case on behalf of the officers and employes of the division. Mrs. Foster expects to leave Washington shortly for Europe where she will pass a year in travel.

Mrs. Foster was born in Vienna, Mich., 71 years ago. She entered the government employment as a teacher in the Indian School in 1891. She continued in this branch of the service until 1918 when she was transferred from the Indian Office to the Military Intelligence Division of the War Department.

GERMAN FACES JAIL IN DEATH RAY FRAUD

ing, not only would shrivel up all human beings on the other side of No Man's Land as far back as seventeen miles behind the lines, but that heavy steel cannons would melt and drop like overheated candles.

Hostile airplanes when coming under the influence of his rays would wilt in midair and topple down a bit of dust and metal, with the pilot and observer completely consumed, he said. The army that adopted his scheme simply would have to walk behind the wonderful machine, conquering cities until the whole world lay at its feet, imploring for mercy and surrendering gold and territory unconditionally.

The German military authorities, alarmed already over the steady influx of American troops into France in 1917, wasted no time in getting into touch with Brehahn. He was taken seriously by the general staff and was given a monthly allowance of 26,000 marks to perfect the first practical sample of his mass-death machine. Some hitch developed in the laboratory experiments and the armistice was signed before Brehahn got his model out.

When peace made his labors unnecessary, Brehahn found a ready audience among the nobility of Silesia and among ultranationalists and army men who hoped to bring back the kaiser and to put their country on the road to glory once more.

Tales Stir Imagination.

Brehahn's tales stirred their imaginations as men's imaginations were stirred in the Middle Ages by stories of the philosopher's stone and the elixir of life. They saw themselves as masters of Germany and masters of the world.

A retired general took Brehahn under his wing. At the general's house the "inventor" met such people as Prince von Bismarck, Count Buecker, Count Maltzan and Baron von Dirksen, who, with other enthusiasts, subscribed 60,000 marks toward Brehahn's work, and undertook to find another 600,000 marks, which was obtained from monarchist organizations.

Brehahn kept their enthusiasm at a high pitch by declaring that he would show them the effect of his device by killing all the Jews in Berlin in three minutes and afterward turning his attention on all Republicans and Liberals. Fortunately for the Jews and the rest of the world, Brehahn took a long time in perfecting his invention. His backers protested two years ago when he deserted his workshop to go on a lecture tour throughout the country to explain the death ray to big town audiences. He wanted, so he said, people to be prepared for the new day when he should commence to rid Germany and later the world at large from the democratic rabble.

Delay with the machine was followed by suspicion and at last his disappointed backers accused him.

Rash Covered Face. Itching and Burning Severe. Cuticura Healed.

"My face was covered with a rash. The itching and burning were so severe that I scratched, causing eruptions that were just as sore as they could be. I could not sleep some nights on account of the burning and was very restless. My face was disfigured. The trouble lasted about two years.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. My face was better after using it so I purchased more, and in about three months I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Sinai R. D. Griswold, R. 1, Box 20A, Gray, Ga.

The New BUICK

NEW Controlled Servo Mechanical Brakes ···NEW Steering Gear
NEW Road Shock Eliminator ·NEW Double Acting Shock Absorbers
NEW Non Glare Windshield

New Controlled Servo Enclosed Mechanical Brakes

Buick's new controlled Servo mechanical brakes—the most effective braking system ever developed—not only are of the favored internal-expanding type, but are fully protected against dust, dirt and moisture, and provide maximum braking under all road and weather conditions. These remarkable new brakes are self-energizing, which means that part of the braking effort is provided by the car's own motion—and they are fully controlled through the foot pedal, thus eliminating all possibility of "grabbing." A single test will prove Buick's new controlled Servo brakes the smoothest, most positive, and most easily operated ever developed for any motor car.

New Longer Springs—with New Double-Acting Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers

The new Buick introduces an unparalleled comfort combination in its new, longer rear springs and new double-acting Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers. The new rear springs give the car a free and easy cushioning motion, which is controlled in both directions by the double-acting shock absorbers—thus eliminating both bound and rebound under severest road conditions. Through the medium of these two wonderful new comfort factors, Buick has widened still further its decisive leadership in riding luxury.

New Road Shock Eliminator—New Steering Gear

Two vitally important features of the new Buick—a new steering gear and new road shock eliminator—mark the greatest contribution to handling ease and roadability achieved in recent years. The new steering gear, of worm and roller type, provides matchless steering ease throughout the entire turning range. The new road shock eliminator, built into the frame on the steering gear side, effectually absorbs road shocks and prevents their transmission to the steering wheel. The result of these twin features—found only in Buick—is unrivaled driving comfort at all speeds.

America has taken this new Buick to its heart. Millions have thronged to see it . . . tens of thousands have already placed orders . . . other thousands have requested demonstrations . . . and the reasons will be instantly apparent when you call at our showrooms and inspect the matchless array of new Buick models. **

The fact is that in the five major elements of motor car appeal—beauty, performance, comfort, safety, value—this new Buick with Body by Fisher strides far ahead of any other car in the entire quality field.

New Fisher Styling

The new Buick Bodies by Fisher are longer, lower, more luxurious. They reveal new Fisher styling—new beauty of line and appointment—new colors—which have won the outspoken admiration of all who have seen them. And in addition they introduce a host of new features of utility and convenience, including the new Fisher Non-Glare Windshield for safer night driving; new and richer upholstery; and new fittings and appointments of princely luxury.

Pacemaker of Performance

Moreover, Buick for 1930 reveals this same marked supremacy—this same increased leadership—in fleet, spirited behavior on the road. Its new and bigger Valve-in-Head engine—developing 99 horsepower—provides matchless new virility, pick-up, swiftness and flexibility. A single drive will prove it the pacemaker of performance. And the same drive will disclose marvelous new handling ease, comfort and safety, due to a new and improved steering gear and new road shock eliminator; new double-acting shock absorbers which check both bound and rebound; and new controlled Servo enclosed mechanical brakes, the most effective braking system employed on any car in the world.

See, Drive and Own This New Buick

Bear in mind, this new Buick with its many advancements is offered at new low prices—in three new series and three new wheelbases, with only one standard of quality throughout—the finest in its field.

Visit our showrooms today. See the new Buicks and arrange to drive one. Among the 14 attractive body types is exactly the Buick for you.

 So great is public confidence in Buick that thousands of motorists placed their orders for new Buicks before ever the car was shown. . . . Year after year, Buick sells more than 100,000 cars to Buick owners alone—more than the total output of the majority of cars in the Buick field.

New Peaks of Power in The New Buick Valve-in-Head Engine

The wonderful new Buick Valve-in-Head engine—developing 99 horsepower—represents the splendid climax of 26 years of concentration on this one outstandingly efficient type. It is a bigger engine—a sturdier engine—and provides greater speed as well as a power reserve more than adequate to any need which may arise. Moreover, this great new power plant is smoother and quieter, as well as more powerful, and provides a measure of all-round performance without parallel in the Buick field.

*The new engine in the 132-and 124-inch wheelbase series develops 99 horsepower—the new engine in the 118-inch series, 80½ horsepower. Also it achieves this additional performance without increased gasoline consumption.

The New Fisher Non-Glare Windshield . . a Vital Contribution to Motoring Safety

The new Fisher non-glare windshield—a vitally important feature exclusive to Buick-built cars—adds immeasurably to the safety, pleasure and comfort of night driving. This new windshield—tilted at an angle of 7 degrees—protects the driver against the annoying and frequently dangerous reflection or glare from other cars. Test the new Buick and experience the remarkable advantages of this new and exclusive feature.

CAPITAL TRACTION'S REVENUE DECLINES

STOCKS' PRICES STEADY

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Monthly and semiannual declines in net income were shown yesterday in the report of the Capital Traction Co. for June filed with the Public Utilities Commission. Net income of the company for June was $49,097.92, a decrease of $15,716.37 from the preceding month and one of $1,454.67 under June of 1928. Net income for the year to date, $330,298.50, is also $30,253.82 under that for the first half of 1928.

Operating revenues for June were $359,894.28, as against $389,304.72 for May and operating expenses, $255,072.76 in comparison with $263,059.94 in May. Taxes for the month were $27,406.08 as compared with $32,076.65 for the month prior. Gross income for June was $82,420.72 and that for May, $94,727.96. The total of revenue passengers carried in June was 4,714,627 while that for May was 5,072,291.

C. & P. Improvements Planned.

The board of directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. at its meeting yesterday authorized additions and betterments to the telephone system in the District of Columbia involving expenditures of $127,050 and bringing the total amount appropriated for such work so far this year to $1,483,815.

Facilities to be provided under this appropriation include underground conduit and cable extensions in the North, Potomac, Decatur, Georgia, Metropolitan, District, National and Lincoln central office areas and rearrangements of equipment in downtown telephone central office buildings.

This project, according to telephone officials, includes placing of about 50,000 feet of underground cable, 8,000 feet of conduit, construction of five new manholes and enlarging fifteen present manholes.

The new underground cable to be placed will contain 3,636 wires, which is the largest cable manufactured for telephone use. Previously, the largest cables used in Washington contained only 2,424 wires.

Expenditures for Six Months.

Capital expenditures for outside plant facilities and central office equipment added to the system of the Chesapeake & Potomac Co. in Washington during the first six months of the year amounted to $1,978,893, according to the statement covering the operations of the company just given the Public Utilities Commission. Retirements for this period were $701,326, making net additions for the six months period $1,277,567.

Telephone operating revenues for the six months ended June 30 were $4,196,896. Operating expenses were $3,068,531, making net operating revenues for the six months period $1,133,365, which was a decrease of $120,810 from the net operating income for the first six months of 1928.

Taxes assignable to operations for the first six months of this year amounted to $287,128. Operating revenues for the month of June were $566,943. Operating expenses during the month were $356,965, making net operating revenues for June $146,978. This was a decrease of $27,767 from the month of May. Taxes assignable to operations for the month of June amounted to $42,808.

On June 30, Washington was served by 153,815 telephones, which was an increase of 3,455 since January 1. During the month telephone users made more than 16,600,000 local and about 500,000 toll calls. This was an increase of 2.8 per cent in local and 11.8 per cent in toll calls over the same month last year.

Prices Steady in Moderate Trading.

Prices held steady in moderate trading on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday. There was a slight improvement in bond trading, a total of $5,200 in transactions being recorded, which was a $1,200 advance over Monday's sales. Stock volume declined, however, to the extent of 51 shares, 373 shares changing hands during yesterday's session.

Foremost in trading volume was Washington Mechanics Mortgage common, 200 shares of which transferred at 11, last sale price. Seventeen shares of Capital Traction sold at 95, last sale price, and 20 at a fractional recession. Lanston Monotype reappeared, 20 shares selling at 105, fractional gain. Bond trading was confined solely to the Washington Gas 6s, series A, and Washington Railway & Electric 4s issues.

Revenue Freight Loading.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on July 20 totaled 1,078,695 cars, the Car Service Division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. Compared with the corresponding week last year, this was an increase of 44,552 cars, and an increase of 66,110 over the corresponding week in 1927.

Compared with the preceding week this year, the total for the week of July 20 was an increase of 14,063 cars, with increases being reported in the loading of all commodities except live stock and coal.

	1929.	1928.
Four weeks in January	3,570,978	3,448,895
Four weeks in February	3,767,788	3,590,742
Five weeks in March	4,807,944	4,763,559
Four weeks in April	3,983,978	3,749,307
Four weeks in May	4,205,709	4,065,155
Five weeks in June	5,260,571	4,894,118
Week ended July 6	908,832	864,947
Week ended July 13	1,064,632	1,024,925
Week ended July 20	1,078,695	1,033,843

F. P. Morse Returns to Office.

Frank P. Morse, resident partner, J. & W. Seligman & Co., has returned to his office after being confined to his home with a severe cold.

G. Bowie Chipman, resident partner of Harriman & Co., who is passing July and August at his new summer home at Castine, Me., was in the city yesterday on business.

Frank B. Pryor, partner in Waggaman & Brawner, Inc., who has been ill for several days, received a basket of flowers from fellow members of the Washington Stock Exchange. His condition is now much improved.

President George O. Walson, of the Liberty National Bank and Washington Stock Exchange, will return from vacation at his summer home on South River, near Annapolis, Md., within a few days.

Automobiles pass from the hands of original ownership, not because they are worn out, but due many times to the desire for a different or later model. Dealers use the classified columns of The Post to find sale for them. Perhaps the very car you are looking for is to be found there.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agri., Weather Bureau, Washington, Tuesday, July 30—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia—Fair Wednesday and Thursday, except possibly local thundershowers Thursday afternoon or night; continued warm; light to variable winds, becoming south or southwest.

For Maryland and Virginia—Fair Wednesday and Thursday, except possibly scattered thundershowers Thursday afternoon or night; little change in temperature; gentle moderate shifting winds, becoming south or southwest.

The northeastern disturbance is now centered off the Labrador coast, Belle Isle, N. F., 29.50 inches, and a trough extends southwestward to Virginia. Another disturbance is advancing east-southeastward over Minnesota, Moorhead, 29.72 inches, and still another has developed over the northern Plateau region and British Columbia, Kamloops, B. C., 29.64 inches. Pressure remains high in the vicinity of Bermuda, Hamilton, 30.20 inches, and off the British Columbia coast, Prince Rupert, B. C., 30.16 inches, and it is relatively high from the Coronation Gulf region southward to Saskatchewan and the upper Lake region. Generally fair weather has prevailed during the last 24 hours, except for local thundershowers in the South Atlantic States, Nebraska, Missouri, Tennessee, and at scattered points in the central and southern Rocky Mountain region and along the West Gulf coast. The weather has become cooler in northern New England, northern New York, and the lower Lake region, but the temperature is still considerably above normal in the North Pacific States and the northern Plateau region, and over most sections east of the Rocky Mountains. The highest temperature reported this afternoon in the United States was 102 degrees at Spokane, Wash.; Bismarck, N. Dak., and Fort Worth, Tex., and at Fort Smith, Ark.; Wichita, Kans., and Oklahoma City, Okla., it reached 100 degrees.

There will be local thundershowers Wednesday and Thursday in the South Atlantic States and generally fair weather in Tennessee, the Ohio Valley, the lower Lake region, and the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States Wednesday will be followed by scattered thundershowers Thursday afternoon in these sections. The temperature will not change materially, however. It will rise somewhat Wednesday from the lower Lake region eastward to northern New England, and slightly cooler weather is indicated by Thursday night in the lower Lake region and the upper Ohio Valley.

E. McAuley Manufacturing Company and Ashcraft Automatic Arc Company.

General Theatres Equipment, Inc., will constitute a complete unit for the manufacture, distribution, installation and servicing of all types of equipment and supplies used in the operation of motion picture and general theatres.

Earnings: For the twelve months period ended on May 31, 1929, the above mentioned companies and businesses reported a combined net income before Federal Income Taxes, of $2,283,530. Maximum annual interest requirements on the Company's funded debt presently to be outstanding are $360,000.

Purpose of Issue: The proceeds of this issue will provide funds for the purchase of the outstanding funded debt and/or preferred stocks of International Projector Corporation, National Theatre Supply Company and Theatre Equipment Acceptance Corporation. Thus the subsidiary and controlled companies will have no Funded Debt or Preferred Stocks outstanding with the public upon completion of present financing.

Management: The management of the Company will continue to be vested in the hands of those who have been responsible for the successful operation of the above mentioned businesses. In order to insure a continuity of the present management all of the Common Stock will be placed under a Voting Trust expiring July 1, 1939. Mr. H. L. Clarke, Mr. W. F. Ingold and Mr. W. S. Hammons will act as Voting Trustees under the agreement, and The Corporation Trust Company will act as depositary for the Common Stock.

This issue has been listed on the New York Curb Exchange and the Chicago Stock Exchange on a when, as, and if issued basis.

This information and these statistics are not guaranteed, but have been obtained from sources which we consider reliable.

Legal details in connection with the issuance of this stock will be subject to the approval of Messrs. Davisson & Manice, and Messrs. Rushmore, Bisbee and Stern, New York City, for the Bankers, and Messrs. Matthews & Koegel, Chicago, for the Company.

We offer when, as, and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to the approval of Counsel and to allotment and to prior sale, such portion of the above 300,000 shares as may not be required by the Bankers in connection with their offer of exchange to holders of Preferred Stocks of International Projector Corporation and National Theatre Supply Company and of 6½% Notes of National Theatre Supply Company. It is expected that delivery of temporary voting trust certificates will be made on or about August 8, 1929.

A Consolidation of the Leading Manufacturers and Distributors of Motion Picture Equipment

MANUFACTURING in excess of 75% of all motion picture projectors used in theatres throughout the world—and is the largest manufacturer of professional cameras used either for sound or silent pictures.

Operating thirty stores and warehouses in the principal cities of the United States; and servicing booth equipment in three-fourths of all motion picture theatres throughout the country.

Net earnings for the calendar years 1929 and 1930, based on estimates as to contracts or commitments now at hand or presently to be acquired, are estimated in excess of $4,000,000 and $10,000,000 respectively. This does not take into account any of the substantial economies which the General Theatres Equipment, Inc., should be able to effect due to its large purchasing power and the benefits of centralized operation and management.

A Dominant Factor in a Stable Field

The Manufacture and Distribution of Motion Picture Equipment for Theatrical, Industrial, Educational and Home Use

THE General Theatres Equipment, Inc., will constitute a complete unit for manufacture and distribution, installation, servicing, and financing of all types of equipment and supplies used in the operation of motion picture and legitimate theatres.

The companies being acquired are all outstanding factors in their respective fields. To insure a continuance of their present successful operation, management will remain in the hands of the men so largely responsible for their success in the past.

Of the companies acquired, International Projector Corporation has been a leader in adapting projection apparatus to sound pictures and sells a large portion of its products to Western Electric Company, The Radio Corporation of America, Fox Film Corporation, Loew's, Inc., and Paramount-Famous Lasky Corporation. The average number of projectors per theatre is 2.9; and some of the larger theatres use as many as five or six machines.

Also in the consolidation is National Theatre Supply Company, which maintains a nation-wide distributing organization, with stores and warehouses in the principal cities, retailing all types of theatre equipment, projector parts, supplies, and making available service for booth equipment for 75% of all motion picture theatres.

Other companies include Grandeur, Inc., which will distribute and service the new projectors developed by International Projector Corporation; Mitchell Camera Company, which manufactures professional cameras for both sound and silent pictures; J. E. McAuley Manufacturing Company, Hall & Connolly, Inc., The Strong Electric Corporation and Ashcraft Automatic Arc Company, which together manufacture substantially all projecting lamps used in theatres; and Theatre Equipment Acceptance Corporation, which finances commercial paper taken for theatre equipment.

In short, General Theatres Equipment, Inc., will occupy a predominant position in the most stable field in the motion picture industry—the manufacture and distribution of equipment for theatrical, industrial, educational and home use.

A New Day Dawns in the Motion Picture Industry

The present world-wide success of the motion picture industry is in reality but a forecast of what the future holds for those with the technical and financial resources necessary to take full advantage of every opportunity.

Already General Theatres Equipment, Inc., has completed plans for marketing several new motion picture devices—outstanding among them a new type of camera with a revolving lens and a new type of projector so designed that when the pictures are thrown on the screen they give the illusion of a third dimension, life-like and convincing. This will make possible the showing of pictures at least two or three times as large as those now generally shown.

This new device has been hailed by men in authority in the industry as the greatest forward step since the introduction of sound.

THE FIFTH LARGEST industry in the United States, with a capital investment of approximately $1,750,000,000.

20,000 MOTION PICTURE theatres in the United States alone, with a seating capacity of 16,500,000 and an average weekly attendance of 100,000,000, and annual gross receipts conservatively estimated to be over $800,000,000.

WHAT THE FUTURE promises may be gauged from the fact that less than 15% of the motion picture theatres in the United States have as yet installed sound devices; and that although many producers believe that the largest installations in the future will be in the industrial and educational fields, and in the home, the home and industrial markets have not as yet been touched.

STOCK PRICES AGAIN TAKE UPWARD TURN

FEW SHARES ARE WEAK

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—Stock prices rebounded today almost as abruptly as they fell yesterday, in another day of quiet trading, total sales failing to a new low for the month at 2,686,290 shares.

Confidence appeared to have been restored by the failure of bear attacks yesterday to bring out any considerable liquidation. With the disposition to lighten holdings removed, operations for the advance were able to send prices rapidly higher with a moderate turnover.

Traders generally, however, were reluctant to reenter the market, as call money held at 10 per cent all day, and time money was firmer, with the shorter maturities moving at 8¾ per cent. Bankers indicated that money rates may go still higher, before the month-end settlements are completed. Continued tight money is looked for during coming weeks, as commercial requirements show seasonal expansion.

Record Peacetime Earnings.

The day's industrial news continued highly favorable. Predictions of extra or increased dividends by U. S. Steel proved premature, but the corporation announced record peacetime earnings for the second quarter equal to $6.68 a common share, against $5.04 in the previous quarter and $2.75 in the second quarter of last year, based on 7,116,235 shares outstanding June 30.

Other developments were declaration of a 200 per cent stock dividend by F. G. Shattuck, acquisition of Bristol Myers by Drug, Inc., and highly favorable earnings statements by Remington Rand, International Business Machines, Skelly Oil, and General Asphalt.

Stock price indices indicated that the industrials in general made up the losses of yesterday, while utilities and rails failed completely to do so.

Peoples Gas at New Top.

In common with the spectacular upturns in the Insull stocks on the Curb, Peoples Gas shot up 37½ points to a record price at 362½. Among other utilities, American and Foreign Power, Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Gas & Electric mounted about 4 to 6 points. Some of the rails rallied briskly, Chesapeake & Ohio and Atchison selling up about 6 points each.

Commercial solvents soared about 20 points, regaining much of its recent losses. Auburn Auto had one of its sharp upturns, equaling its previous record of 408 in an advance of about 25 points. Interest in this issue has been stimulated by report that the company will formally announce its new line of front wheel drive cabs early in August. General Electric rallied about 8 points, but slipped off 2 from the top.

American Telephone, Air Reduction, Montgomery Ward, American Can, Western Union, International Harvester, Sears, Roebuck and Mack Truck were among issues mounting about 3 to 5 points. Safeway Stores was eagerly bought, rising nearly 8 points. Certainteed and Maytag were specialties reaching new high ground for the year. Steels were firm, but made little headway.

U. S. Steel Is Unaffected.

U. S. Steel was not affected by its earnings report; as customarily, it was announced until after the close. The stock closed little more than a point higher, and Bethlehem moved up a couple of points.

Midland Steel products was a weak spot, selling off about 18 points, then reducing its loss to 10. Commercial Investment Trust more than lost yesterday's gain, falling back 10 points. Eastman Kodak slipped back about 3½ points on the granting of rights.

Grains again turned downward in the commodity markets. Wheat lost 3 to 4 cents a bushel on cooler weather in the Northwest and less bullish crop advices. Corn lost about 3 cents. Cotton, on the other hand, had a sharp advance on bullish private crop advices and unfavorable weather, but lost some of the gains, closing 55 to 90 cents a bale higher.

Foreign exchanges were steady, sterling cables holding around $4.85½, and the Canadian dollar mounting to 99¾ cents.

BOND LIST RALLIES AS FUNDS TIGHTEN

U. S. GROUP IRREGULAR

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—Although time money was firmer and the demand loan rate held at 10 per cent, the bond market more than recovered its losses of yesterday in today's moderately active session.

The leaders in the upturn were the convertibles which in the last hour or two of trading made a brisk rally that carried them well above the previous closing quotations. Many of the rails, which were particularly hard hit in the Monday selling, also came back in the late trading and were joined by representative industrials, particularly steel company obligations.

Outstanding in the share privilege group was the performance of the Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s which made a net advance of 6¾ points to the new high of 110¼. These bonds may be converted into common stock after March 1 next at the ratio of 40 shares for each $1,000 debenture.

Atchison convertible 4½s jumped 4½ points, to 148¾, American Telephone 4½s were up 2⅜, to 184, International Telephone 4½s climbed 1, to 163 and American I. G. Chemical 5½s gained 2¾. The last-named bond resumed its recent activity after a few days of only nominal interest and changed hands in good volume.

General Steel Casting 5½s were prominent in the industrial division, climbing nearly a point on active inquiry. Bethlehem Steel 6s at 105¼, closed within ⅛ of their year's high, while Lackawanna Steel 5s, Otis Steel 6s and Youngstown Sheet & Tube 5s and Inland Steel 4½s ruled firm to slightly stronger.

United States Government issues, in substantial trading, proved irregular. The Treasury 3⅜s, 1940-43, advanced about a quarter point as $400,000 par value of the notes changed hands. The Treasury 4¼s and 3⅜s, 1943-47, sold off slightly. Standard Rails, after early sluggishness, rallied under the leadership of the Atchison General 4s, which advanced a full point. Numerous other carriers' obligations gained fractionally.

Utilities sold off slightly in the absence of demand. Foreign sugar bonds worked generally higher, but the Cuba Cane 8s suffered from profit-taking.

The market for foreign bonds broadened appreciably. Kreuger & Toll 5s again traded heavily, advancing nearly a point on a turnover of approximately $750,000, principal amount.

Jacobs Stable Is Banned in New York

Routis and Genaro in Group Set Down by Commission.

Body Fails to Answer Gardens' Announcement of Bout.

NEW YORK, July 30 (A.P.).—Fistic observers, expecting an explosion in the Schmeling-Garden-New York State Athletic Commission controversy, heard only a slight wheeze when the State solons gathered for their weekly meeting today.

Although it made no answer to the announcement of Madison Square Garden officials that they planned to go through with a Schmeling-Sharkey fight despite the fact that Schmeling is under suspension, the commission did make a bit of a gesture in the controversy by revoking the licenses of all boxers in the stable of Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager of choice. In this list were Andre Routis, featherweight champion; Frankie Genaro, flyweight; Tony Caragliano and Eddie (Kid) Wagner, lightweights, and Jack Delaney, light heavyweight.

Little Excitement Results.

Little excitement resulted from this edict, however, it being an almost automatic aftermath of the revocation of Jacob's license as a manager. It has been general practice for the commission to suspend an entire stable of boxers when their manager was disciplined, the commission arguing that the best way to inflict punishment on fistic pilots is by way of the pocketbook.

The commission had revoked the licenses of Jacobs, Schmeling and Billy McCarney several days ago as a result of the German heavyweight's refusal to go through with a match with Phil Scott, of England. This match had been signed for by Arthur Buelow, Schmeling's repudiated manager.

Pending official word from the Garden that it intended to go through with the Schmeling-Sharkey bout, the commission announced it would take no further action. Previously the commission had warned the Garden such action would result in suspension.

Cardinals Beat Robins In 11th Inning, 10-9

St. Louis, July 30 (A.P.).—The Cardinals ended their losing streak of three games today by winning the first of the series from Brooklyn, 10 to 9, in an eleven-inning swatting bee. A pair of singles and a stolen base brought the winning run.

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 30 (A.P.).—Losing only five games in two matches, Miss Helen Jacobs advanced majestically today to the semifinal round of the Seabright invitation tennis tournament, in which she is defending her laurels won last year.

When play in the women's singles is resumed on Thursday Miss Jacobs will meet Miss Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, Mass., who defeated Miss Alice Francis, of Orange, N. J., 6—4, 6—1, in the third round.

In the other half of the draw two more invaders from the Far West came through to give California three of the four semifinal berths, Miss Edith Cross, of San Francisco, trimming Miss Dorothy Andrus, of Yonkers, N. Y., and Miss L. A. Harper, another San Franciscan trouncing Miss Evelyn Parsons, of Palo Alto, Calif., 6—2, 6—3.

Helen Jacobs Favored To Win Title.

In the national women's ranking list, Miss Jacobs is second, Miss Cross third, Miss Morrill sixth and Mrs. Harper eighth, and it is in about that order the surviving "big four" are favored.

Without any dominating individual figure, the race for tournament honors in the men's division waxed hotter today as the field narrowed down to eight survivors.

Only two foreign players were among this number as the Oxford and Cambridge University entrants were turned back in three out of four engagements and only N. G. Farquharson, of South Africa, and Cambridge remained with Sadakazu Onda, of Japan, to supply an international angle.

Farquharson, a veteran of Davis Cup plays as a representative of South Africa, defeated Watson Washburn, the former internationalist, 6—3, 5—7, 6—4.

Russell Young, New Zealander who captains the Oxford-Cambridge forces, was turned back decisively, however, by Richard N. Williams, one time Davis Cup double partner of Washburn.

England's two other reverses came when John Doeg, eighth ranking American player, defeated Paul de Ricou, young French student at Oxford, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, N. J., downed E. R. Avory, of Cambridge, 8—6, 6—4.

Bell Is Pressed to Win Match.

Berkeley Bell, of Texas, intercollegiate champion, who is favored to succeed to the title won last year by John Van Ryn, was forced to come from behind and fight his hardest to

Almost the Naked Truth

—By JAMES S. COLLINS—

NEW YORK, July 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Major league scouts are reporting to their owners that there is very little high quality ivory lying around loose in the sticks. One of them, who has been traipsing through half a dozen leagues all over the country since last April without recommending a single purchase, says the scarcity of good players is just as acute in the minors as it is in the major leagues.

The few good prospects his peering eyes have encountered were sewed up by some other big league club. Competition has become so keen that a three-line item in a country weekly to the effect that Hiram Who's This struck out nine Calamity Corners batters in a game last week will bring a dozen scouts flying to look Hiram over. Practically every club in the majors spends from $40,000 to $75,000 annually on its scouting system and considers itself fortunate indeed if the scouts turn up two players of major league caliber.

Legion Series to Help Furnish Talent.

Major league magnates are hopeful that the annual American Legion tournament for boys will develop some sorely needed material. The American and National Leagues dip into their exchequers for $25,000 apiece each year to help finance the tournament. Under the able direction of Dan Sowers, last year's tournament was a great success and this year's promises to be even greater. Some 200,000 boys are engaging in this country-wide competition.

The great problem that Mr. Sowers and other baseball missionaries face is not reviving boys' interest in the game, but in finding places for them to play it in. A recent baseball survey conducted by Maj. John L. Griffith, executive vice president of the National Amateur Athletic Federation, showed that thousands of growing communities are allowing their sandlot baseball diamonds to be taken over for other purposes. In big cities, of course, the facilities for playing baseball are almost negligible.

Rice Institute Opposes Bracey as Grid Player.

Claude Bracey is the bone of contention on which Rice Institute athletic officials are chewing furiously these days. The great Texas sprinter is eager to play foot ball and the coach of the Rice Institute eleven and the graduate manager of athletics at that institution agree that Claude's is a noble ambition that should be gratified. But the track coach who developed Claude into an outstanding cinder path star stands aghast at the idea and is kicking up quite a fuss about it. He thinks that using a great track athlete like Bracey for football purposes is like using a Sevres vase for a bee mug in a waterfront speakeasy.

Harvard to Keep Devens Out of Football.

Charley Devens, star pitcher of the Harvard freshman team this season, presents a similar problem at Cambridge. Devens, whose versatility is comparable to that of Booth, Yale's freshman star, likes football and hopes to make the varsity eleven this fall. It doesn't sound like a very good idea to Fred Mitchell, the Crimson varsity baseball coach, but Devens is likely to have his way.

College Alumni Rush for Services of Kakas.

Princeton, Yale and Harvard alumni, whose hobby takes the common form of passionate pursuit of promising athletic material for old alma mater, will be interested to learn that George Kakas, the young giant, who captained the great Browne and Nichols schoolboy crew in the Henely regatta, is trying to make up his mind which of these three institutions he will enter. Telegrams addressed to Kakas at Medford, Mass., will reach him unless enemy scouts intercept them.

Rise of Germany in Tennis Feature of Davis Cup Play.

One of the most interesting features of the 1929 Davis Cup series was the rise of Germany, who defeated Great Britain in the interzone final. Now comes the welcome announcement that Hans Moldenhauer and Daniel Prenn, of the German Davis Cup Team, are coming to this country for the national singles championships at Forest Hills, Long Island, in September and other big tournaments.

The Forest Hills classic will present a great field this year, with the German stars, Bunny Austin, the sensational young Englishman; Cochet, Borotra, Brugnon and other great French stars, and our own Tilden, Hunter, Lott, Van Ryn, Allison, et al., in the lists.

International Matches Financial Success.

Artistically, the American tennis invasion of Europe was no howling success, but there is a consoling aspect. The matches in the challenge round drew three big crowds, with a $12 top, so there must have been a tidy intake at the gate. Fifty per cent of the net receipts will go to the U. S. L. T. A. If there is anything left after the expenses of the team are paid, it will help swell the Davis Cup sinking fund, which the U. S. L. T. A. maintains against the possibility that its entry may not reach the challenge round and hence be out of the money. If the Germans had beaten the Americans in the semifinal fracas, the association would have had to dig into the fund, which now amounts to $25,000, to meet the expenses of the invasion. So, Oswald, things might have been a whole lot worse.

Boston, July 30 (A.P.).—Cleveland defeated the Red Sox 11 to 4 here today thereby winning its fourth straight game. The Indians won three from Washington before coming here. The Indians hopped on Ed Morris in the first two innings for enough runs to win the game.

Morgan led the Cleveland attack with two singles, a double and a triple. Running one-hand catches by Gardner were the fielding features.

Pitcher Liska To Undergo Operation

Immediate Removal of His Tonsils Is Necessary.

Spencer to Stay With Club; Bluege May Return to Team.

AN immediate operation has been ordered for Pitcher Adolph Liska and, unless there is a change of plans, he will have his badly diseased tonsils yanked within the next few days, just as soon as the club physician can get him in shape for the operation and reduce the imflammation and temperature which is keeping him confined to his home. This means that the rookie underhander will be of no use to the team for perhaps a month.

Fred Marberry, who is suffering from the same ailment, is not in as bad condition as is Liska and it is thought that he will be able to stave off taking the ether until after the playing season ends.

"Sad Sam" Jones, the other pitcher who was temporarily on the ailing list, yesterday reported that his sore salary wing is now O. K., which was good news to Manager Walter Johnson.

It should be a left-handed day all around at the Griffith Stadium this afternoon, when the Nationals and Brownies will stage their second game of the four-game series, for Bob Burke and Walter Stewart are the likely pitchers to perform. The latter has been particularly effective against the Nationals in the past, while Burke hopes to repeat his efforts in St. Louis on the Nats' last visit there when he granted but four hits and scored a well-earned victory.

Griffith Returns Home Soon.

Word was received from Chicago yesterday to the effect that President Clark Griffith has recovered from his appendicitis operation to such an extent that he will leave for Washington Friday and arrive here early Saturday morning.

The waiver request which the Nationals made on catcher Roy Spencer so that they could send him to the Newark Interantionals on 24-hour option, has been withdrawn, as Johnson did not want to lose the player altogether and it is understood that two clubs put in a claim for him.

Arthur Neu, a right-handed pitcher who has been performing with the Good Shepherd Athletic Club, a New York semipro team, is trying for a berth with the Nationals. His record with the Shepherds was five victories in seven starts. He showed considerable speed and a fair curve, but is only a youngster and proably needs more experience before having a chance to make good in the majors.

Bluege May Postpone Operation.

Ossie Bluege reports that his ailing knee is improving so steadily that he plans to take up with the club physician the question of postponing the proposed operation to remove a floating cartilage until after the season ends. Ossie believes that a little more rest will have the injured member in such shape that he can get back in the line-up.

The chances are, however, that the club will urge that the operation be made shortly, as per schedule, as the infielder's underpinning never will be normal until the cartilage is removed and Manager Johnson probably would rather have it done now and assure himself of Bluege's uninterrupted services next year than to take a chance that it halfway heals and that the operation is indefinitely put off waiting for it to be hurt again.

Bluege, by the way, will not be the only member of his family in the big leagues this season, as the Cincinnati Reds have just purchased his brother, Otto, from the Dubuque (Iowa) Team of the Mississippi Valley League for fall delivery. The younger Bluege is a shortstop—and said to be a good one—who is batting around the .300 mark in the minors.

Assistant Secretary Billy Smith, in charge of concessions for the Washington Club, last night was taken to Garfield Hospital for an examination. Yesterday he was absent because of illness, for the first time in many years.

Klein Hits 32d Homer As Phils Trounce Pirates

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 30 (A.P.).—Six Pittsburgh pitchers failed to hold the hard-hitting Philadelphia Quakers in check today and the Phillies annexed a 13-5 victory to shatter a losing streak that had beset them on their Western invasion. The Quakers made 18 hits for a total of 27 bases. Klein, Whitney and Hurst hit home runs. Klein's thirty-second of the season came with two on in the third.

MACKS BEAT INDIANS IN 10TH, 5-4

PHILADELPHIA, July 30 (A.P.).—George Uhle weakened in the ninth inning of a pitching duel against Lefty Grove today and enabled the Athletics to pull out a 5-to-4 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the tenth. Up to the ninth, Uhle had allowed only four hits, one of them a homer by Jimmy Foxx, and had a 4-1 lead. In the ninth Al Simmons came through with a homer with one on base and Foxx followed with a single to drive Uhle from the mound. Dykes' double off Graham scored Foxx with the tying run. Whitehill took the mound in the tenth after Bishop had walked and had been sacrificed to second. He walked Cochrane, then Simmons singled to bring in the winning run.

Yanks Bag 7th Straight As White Sox Lose, 7-3

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—The Yankees won the seventh successive game of their home stay today by beating the Chicago White Sox, 7 to 3, in the opener of a three-game series.

The Yankees hit Alphonse Thomas for fourteen hits, bunching five of them with a muff at the plate by Berg for a four-run rally in the fifth inning. Robertson led the New York hitting with a double and two singles. Herb Pennock kept Chicago's ten hits well scattered and was effective in the pinches. Berg, Chicago catcher, was stunned in a collision with Dickey at the plate and was forced to retire.

Fitzsimmons in Form; Giants Shutout Reds

Cincinnati, July 30 (A.P.).—For the fourth straight time this season, Fred Fitzsimmons shut out the reds winning a pitching duel against Jakie May by a 3-to-0 score. Fitzsimmons allowed only six hits, keeping them well scattered, while the Giants got only five from May.

All three runs were scored in the seventh inning on singles by Terry and Jackson, Hogan's sacrifice and a lucky home run by Andy Cohen, which bounced into the seats in right field. May was relieved by a pinch hitter and Ash pitched in the ninth inning for the Reds.

CUBS DEFEAT BRAVES TO GAIN

Blake Holds Boston to 5 Hits to Win, 4-0, as Bucs Bow.

CHICAGO, July 30 (A.P.).—Chicago gained another game in the National League pennant race by blanking Boston, 4 to 0, here today, as Pittsburgh fell before the mauling bats of Philadelphia.

Sheriff Blake held Boston to five hits and was accorded sensational support by his mates, who executed four double plays to get him out of what trouble he encountered.

THREE SEEDED PLAYERS SCORE IN WOMEN'S TENNIS

Miss Kingsbury Surprises by Defeating Doris Ferry.

THREE of the four seeded players remain in the fight for the District of Columbia women's tennis singles championship as a result of yesterday's play on the Columbia Country Club courts.

Frances Krucoff, defending champion, seeded No. 1; Josephine Durham, No. 3, and Phoebe Moorhead, No. 4, advanced to the third round with impressive victories. The other seeded player, Marywill Wakeford, former champion, lost by default to Mary Ryan in the first round.

Yesterday's competition was featured by the brilliant well earned victory of Corinne Frazier over Edith Clark, 6—3, 2—6, 7—5. Miss Frazier came from behind in the first and third sets to pull out triumphant Her opponent needed but two games, with a lead of 4—1, to take the match.

Miss Kingsbury Wins In Surprise.

Considerable surprise was registered by close observers of the tournament when Doris Ferry, strong Chicago representative, bowed to Dorothy Kingsbury, of this city, in a second round match. The local girl won easily, 6—2, 6—1.

The doubles and consolation singles will open today along with the continuation of the championship singles. The Krucoff-Dunham vs. Ryan-Jolley match is the likely feature of the doubles competition.

Following are yesterday's results and today's pairings:

SINGLES.

FIRST ROUND—Caroline Jansen defeated Mattie Pinette, 6—3, 6—3; Frances Walker defeated Eleanor Clark, 6—0, 6—0; Mary Ryan defeated Marywill Wakeford by default; Ruth Martines defeated Elsie Behrand, 6—0, 6—0.

SECOND ROUND—Frances Krucoff defeated Margaret Bouve, 6—0, 6—0; Jessie Edmondson defeated Mrs. C. C. Morsan, 6—3, 6—2; Josephine Dunham defeated Jay Jane Wymore, 6—3, 6—2; Corinne Frazier defeated Edith Clark, 6—3, 2—6, 6—5; Phoebe Moorhead defeated Alice Ross, 6—0, 6—0; Dorothy Kingsbury defeated Doris Ferry, 6—2, 6—1.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT L. COLLYER

RICH WIDOW.

Yea bo and a bucket of blood. This is another pickler yanked forth by the chief of staff—out at Arlington. "Look for pretty fair price; understand the hardboots are down hook, line and sinker." Such is the chatter appended. Last appearance—the Lassie stakes—was even better than cold dope would indicate. This looks like an extra good thing. BERNICE VAN, BANNER BRIGHT and ELLICE are closely bunched.

EXQUISITE, which copped a heat Monday, is being sent right back.

PAGANT LADDIE is as fit as hands can make him and seems to hold the others very safe.

Relative to CLOG DANCE. Well, they bet on this chap to beat Lawley—now what's the answer? I ask YOU. Atta boy.

Over at Hamilton, AVERSION, which seems to have a second lease on life, has a five-point call in the day's opener. True, EBUFORD won his most recent effort, but then horses from this stable are poor repeaters.

OLD CUDGELLER, from the Bedwell Stable, has a chance to spill the frijoles He has worked well and I understand Baltimore is loaded to the guards. Let your conscience be your guide.

PIPESTEM, a real smart trick and a winner last time, is taken to bring home all the old negotiable grass in the third. It would seem to me that all the weazened thing—in the pilothouse—has to do, is sit still.

BLARNEY which was shipped on from New York goes in the fourth. Never mind what any one tells you, this is Hobson's hoss today. Yea' Wekkum.

At Windsor, the Border Cities star purse is the outstanding feature and a well-balanced field is named. As usual I come to bat with the supposed sleeper. It is none other than GOLDEN CANOPY, quietly shipped over from Arlington where he knocked down this distance always around 1:12. "Tuffy" Haughton, the beau brummel from Texas, also brought THISTLE FRYN over for the derby. More anon.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BARITONE, $13.98, $8.96, $3.98; CECELIA GROB, $10.94, $4.50; SANDY, LADY, $2.50.

BARITONE, off well, was taken back repeatedly during the early stages, then came to the outside in the stretch and, under hard riding, was just up in time. CECELIA GROB raced into a good early lead and held on better than usual in the stretch drive. SANDY LADY, far out of it early, moved up fast on the inside in the back stretch, but hung in the final drive. PRINCESS VIRGINIA had no mishaps. GUIDE tired.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. The None Such. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:51½. Off at 3:57½. Winner, W. C. and E. W. Reichert's ch. g. (4), by Porte Drapeau—Scepter and Staff. Trained by J. Carter. Value to winner, $1,050; second, $281.50; third, $171; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:11 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MY DANDY, $2.48, $2.14, $2.10; CHARLIE BERGIN, $2.96, $2.54; WAR EAGLE, $3.20.

MY DANDY, racing into a good early lead, easily outfooted his opposition and held race safe throughout. CHARLIE BERGIN, following along in closest pursuit throughout, held on well to save the place. WAR EAGLE, fractious at the barrier, was off well and, responding gamely to hard riding, outfinished.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $2,000. The Deauville Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:28. Off at 4:34. Winner, Wild Rose Farm's b. g. (4), by Upset—Pandora Rich. Trained by C. P. Cherry. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $392; third, $205; fourth, $75. Time, 0:24 4-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:14 2-5, 1:39, 1:45 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOWAGIAC, $3.32, $2.66, $2.24; WILLIAM T., $3.48, $2.96; ULUNIU, $3.76.

DOWAGIAC, racing into a good early lead, was taken under stout restraint to the stretch, where he held on well in the final drive and cleverly held race safe. WILLIAM T. raced at pace, moved up stoutly entering the stretch, but was not good enough. ULUNIU raced prominently all the way. ROYAL JULIAN had no mishaps.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,500; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:56. Off at 4:59½. Winner, E. J. Lehmann's br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPANISH LAY, $7.40, $4.52, $3.50; REVOLVER, $4.82, 3.32; BLACK BART, $3.76.

SPANISH LAY, racing in his best form, was reserved off the pace for a half mile, then raced into the lead and, continuing well, easily held race safe. REVOLVER, off poorly, worked his way up gradually and finished well after swerving over to the inside in the stretch. BLACK BART, off poorly and outrun early, closed fast through the stretch. HARPOON tired. CREEK INDIAN displayed good speed in pacemaking for seven furlongs, then went badly lame.

Bolling Field Nine Bests Langley, 6 to 5

The Bolling Field Nine traveled to Langley Field yesterday by plane and returned with a 6-to-5 verdict over the Langley Field Airmen. One big inning, the fifth, which netted five runs, enabled the local team to triumph. McCaughey held the losers to five hits. Vandever was the slugging star of the Bolling Field Team.

PRINTERS DEFEAT NAVY YARD, 5-4, TO TIE SERIES

Simons and Hall Top Batters With Three Hits Each.

ONE of the largest crowds in the history of sandlot base ball in this section saw the Union Printer Nine even the play-off series for the championship of the Government League yesterday on the West Ellipse diamond. The Typo Nine turned the tables on Navy Yard, first half winner and victor in the first game Monday. The score was 5 to 4.

Although outhit, the Printers took an early lead by counting three times in the third, and managed to stave off the ninth inning sprint of the losers, who chalked up a trio of tallies in the final frame.

Ray Harover started on the mound for Navy Yard but was chased in the second round. The veteran, Lefty Kuhnert, relieved Harover, and yielded but two runs.

Simons Weathers Storm to 9th.

Simons, although hit freely, managed to hold the Navy Yard sluggers at bay until the ninth when Hutchinson was rushed to his rescue after three tallies had been credited the losers.

Simons and Hell each collected a trio of hits for their respective teams.

The title contenders will meet today in the final game of the series on West Ellipse diamond at 4:45 o'clock. A record crowd is expected. Navy Yard won the first half series and the Printers bagged the second. The winner of today's game will represent the league in the week-day championship series which starts August 19.

Louisiana Jockey Club To Reorganize for 1930

New Orleans, July 30 (A.P.).—Col. John P. Sullivan, chairman of the board of directors of the Louisiana Jockey Club, said today the club would be reorganized for the 1930 winter race meet.

James H. Murphy, general manager, and Joseph A. Murphy, who presided in the stewards' stand, have resigned, but their successors have not been named. The management of the club in the future, Col. Sullivan said, would be departmental.

He denied reports that E. R. Bradley, the Kentucky breeder, had severed his connections with the club, saying he had recently spent $50,000 in improving the grounds.

DEANWOOD'S TRACKMEN VICTORS

DEANWOOD PLAYGROUND made a thrilling finish to capture the colored Eastern Playground Conference meet yesterday on the Logan Playground. The home squad, Logan, made a valiant effort to nose out the winners, tying them just before the final event, 32 to 32, but Deanwood won the first place, in the unlimited relay, to take the meet by the comfortable margin of 37 to 33. Other point scorers, Lovejoy 20; Crummell, 17; Smothers, 8, and Cook, 5.

The events were closely contested, with but one athlete winning more than one place. Foreman, of Lovejoy, was the high-point scorer, leading in the 100-pound class 60-yard dash and the running broad jump.

Tie in Western Conference.

Playground officials announced last night that after a recount of the Western Conference games it was found that instead of Howard winning, as was first reported, the meet ended in a deadlock, with Howard and Garnett-Patterson each scoring 55½ points.

The Southern Conference meet will be held this afternoon on the Cardoza track with Willow Tree, Cardoza, Sixth and L Streets, Barry Farms playgrounds competing.

RUNNING BROAD JUMP—Won by Contee (Logan); second, C. Washington (Logan); third, Randolph (Crummell).

B. & O. Nine Annexes First Series Honors

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 30.—The Baltimore and Ohio Nine won the first half of the City Baseball League championship by trouncing the Celanese Corporation Team at Community Park, 10 to 2. The play-off was necessitated to break a deadlock. The winners showed superior class in all departments. A pair of B. & O. twirlers let Celanese down with two hits. King retired in the sixth in favor of Fields. The brilliant fielding of Jimmie Dreanning did much toward winning the game. He disposed of ten out of 11 chances at short and played the part of pivot man in two of three fast double plays.

Golf Ball Punctures Itself With Tee in Match Here

THE EVIDENCE.

THE weirdest golf story which has ever been related in this section is told by Robert Dougan, of 1631 Euclid street, and a publicity man by profession. It is accompanied by affidavits and a photograph so that no one is allowed for one moment to doubt its truth.

Attention, everybody, while the facts are set down in cold print.

Dougan was playing on the course of the Washington Golf and Country Club with Y. E. Booker, Ray Wise and G. B. Craighill, all fellow-members of the club. On the fourteenth hole, a one-shotter, 234 yards, Dougan drove with a brassy. He gave a mighty swing but topped the ball, which hit the front of the tee and then went off into the air with a peculiar whirling sound, suddenly dropping into a ditch about 75 yards away.

Diegel, Smith to Play Golf Exhibition Here

Leo Diegel, winner of the recent Canadian open golf championship, and Horton Smith, spectacular young player who won the North and South open at Pinehurst, have accepted an engagement to play an exhibition match in this city on Tuesday, August 13.

Robert Tyre Jones, jr., was invited to appear, but yesterday telegraphed that he could not leave Atlanta, and it is probable that the two other playeds to form the foursome will be Tommy Armour, former national open champion, and George Von Elm, former amateur champion. The course over which the exhibition match will be staged has not as yet been selected.

Spengler Nine Gains Forfeit Over Delano

Spengler Post got back on even terms yesterday in the American Legion series, when the Delano Team forfeited to the former, 9 to 0. Spengler has split even in four games and is still a contender for the second half title. Delano practically eliminated itself by forfeiting yesterday.

Wood, Segrave Enter Regatta at Venice

Milan, Italy, July 30 (A.P.).—Entries of Gar Wood and Maj. Segrave for the regatta at Venice in September were received today. Gar Wood entered Miss America VII and Miss America VIII while Maj. Segrave entered Miss England and Miss Alacrity. Maj. Segrave will attempt to capture the world's water speed record now held by Wood.

CORRECTION HERE.

The Monroe Tossers wish to announce that the Belmont Nine did not defeat them in a game recently which was published, 24 to 3. The Monroes did not play the game, never having the Belmonts on their schedule.

Miss Clark Surprises In Women's Net Event

Edith Clark, youthful Western High School tennis player, created quite a bit of excitement in the women's District tennis championship tournament play on the Columbia Country Club courts yesterday when she carried Corrine Frazier through the twelfth game of the third set before being eliminated.

Miss Frazier, one of the top ranking women stars, was extended to survive. After winning the first set, 6—3, Miss Frazier dropped the second, 2—6, and barely bested her young rival in the third, 7—5.

Frances Krucoff, defending champion, and Phoebe Morehead, another of the seeded stars, advanced to the third round by virtue of love victories over Margaret Bouve and Alice Rose, respectively.

In the other feature match of the day, Dorothy Kingsbury completely outplayed Marion King in the second set after just managing to gain an 11—9 margin in the initial set.

Other matches resulted as follows: Mrs. Ruth Martinez defeated Elsie Behrend, 6—1, 6—0; Jessie Edmundson defeated Mrs. C. C. Morganson, of Chevy Chase Club, 6—3, 6—1; Frances Walker defeated Eleanor Clark, of Western High School, 6—1, 6—2, and Carolyn Jansen defeated Mattie Pinette, 6—3, 6—3.

CENTRAL STARS ORGANIZE.

The Central All-Stars, a team composed of athletes formerly of high school teams, has organized and is ready to compete in unlimited ranks. Week-day and Saturday games are sought. Joe Howard is manager, and can be reached for games at Columbia 2507.

Those playing with the All-Stars include "Tubby" Ault, "Bits" Schriver, Willie Wolfe, Bill Simmons and Ben Burch, formerly of Central, and Bucky Buscher, former Emerson luminary; Tom Fitzgerald, Lefty Stevens and Tom Trodder, sandlot stars.

BADLY beaten for six innings yesterday, the Eastern All-Star Insects came from behind to hand the Lionels a 12 to 9 defeat, thereby creating a triple tie for the leadership of the Capital City League insect race. The winners were apparently due to take a drop in the standings when they rallied for three runs in each of the last three rounds. They hammered everything Billie Harris had to offer in the closing stanzas and turned apparent defeat into a timely victory.

Timely hitting, free base running and erratic work of the Easterns afield permitted the Lionels to take an early lead. Hays started for the victors, but found the going rough. He gave way to Lefty Pierce, who also wavered and Hayes came back to stop the Lionel clubbers. Winters and V. Divver shone at bat.

The loss dropped the Lionels deeper in the second division.

THE DOUBLE

By EDGAR WALLACE

SYNOPSIS.

Dick Staines, in love with beautiful Mary Dane a nurse, concludes that the girl has a dangerous double when he mistakes her for a mysterious intruder in Walter Derrick's house. The double he later discovers, is Mary Devilliers of Capetown, Africa, but what she seeks in the house where one murder has already taken place remains a mystery. Lordy Blown, who might have told, lies dead. And then one night from his vigil in Tommy Weald's adjoining house a bell warning him of an intruder, summons Dick. He sees a shadowy figure and hears a woman's startled whisper before a door slams in his face. Dick steps back, takes one jump, and hurls his shoulder against the door. With a deafening crack it bursts open, and he is in the room—it is empty! A few nights later, as Tommy, Mary and Dick are on the beach, a car approaches them, and from it a bomb is hurled. Dick knocks it aside before it explodes.

CHAPTER XIX—Concluded.

And then a surprising thing happened. Henry, the bent chairman, straightened himself. Dick saw his hand stiffen upward. There was a staccato rattle of shots, and the car swerved dangerously, almost capsizing as it turned, and fled down a side road at an increasing pace.

"I think I got him!" said Henry in a very calm and gentle voice.

There was commotion enough on the beach; people were running; a mounted policeman came flying along toward them; Dick saw another policeman sprinting in their direction.

"What's the trouble? What was that explosion?"

"A man threw a bomb from a car," Dick explained quickly. He said nothing about Henry's strange behavior.

"I though I heard pistol shots, too. Which way did he go?"

They pointed up the road where the car had vanished, and the mounted man went galloping after him.

In a few minutes they were the center of a large crowd. It was typical of Mr. Cornfort that he only opened his eyes to note the fact that he was the object of interest, and then fell into a deep sleep.

"Not it," said Dick, shaking his head. "You may find a casualty in one of these houses. I heard a window smash. No, it was a Mills bomb, and it was beautifully placed." He calculated that it would have fallen into Mr. Cornfort's lap, in which case Mr. Cornfort would have been asleep permanently.

At last the crowd fell away, and they moved on. Mary said nothing, but he saw in the failing light that her face was very pale.

"It was splendid of you not to tell about Henry," she said in a low voice.

Henry was the amazing feature of the evening to Dick; that silent and preoccupied man had been revealed as an expert gunman. Dick knew what pistol shooting was. This man was an adept.

"Henry's rather like that. I think he must have been a soldier some time."

"And do soldiers shoot at motorists?" he demanded.

"If they don't like them," she replied gently.

They were talking under cover of Lord Weald's conversation, addressed indiscriminately to Henry and to the slumbering Mr. Cornfort. It was a conversation sprinkled with "By gads!" and it was made up with suggestions for the punishment of people who threw Mills bombs at invalids. Tommy was happy in that he needed neither the stimulation of agreement nor the provocation of dispute. He was one of those radiant natures that emit vocal energy unceasingly. The peculiar thing was that he had not seen Henry shoot, and as Henry was his chief audience, Tommy unwittingly deprived himself of a lot of subject matter.

There was Henry pulling at the Bath chair, slow and self-absorbed, an unshaven figure of a man—who could suspect a 48-caliber automatic hitting his leg with every stride he took?

"Are you frightened?" asked Dick.

"I was—after. I didn't realize at the time. It almost seemed as if he knew I'd told you."

Dick stopped dead.

"Who?"

"Herman Lavinski."

"Do you mean——" he began.

"Don't stop, please, or Tommy will come back to us. I know it was Lavinski. That was his first recorded offence—throwing a bomb into a jeweler's shop. Not a fearfuly dangerous one, but enough to scare everybody under the counter, during which he cleared out the window."

"You know a lot about him," said Dick suspiciously.

"I'm a great student," she replied demurely; "and since I have known you, naturally I have taken a tremendous interest in crime."

"If you laugh at me I shall——"

"Not in public," she said in the same low voice. Tommy will tell you that I'm rather a fanatic on the subject. Poor Henry!"

"Why poor Henry?"

They had turned the corner of the road, and the Bath chair and Tommy were out of sight. They were in the darkest part of the promenade and nearly alone. As if by common agreement, their pace slackened to its slowest.

"You'd better go now," she said softly, and put up her face to his.

For a second he held her in his arms, his lips against hers, then she gently drew clear of him.

"That's for not telling on Henry," she said breathlessly, and was gone.

CHAPTER XX.

Happiness can keep a man awake as readily as trouble. It was past 3 o'clock before Dick Staines fell asleep, and he woke so light of heart that in the midst of his shaving there was a knock on the door and the chambermaid came in.

He saw the girl only for a few minutes; a telephone message from Bourke urged him to come back to town at the earliest opportunity. Tommy came with him to the station, and Tommy's exuberance brought the first pang.

"Oh, you weren't there!" said Tommy, remembering. "It was just before she went in with the dear old wreck. I asked her—well, you know what I mean. I mean, it's quite the natural thing for a feller to do, and she gave me a perfectly frozen face and went inside without saying goodnight. I toddled up and down broken-hearted, old boy."

"Toddled up and down who?"

"I mean outside the house," explained Tommy. "Then she came out into the garden. Old boy, she was divine!"

If Tommy had struck him Dick could not have had a greater and more hurtful shock.

"What do you mean by divine? Did you—kiss her?" he said desperately.

"Naturally," said Tommy.

"I give it up," groaned Dick.

"You're always giving things up, old boy."

Dick got into a first-class carriage by himself; his scowl terrified the only fellow passenger that offered. It was so unpleasant that the gentleman dropped the handle as if it was something hot and scurried off down the train looking for a more agreeable companion.

All the way to town he was trying to reconcile the two Mary Danes he knew. Her double was more like her than she. How could she treat Tommy as she did? He remembered that she was almost rude when she snatched her hand away—what was Tommy saying? Oh, yes, her ring didn't fit her. . . .

His power of volitionary thought ended here, paralyzed by a half-revelation. . . . She had snatched her hand away—the ring—from some pigeonhole in his mind came forth the recollection of something she said to him on the way to Victoria that night: "I told you a lie." He fell back in the corner of the carriage and gasped. For he knew the lie! All that was inexplicable was now plainly and understandably written.

Bourke was waiting for him when he got to Scotland Yard, and the stout inspector had before him a whole sheaf of documents.

"How did you get onto Lavinski?" was the first question he asked.

"Oh, they told you, did they?" laughed Dick. "I didn't really get onto him at all, but a young friend of mine offered the suggestion that that was the name of the Slough murderer."

"How did she know?"

"For the matter of that, how do you know it was a she?" challenged Dick, changing color.

MINUTE MOVIES — By Ed Wheelan

STATION WMMS
HELLO, EVERYBODY—I HAVE THE HONOR TO INTRODUCE TO YOU OVER THE AIR OUR NEW STAR WHO WILL NOW TELL YOU ABOUT HIMSELF. MR WILL POWER!!
MY FRIENDS, I AM VERY HAPPY OVER BEING RAISED TO STARDOM BY ED WHEELAN—WHEN I FIRST CAME TO AMERICA I DID NOT DREAM OF SUCH AN HONOR—MY REAL NAME IS COUNT KARL VON CIPHER! AFTER THE WAR I FOUND MYSELF PENNILESS!!
I HAD TO MAKE A LIVING AND SO AS I HAD DONE A LITTLE WORK IN AMATEUR THEATRICALS—I DECIDED TO GO TO FOLLYWOOD AND TRY MY LUCK AS AN EXTRA!! IT WAS HARD WORK! I KNEW LITTLE ENGLISH AND MY TITLE MEANT NOTHING!!
I FOUND FOLLYWOOD OVERRUN WITH FOREIGN NOBLEMEN WITHOUT FUNDS! I DECIDED TO FORGET MY PAST AND TO TRY TO MAKE GOOD ON MY OWN ACCOUNT!!
FIRST I DETERMINED TO LEARN THE LANGUAGE—FOR A TIME I WORKED AS A WAITER IN A RESTAURANT AND AFTER HOURS WOULD STUDY HARD ON MY ENGLISH—I VISITED THE VARIOUS STUDIOS LOOKING FOR AN OPENING BUT HAD NO SUCCESS!!
ONE DAY WHILE AT THE WHEELAN STUDIO DIRECTOR ART HOKUM HAPPENED TO SEE ME AND GAVE ME A BIT IN A SERIAL HE WAS PRODUCING. THAT WAS MY FIRST REAL OPPORTUNITY!!
OTHER BITS FOLLOWED, AND AS SOON AS I PERFECTED MY ENGLISH, I WAS GIVEN A TALKING PART. YOU KNOW THE REST. NOW I HAVE BEEN MADE A STAR AND I AM VERY HAPPY—I THANK YOU!!

Curb Review

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—Revival of speculative activity and strength in the public utility and investment trust issues featured the irregularly higher movement in today's curb market. Some heaviness was apparent at the opening, but confidence was gradually restored and the rally gained considerable momentum in the afternoon, with final quotations generally around the year's highs.

Trading failed to maintain the terrific pace set in the recent advance, but the day's volume was well above normal. Little attention was paid to the 10 per cent call money rate, which was attributed to heavy month-end disbursements. Operation for the advance were encouraged by the fact that recent bear attacks apparently had dislodged little long stock.

Middle West utilities, which is to be split up 10 for 1 after the issuance of valuable stock rights, soared 6¾ points, to a new high, at 464¾, and retained all of its gain. Commonwealth Edison, another Insull concern, soared more than 40 points, to a new high, at 400. Utilities Power & Light B certificates ran up 18 points, to a new high, at 90, but closed at 88. Mohawk & Hudson jumped 10 points, and Electric Bond & Share advanced more than 3 points. Associated Gas & Electric also reached a new peak.

Electrical Investors, National Investors, Stone & Webster, and Insull Utilities Investors ran up 8 to nearly 14 points in sympathy with the sharp advances in the stocks held by those companies. Directors of Electric Investors meet tomorrow and are expected to authorize a five-to-one split-up of the stock.

Baldwin Locomotive (new) was again active around 65. The new Shenandoah Corporation stock ran into some profit-taking, but was still quoted nearly double the recent offering price.

New peak prices for the year were registered by Pilot Radio Tube, Portland Electric, Cities Service Bank, and a sprinkling of other specialties. Strength of American Cyamid B was based on the announcement that the company had called for redemption of its remaining preferred stock at $120 a share on October 1.

Miners Laid Off.

Lonaconing, Md., July 30.—The Georges Creek Coal Mining Co., Inc., laid off about 50 men at its Jackson or Sonny Mine yesterday for an indefinite period on account of the depression in the coal business. The company employs about 200 at the mine.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, July 29 (A.P.).—Increasing suggestions that big shipments of domestic winter wheat may glut terminal markets during the next few weeks did much to overturn values today. European buyers appeared to be systematically holding off, and the world's wheat available supply showed 8,101,000 bushels enlargement for the week, with crop damage reports seeming to have lost effect as an immediate price influence.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 2½ to 4¼ cents under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 2½ to 3¾ cents down, oats ¾ to 1 cent off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 25 cents.

Faced by announcement that the world stock of wheat is now 95,000,000 bushels greater than a year ago and with Gulf of Mexico ports blocked with wheat awaiting an outlet, wheat traders today showed decided uneasiness over expansion of wheat arrivals at Chicago, receipts here today totaling 938 cars compared with 257 cars a week ago. Liverpool wheat quotations lower than expected did a good deal also to emphasize sentiment here favorable to a lower range of values for at least the time being. Houses with Eastern connections and of late prominent as buyers took the ground too that purchasing of wheat future deliveries had temporarily been overdone, and that realising of profits was in order.

Downward slides in wheat prices began right at the outset of trading, and despite frequent rallies continued until under pressure of profit-taking sales and because of dealings associated with the heavy movement of winter wheat the market just before business ended was 7½ cents under yesterday's top figures. Meanwhile, new buying lacked the vigor which has been so plainly in evidence of late, although drought reports continued unabated both from North American regions affected and from Argentina and Australia as well. A leading Chicago crop expert who returned today from an eight-weeks' tour of the Northwest said Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta promise 255,000,000 bushels compared with 150,000,000 bushels last year, and the Dakotas and Montana 135,000,000 bushels this season against 241,000,000 bushels harvested a year ago.

Corn and oats prices dropped with wheat. Timely rains in Eastern Nebraska helpful to corn growth were an independent factor in easing the corn market, together with a forecast of showers in parts of Iowa, Illinois and Missouri.

Provisions were responsive to downturns in the values of hogs.

LEGAL NOTICES

SHEFFERMAN & ARONSON, Attorneys.

IN RE CHANGE OF NAME OF FRANCKE and Lustick, Inc., to Francke, Furrier, Inc. No. 20062. We, the undersigned, the president and secretary, respectively, of Francke and Lustick, Inc., a corporation duly organized under the existing laws of the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that at a regular meeting of the board of trustees held on the 1st day of July, 1929, the following resolution was adopted: Resolved, That in the opinion of the board of trustees the name of this corporation should be changed from Francke and Lustick, Inc., to Francke, Furrier, Inc. Resolved, That a meeting of the stockholders of said corporation be called on July 15, 1929, for the purpose of taking action with respect to the said recommendation of said trustees with regards to the change of the name of said corporation as aforesaid. And we do further certify that at a meeting of the stockholders of said corporation held on the 15th day of July, 1929, at which meeting all stockholders were present, the following resolution was adopted by the vote of all stockholders. Resolved, That the recommendation of the board of trustees relative to the change of the name of this corporation be approved and the officers of said corporation be authorized to take any and all action required by law to complete said change of name. In witness whereof we have hereunto subscribed our names and affixed our corporate seals of Francke and Lustick, Inc., at Washington, D. C., this 15th day of July, A. D. 1929. Attest: (Seal.) BENJAMIN S. FRANCKE, President; JEAN W. FRANCKE, Secretary.
District of Columbia, ss:

I, GOLDIE STEIN, a notary public in and for the District of Columbia, do hereby certify that Benjamin S. C. M. T. C. Troops March Here Today

820 of Fort Washington Contingent in Review Before Hoover.

The 820 citizen soldiers who are this week completing their training at Fort Washington, will visit Washington today, march in parade down Pennsylvania avenue, and be received by President Hoover on the White House grounds. Under the leadership of their officers and accompanied by their 40-piece band, the recruits will arrive in the Capital at 2:30 o'clock aboard the U. S. S. General H. D. Rucker and two Navy boats.

After docking at the municipal wharf at Twelfth street northwest, the Western Pennsylvanians will march to the White House, where ceremonies will be held at 3 o'clock. The men will then be guests at the Fox Theater, where the band will play for a broadcast over WRC at 4:30 o'clock under the direction of Albert H. Andrews, first class musician of the U. S. Army band.

Fort Washington was host yesterday to members of Congress and a number of other invited guests at a special exhibition which included a camp battalion parade at 5:30 o'clock.

Big Theft Laid to Man Who Refused Promotion

New York, July 30 (A.P.).—A cashier who five time in the last ten ten years refused promotions was under arrest today for the larceny of $50,000.

Philip K. Keller started with the International Tailoring Co. 20 years ago as an office boy. After rising to the position of cashier at a salary of $60 a week he refused further advancements, saying he preferred this job to any other in the company. Assistant District Attorney Unger said Keller confessed losing the money on horse races and in stock market speculations.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

VIRGINIA FARMERS MUST UNITE, CLAIM

Agriculture Will Progress Only by Own Efforts, Board Head Avers.

WORK SEEN AS ARDUOUS

Blacksburg, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Virginia farmers themselves must unite and fight their own battles for such objectives as research and education for farm people, encouragement of cooperation among farmers, elimination of existing inequalities, standardization of farm products and more intelligent land utilization, Harvey S. Clapp, of Accotink, Va., president of the agricultural conference board of Virginia, declared in a report submitted today before the State agricultural advisory council.

The objectives listed by Clapp are recommendations presented to the agricultural commission, and they state, he said, about as briefly as possible the field of work before the State conference board. Some of the recommendations are for specific action and some for investigation, he said.

"The field of activity," he said, "which appears before the board at the present time shows clearly that some of the things needed to be done can only be done by strong united effort."

Long Study Is Necessary.

Clapp said that it was impossible to gain a clear perception of ways and means toward these objectives without long study.

"That is the weakness," he continued, "of the farmer's present position. He has little idea of the possible ways of meeting these needs. Those who are friendly to agriculture in our governmental agencies are often of necessity, unfamiliar with them. Our educational institutions can not fight our battles, for they are accused of a selfish interest.

"The only solution is for farmers to unite; for some of them to give much time and study to the conditions surrounding them, to work with their educational institutions for the good of those institutions and for their own good. They must work in legislative matters, with those who have their general good at heart and against those who would turn lawmaking to selfish ends.

"The farmers, through the conference board, have no intention of trying to dictate except when their enemies would be unfair. Toward their friends, upright citizens and public servants, their attitude is just this: work with them; neither to beg nor to demand, but to insist on what is right when it is plain and to work out with them what is right when it is not clear."

Work Will Be Hard.

"The work to be done by the conference board will be arduous. It can not be done by an executive committee alone, or by those whom it may engage for the purpose. It will require the thought and support of all who have the time and inclination to participate in the task of bettering our conditions. If the board is to be a success it must voice the judgment of all our people."

For research and education for farm people recommendations include: That the State should assume a materially increased proportion of the support of rural public schools; that the State should make increased appropriations to the extension division; that educational agencies arrange for more economic and social education through courses of study in high schools and colleges and especially in evening schools; that the State should provide more liberally for the establishment and support of county libraries; that the State should make increased appropriations to the Virginia Polytechnic Institute for research and education in various phases of farm activities, and that the State provide adequate support for the Virginia Horticultural Society, the Virginia Crop Improvement Association, the State Dairymen's Association and particularly for the Virginia Poulttry Federation.

Cooperative Purchasing Urged.

Under "Encouragement of Cooperation Among Farmers," it is recommended in part that the cooperative marketing law of 1922 be amended to provide for cooperative purchasing as well as cooperative marketing; that the same law be amended to provide that up to 50 per cent of the business may be transacted with nonmembers on a strictly nonprofit basis and that railroad companies be required to permit loading and unloading in transit by shippers in carload lots.

Under "Elimination of Existing Inequalities," it is recommended that the adjustment of the minimum charge made by power companies for electric current, now made on a monthly basis, to allow for the inequalities of seasonal use; that the State eliminate as far as possible the sale of farm products from penal farms upon the open market; that the State authorize counties to establish warehouse facilities for assembling farm products.

Under "Standardization of Farm Products" it is recommended that the State enact suitable legislation for branding and marking under specified grades additional farm products and for proper enforcement, and that the State enact suitable legislation for the control of poultry and ample provision be made for enforcement by means of a revolving fund.

Soil Survey Work Favored.

Under "More Intelligent Land Utilization" it is recommended that the soil survey work be expedited. (The report said that the board opposed land reclamation by public agencies which tends to increase surpluses of agricultural products, and that it favors the governmental purchase of lands suitable for parks and for reforestation.)

"The following projects," the report said, "seem to be worthy of thorough investigation:

"1. A law to assure an open market for cooperative purchases from concerns which maintain a resale policy.

"2. A law to encourage forestry by exemption from burdensome taxation and to impose a harvest of severance tax or some other substitute tax system."

Work done in the last five years in Virginia to produce better quality in poultry is perhaps more important than the comparatively large increases made in the same period by the poultry industry, Harry L. Moore, poultry husbandman, declared in a report prepared for presentation this afternoon to the State Advisory Council, meeting here.

In reporting on "Definite Accomplishments in Carrying Out the Five-Year Program in Poultry Husbandry," Mr. Moore said: "Every one familiar with the farming situation in Virginia at the present time knows that there is an increasing interest being manifested in the poultry development."

Land Clearing Policy Nets Virginia Farmers $700,000

Engineering Committee, of State Agricultural Advisory Council, Reports on Three-Year Period; 6,788 Acres Made Available for Crop Production.

Blacksburg, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Seven hundred thousand dollars has accrued to the farmers of Virginia as a result of the land-clearing program of the agricultural engineering committee, State agricultural advisory council, according to the committee report prepared for delivery to the council today by Charles E. Seitz, chairman.

The land-clearing program, one of eight on which the committee reported progress, included the delivery of 500,000 pounds of surplus war explosives to State farmers at a saving of $57,000. Farmers who made purchses of the explosives totled 1,853, nd their clearings of new land were 6,788 acres during a three-year period. In addition, stumps were removed from 10,017 acres already in cultivation.

According to the estimates in the report, the new land increased in value $250,479, and the cultivated land $277,501. Returns from increased production on the cultivated lands from which stumps were removed was estimated as $129,521. To bring about these results, the committee reported that it conducted 169 land-clearing demonstrations which were attended by 4,795 farmers.

Virginia Power companies are serving more than 6,000 farm customers, as compared to approximately 1,500 in 1925. The committee reported in connection with its investigations of the adaptbility of power to farm machinery and farm homes.

Technical men, representing the State and the power companies, have prepared plan of rural electrification for Virginia, the report stated, which was submitted to the governor and passed on by him to the State corporation commission for adoption. Several larger companies, according to the report, are now making extensions under the plan.

As a step toward assisting the power companies in understanding the problems of serving farm customers, the committee reported sponsoring a three-day rural electrification course at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, which was attended by 7' representatives of power companies.

Four leading power companies in the State have organized service departments and several more plan organizing similar departments, the report said. Seven agricultural engineering graduates of V. P. I. have been employed by the companies to work directly with farm customers.

Further Progress Reported.

The committee reported further:

The State geological survey is now at work making a water power survey of the State. A State water power bill has been passed by the Legislature and is in effect.

An agricultural engineer has been employed by the agricultural experiment station to make investigations in farm power and machinery. Studies have been made and are continuing on the combination harvester-thresher, all-purpose tractor, soy bean harvesting, cultivating methods and drying of grain.

An agricultural engineer has been employed by the extension division to give field assistance to the farmers and county agents in farm building problems and numerous farm building plans have been prepared by the extension division. Several thousand such plans have been delivered to farmers in State.

An economic study was made in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture of 100 tile drainage systems on the Eastern Shore. This study covered the costs and benefits derived from tile drainage of approximately 5,000 acres of farm land.

The committee reported that no progress has been made on the recommendations that an agricultural engineering laboratory building be erected at V. P. I. and that provision be made by the experiment station for research in land drainage, soil erosion and farm buildings.

TWO VIRGINIANS WIN HONOR AS FARMERS

THEIR WORK IS PRAISED

Blacksburg, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—State Senator J. B. Watkins nd Frank S. Walker, of Orange, were presented certificates of merit in agriculture at a joint meeting tonight of the Institute of Rural Affairs and State Farmers Institute held in the War Memorial Gymnasium here. Dr. Julian A. Burruss, president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, made the presentations.

For the last few years the board of visitors of V. P. I., upon the recommendation of President Burruss and the agricultural faculty, has selected two Virginians who have contributed the most to the advancement of agriculture in the State. To these two so honored certificates of merit in agriculture are presented at the annual meeting of the State Farmrs Institute. Former Gov. Westmoreland Davis, president of the Virginia Farmers Institute, and John R. Hutcheson, director of the Institute of Rural Affairs, spoke tonight.

In making the presentation Dr. Burruss briefly cited the achievements of the two honored Virginians. Senator Watkins is a native of Powhatan County, and for some years was owner and manager of one of the largest nurseries in the South. He was active in the work of the Virginia Horticultural Society in the early days of that organization. He organized the Chesterfield County Fair and was for more than sixteen years its president; he was also president of the old Virginia Fair, serving in this capacity for two terms in the nineties.

Elected First in 1906.

Mr. Watkins was elected to the State Senate in 1906 and served for two consecutive terms. He was patron of the bill for the reorganization of the State health department. In 1927 Mr. Watkins was again elected to the State Senate and was named by Gov. Byrd as a member of the State Agricultural Commission.

In 1903 he was appointed by Gov. Montague as a member of the board of visitors of V. P. I., and with the exception of one term has served continuously in this capacity. He was largely instrumental in bringing the extension work to V. P. I. Not only has he shown interest and rendered valuable service to V. P. I., President Burruss said, but he has shown special interest in guiding and developing the work of the crop pest commission and the State live stock sanitary board. He served for a number of years as chairman of the executive committee of the V. P. I. board.

Frank S. Walker, of Orange, was graduated from V. P. I. as an honor student in the class of 1905. After leaving school he assumed active operation of his father's farm, and since that time has been in charge of the Woodberry Forest School farm. He has also purchased a large farm of his own in Madison County, where he makes his home.

Owns Fine Holstein Herd.

Mr. Walker became interested in dairying, and by able management built up one of the best herds of Holstein cattle in Virginia, having several State record cows in his herd. In his community and throughout a large number of counties he is recognized as one of the most practical and efficient farmers.

In addition to living on and operating his own farm, Mr. Walker has been interested in public affairs, especially farm organizations. He has served two terms as president of the Virginia Dairymen's Association, besides being president of his own local breeders' club and farmers' exchange. Probably his most outstanding public accomplishment in agriculture has been his administration as president of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, a cooperative organization of 12,000 dairy farmers of northern Virginia and southern Maryland. Mr. Walker was president of the association at the time it needed a strong, capable leader to place it among the outstanding successful cooperative marketing associations.

USE OF CERTIFIED SEED ON INCREASE

CROP ROTATION GAINS

Blacksburg, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Increasing use of soil improvement methods and certified seed by Virginia was reported by the committee of agronomy, State agricultural advisory council, in a resume for the last five years prepared by submission today to the advisory council in special session at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

Basing its conclusions on reports from county agents and lime companies estimated that there has been a 94 per cent increase in ground limestone used in the State since the beginning of the five-year period. Likewise, it was concluded that 17 per cent more high analysis fertilizer was used in 1927 over the amount used in 1923.

There was an increase in crop rotation of 17 per cent also, the committee deduced from reports from county agents.

Increase in use of seeds recommended by the State experiment station and the agronomy department was 12 per cent, based on reports from State seedmen.

Other seeds recommended by the Virginia Crop Improvement Association showed gains, while declines were shown in sales of seed not included in the recommendations.

"Based on the average of the amounts of the seedmens' sales in 1927 and the county agent's estimates of the 1928 crops, it seems safe to state that at least 14 per cent of the 1928 crop of the State was V. P. I. No. 131 wheat, 10 per cent V. P. I. No. 142 wheat and 5 per cent V. P. I. No. 1 oats," the report declared.

The committee's survey showed that the average yield from certified wheat seed was 19.1 bushels per acre, while the average State yield (all seeds) was but 13.4 bushels per acre for the year 1924. The same year the average yields from certified corn seeds was 36.5 bushels against 21 bushels for the whole State. In 1927, the average for certified wheat was 20.4 bushels against 12.2 for the State, and the average from certified corn 38.3 bushels and for the State 29.5 bushels.

Improved Market For Apples Shown

Program Over Five-Year Period Explained to Farm Experts.

Blacksburg, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—How Virginia's apples have found their way into new and larger markets through methods put forward by the horticultural committee of the State Agricultural Advisory Council was set forth in a report prepared for presentation this morning at a special meeting of the council by F. A. Mots.

The report covered achievements during the operation of the five-year program of agriculture and was presented in connection with the first annual meeting of the Institute of Rural Affairs in session here.

The chief accomplishment along horticultural lines, according to the report, was the passage of the compulsory grading and branding law, which has standardized Virginia apples on the open market and has made them much more desirable to fancy buyers. In connection with standardization the committee reported that it had given assistance in the constructure or remodeling of more than 75 individual and community packing houses. This year plans have been furnished and assistance given in the construction of from 15 to 20 more.

Adults May Compete in Doll Show.

Lynchburg, Va., July 30 (Special).—The annual doll show of the department of playgrounds here next Friday is expected to attract entrants from adults, who will compete for the oldest and most unique dolls. A playlet, "A Doll's Wedding," will be given in connection with the show, which is to be held at Miller Park.

RETAIL TRADE GAINS IN FIFTH DISTRICT

EMPLOYMENT IS BETTER

Richmond, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Prospects for agriculture, on the whole, appear to be fairly good in the Fifth Federal reserve district, according to the monthly business and agricultural summary issued by the Richmond Federal Reserve Bank.

Retail trade in June, in so far as reflected in department store sales, was better than in June, 1928, and aggregate sales for the first half year exceeded sales the first half of 1928, but wholesale trade in June was less than in June last year in all lines for which figures were available except shoes.

There was a moderate credit expansion in the Fifth district during June with member banks increasing their outstanding loans and also their rediscounts at the reserve bank. At the middle of July the bank was rediscounting less for city bank membeis than a year ago, but country bank members were borrowing slightly more. Debits to individual accounts during the four weeks ended July 10 were seasonably larger than during the preceding four weeks, and also were larger than for the same period of 1928. Deposits in both mutual savings and member banks rose during June, but at the end of the month were lower than on June 30, 1928.

Business Failures Fewer.

Business failures in the district were less for the first six months than for the corresponding period of 1928, but the month of June was higher in insolvencies and liabilities than any recent June. There were 138 business failures in the district during June, coming next to June, 1927, in total, when 142 were listed, with liabilities of $2,534,991, or exceeding all other June figures since 1924. During the six-month period total failures numbered 825, involving $13,436,178, compared to 840 insolvencies, involving $18,914,488, the first half of 1928.

Employment is about up to the seasonal level and is better than it was a year ago.

The textile situation did not improve materially during June and early July, but continued better than for the same period of last year. Cotton prices declined about $2.50 a bale last month but recovered during the third week in July.

Coal production in June this year was perhaps a little above the average for this time of year, and total production for the first half was ahead of the same period of last year.

Durham, N. C., ranked third in increased debits shown to individual accounts in clearing house banks of the district, having 8.1 per cent to follow Newport News, with 8.8 and Washington, with 8.7 per cent.

Industrial plants of the district operated full time with the exception of a few textile mills. Building and other construction work continued to employ nearly all workers dependent upon such activities and in the clerical field alone did there appear a marked surplus of labor.

Raleigh Leads in Building.

Only 12 of 32 cities in the district reporting on building operations showed increases in June, 1929, over June, 1928. Raleigh, N. C., led the North State cities with an increase of 108 per cent, the increase in value of buildings this year being $151,296 compared to the 1928 figure. Wilmington, N. C., was the only other city in that State to show an increase, total value in excess of the 1928 June figure being $28,650 for a per cent gain of 98.8.

Textile mills of the fifth district nearly all operated at full time during June. No new labor troubles developed but several had machinery tied up due to strikes. The district mills used 243,682 bales of cotton, North Carolina leading with 130,736 and South Carolina coming next with 104,786. The figure was better than for June, 1928, when only 222,235 bales were used.

For the third successive month June consumption figures in the fifth district failed to gain in percentage of national consumption. June, 1929, consumption was 42.7 per cent of national consumption compared with 43.5 per cent of national consumption in June a year ago.

Cotton consumption in American mills during June totaled 570,281 bales, compared to 668,229 bales used in May this year and 510,399 in June, 1928. The first acreage report of the Department of Agriculture, issued July 8, estimated the area in cultivation at 3.2 per cent larger than the acreage in 1928, the largest increase being from Alabama westward. Virginia, with 89,000 acres, showed the largest increase, 10 per cent, in the fifth district; North Carolina with 1,911,000 shows an increase of 1 per cent and South Carolina with 2,410,000 acres, had a decrease of 3 per cent.

Tobacco Acreage Large.

North Carolina's tobacco acreage was reported at 5 per cent larger than that of 1928, but the condition of 89 per cent on July 1 was 3 per cent below that of July 1, 1928. Burley tobacco in the extreme western counties showed the best condition. Curing of tobacco is well under way in many eastern counties and the section included in the South Carolina belt is ready for marketing.

An increase of 1 per cent in total acreage in North Carolina is shown by the summary, the increases of other crops in most instances having been made at the expense of corn. The condition of the corn crop was better July 1 than a year before, and the acreage was about 2 per cent smaller.

Small grain crops showed yields this year appreciably above the average for most years, and the quality of the grain was good. Peanuts showed a condition of 89 per cent of normal on July 1, on an acreage 8 per cent larger than in 1928. Fruit crops are generally short in North Carolina. The early commercial Irish potato crop was cut almost 50 per cent in acreage, but the yield was considered very good and prices were fairly satisfactory.

Maryland Bond Issue Brings Price Above Par

Annapolis, Md., July 30.—The Mercantile Trust & Deposit Co., of Baltimore, was the successful bidder for State bonds totaling $653,000, sale of which was made by the Board of Public Works meeting here today. award was made at a bid of 101.0788. Eight other bidders entered the competition, the lowest offer being that of the National City Coal, 100.9699.

The bonds include $531,000, known as the general construction loan; $72,000 for a road to Edgwood Arsenal and $50,000 for Charlotte Hall School in St. Marys County.

REDEDICATION HELD AT PIONER CHURCH

MANY AT CEREMONIES

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 30.—After undergoing extensive repairs and improvements, the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the Rev. O. G. Brewer is pastor, Liberty, was rededicated in the presence of a large number of persons.

The church was built in 1827 and was opened October 21, 1928. On the site where the building stands was originally a hut, as a market place for the community. People from the surrounding territory came to this spot to dispose of their stock and discuss the problems of the day.

Pipe Creek Church was the first Methodist Protestant Church in Carroll County and is the mother of the Libertytown church. The latter is the pioneer church of the demonination in Frederick County. The first pastor, who served both churches, was the Rev. D. E. Reese. During the years that followed the circuit increased so that an assistant pastor was added to the church. In 1860 Liberty Church was taken from the Pipe Creek circuit and was made head of Liberty circuit.

The first pastor to serve this new charge was the Rev. H. C. Cushing. D. D. The pastors who served from then on were the Revs. D. Shermer, 64-65; L. W. Bates, 66-68; Frederick Swentell, 69-71; E. R. MacGregor, 72-73; John Roberts, 74-75; J. R. Nichols, 76; J. K. Nichols, 77-79; J. M. Brown, 80-81; W. J. Neepier, 82; Jesse Shreves, 83-86; S. T. Ferguson, 87-90 The Rev. J. M. Gill became pastor in 1891. Although he only served until 1892 he was instrumental in erecting the present parsonage. The Rev. W. H Litsinger was the next pastor and served until 1897. W. J. Floyd served for two years, 1898-1908.

The Rev. C. K. McCaslin, 1901-04; C. M. Cullum, 1905-06; J. M. Wooden, 1907-10; J. W. Parris, 1911-15; V. A. Miller, 1916-17; W. F. Bauscher, 1918-20; W. A. Sites, 1920-24, followed in the pastorate.

Calvin Metcalf, John Eisler and Thomas Whitmore have been trustees for more than 30 years, the latter having served for 50 years.

Campbell County Child Has Infantile Paralysis

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 30.—Infantile paralysis made its first appearance here this year when a 3-year-old negro child from Evington, Campbell County, admitted to Lynchburg Hospital for an operation, was found to be suffering from the malady.

The child was immediately isolated and given an inoculation of serum from blood of a former victim of the disease. Dr. Mosby G. Perrow, director of the public welfare department of the city, said there is no danger of the contagion spreading, but an investigation was to be asked of the premises of the home from which the child came.

Farm Home Agent Finds Diets Poor

Advisory Council Hears Improvement Plans in Virginia.

Blacksburg, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Far reaching results have been attained by the home demonstration division in its five-year fstate program, according to the report of Miss R. Belle Burke, district home demonstration agent, prepared for delivery today to the State agricultural advisory council here.

In one county, Miss Burke reported, 158 requests were received by the home agent on the installation of home water works systems. Beautification of the home and premises, as well as the introduction of sanitary methods, have been stressed.

Steps are being taken to correct the diet and dress of rural Virginians, especially children. A study of 577 native white and 323 negro rural children in the State showed that the adequacy of the diet of 52 per cent of the preschool and 72 per cent of the school children is questionable, and that the diet of 30 per cent of the preschool and 10 per cent of the school children is very poor. Quality buying of ready made clothing, as well as the proper construction of clothing in the home has been taught. Among the goals of the program were adoption by farm women of spending plans, the conservation of woman power and a development of responsibility on the part of both parents for the home.

M'Coy Will Tell Institute Of Pan-America Relations

Several Phases of Problem Will Be Discussed Monday, August 12.

BRIG. GEN. FRANK R. M'COY.

University, Va., July 30 (A.P.).—Brig. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, United States Army, who supervised the elections in Nicaragua, will address the third institute of public affairs at the University of Virginia, Monday evening, August 12.

Gen. McCoy's address will be part of a program designed to cover relations between the United States and Latin American, including press relations, educational problems, international treaties of conciliation and arbitration, tariff problems and questions relating particularly to Mexico, Central America, the Caribbean countries and the West Indies.

United States-Latin American relations will be the only international topic discussed during the course of institute, August 4-17, but it is to be given consideration in detail. Three meetings will be held each day of the institute, led by Dr. Clarence H. Haring, professor of South American history in Harvard University. Dr. James C. Bardin, professor of Spanish in the University of Virginia, will serve as secretary of this round table.

At the open forum for this phase of the institute, Thursday morning, August 8, the question will be: "Does the policy of the Department of State of refusing to recognize Latin-American governments set up by force, work to the best advantage of the United States and of the Latin-American countries concerned?"

Among the speakers on press relations and educational problems, the first phase of the topic to be discussed, will be Jacinto Lopez, editor of La Reforma Social; Joseph L. Jones, foreign editor of the United Press, and Miss Heloise Brainerd, chief of the division of intellectual cooperation of the Pan-American Union.

The round table on South and Central American investments will center about a speech by Sumner Wells, former head of the Latin-American division of the United States Department of State. Dr. Ricardo Alfaro, Minister of Panama to the United States, will speak at the session on inter-American treaties of conciliation and arbitration.

Dr. Thomas E. Benner, former chancellor of th University of Porto Rico, and Dr. Henry Kittredge Norton, author and student of foreign affairs, are on the program considering tariff problems.

At the conference on Mexican problems, Carlos Eduardo Castaneda, librarian of the Garcia section of the University of Texas; Dr. Ernest Gruening, editor of the Evening News of Portland, Me., and former newspaper correspondent in Mexico, and Frank Tannebaum, who has conducted surveys in Mexico for the Institute of Economics, will be the principals in the discussions.

The four speakers at the round table on Central American and Caribbean States will be Dr. Sydel Vaca, of Philadelphia, former Minister of Nicaragua to the United States; Dana C Munro, of the Latin-American division of the Department of State; H. P. Davis, author and traveler, and Camilo Borcia Trelles, of the Carnegie Foundation.

Other distinguished persons to participate in the Latin-American program will be Manuel Castro Quesada, Minister to the United States from Costa Rica, and Mrs. Luis Munoz, director of the Bureau of International Relations of the University of Porto Rico.

REVIEWS PUBLIC RECORD

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 30.—Rosewell Page, candidate for governor in next Tuesday's Democratic primary, came to the home town he left 38 years ago to deliver a campaign address. He spoke in the high school auditorium and was introduced by Mrs. Roger Davis. A. M. Aiken presided at the meeting.

Plunging straight to the issues of the campaign Mr. Page said that his platform was the platform of the Democratic party and he stood for everything that has been done by the administration.

He said he voted against the short ballot and against the amendments to the constitution, but that since they had been adopted by the people he now recognizes them as the law of the land and he pledged his support of them if elected.

He appealed for the woman's vote on the ground that he had made the argument to them the right of suffrage and for a woman's college at the University of Virginia. He also appealed for the labor vote as he stated he had always sympathized with labor.

On the ground that he had been the state's trust officer for sixteen years he appealed for the business vote of Virginia, claiming that as president of the board of sinking fund commissioners he had a balance sheet of $6,000,000 which, when checked, was found correct to a cent.

Mr. Page also asked for the vote of the farmer because of his service in drafting the lime grinding bill.

ASSEMBLY MEETING IS LARGELY ATTENDED

OBSERVE WOMAN'S DAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 30.—Despite the intense heat, large crowds are attending the daily sessions of the thirty-second annual session of the Piedmont district assembly, Disciples of Christ, at Assembly Park, near Gordonsville.

Today's program was given over to the work of the Sunday schools of the district. There was a prayer service at 7:30, followed at 10 o'clock by addresses by Mrs. R. A. Graybill, of Dumbarton, and the Rev. Percy Thomas, of Richmond. The speaker at the 11 o'clock service was Miss Jessie Spencer, of Cuckoo. The evening sermon was preached by the Rev. W. S. Hoye, of Louisa.

Tomorrow is woman's day, over which Miss Mary Hankins, of Cuckoo, will preside. Mrs. E. L. Cave, of this city, will lead the 7:30 prayer service, and the devotional service at 10 o'clock will be conducted by Miss Fannie Trice.

Following the roll call of societies and the report of the district secretary, Mrs. Liston Ware, of Shelfar, addresses will be delivered by leading women of the district. Mrs. E. A. Terrell's theme will be "God's Goodness," and that of Miss Isabelle Goss, "Prayer and Missions." Other speakers at the morning session will be Mrs. Kate Perkins, whose subject will be, "Why I Am a Missionary Woman," and Mrs. G. W. Oliver, whose topic will be "What of the Night."

The devotional service in the afternoon will be led by Mrs. C. M. Ford, of Pendleton, following which there will be a report of boys' and girls' work, and a roll call of mission bands. The speakers will be Mrs. Carson and Miss Sallie Boston, of Gordonsville. The day's program will conclude with a sermon by the Rev. W. H. Leake, of Proffit, this county.

F. W. Long, of Clifton Forge, is president of the assembly, and the vice presidents are Walter S. Hoye, of Louisa; the Rev. Edwin S. Sweeney, of Charlottesville; A. L. Clark, of Somerset, and R. A. Atkins, of Louisa.

For 40 years he was a carpenter employed by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Co. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. C. H. Zachary, of Baltimore, and one son, H. S. Bowers, superintendent of waterworks at Dinhigh, Va.

ALLEGED ATTACKER OF OFFICER FREED

J. E. Sampson Acquitted as He Wears Bandage at Alexandria Hearing.

GIRL IS INJURED BY AUTO

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

J. E. Sampson, 20 years old, arrested yesterday by Policeman Brown and charged with assaulting the officer and resisting arrest, was acquitted in police court yesterday. Sampson appeared in court with a bandage on his head, and claimed that he had been attacked by the officer and struck on the head with the latter's revolver.

The testimony was to the effect that Sampson had parked his automobile in a restricted area on King street and was told by the officer to move his machine. Brown stated he placed Sampson under arrest, that Sampson pushed the officer out of the car, and a scuffle ensued, in the course of which the officer drew his revolver and struck Sampson twice with it. Sampson was taken to police headquarters, where he deposited $100 collateral, and then went to the Alexandria hospital for treatment.

Miss Margaret Houston, 17 years old, of Fort Humphreys, was injured yesterday when struck by an automobile alleged to have been driven by Jack Shell, of Lawrenceville, Va. The accident occurred at the intersection of King and Washington streets. Shell claimed the young woman had walked in front of his machine, and that he was unable to stop in time to prevent the accident.

Miss Houston was placed in the automobile of E. S. Cox, of Richmond, and taken to the Alexandria Hospital for treatment. She sustained bruises, but was able to leave the hospital after first-aid treatment.

The civil suit of Morris Bond against Clyde B. Lanham to recover $1,000 as damages to an automobile caused as a result of an accident July 6, was heard yesterday before Justice William S. Snow, who took the case under advisement, pending further evidence.

The conditoon of Miss Sybil Means, 28-year-old hitch-hiker, who is in the Alexandria Hospital suffering from the result of an alleged assault committed by an unidentified motorist while she was walking on the Washington-Richmond highway south of Pohick Church Monday morning, was reported at the hospital yesterday as considerably improved. The Fairfax County authorities, who are investigating the occurrence, have been unable to find any trace of the woman's assailant. Her condition, according to Dr. Samuel B. Moore, who is attending her, is not serious.

A fire alarm yesterday was caused by a defective flue, which set fire to a partition in the house occupied by Ethel McCullough, 1017 Cameron street. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals, the loss being slight.
